ATMOSPHERE CLEARS IN KREMLIN

Progress Made As West Envoys Talk To Stalin

Technical Points Will Be Discuss In Next Meeting

MOSCOW, Aug. 24 (AP) — A highly informed source said today a general area of agreement has been reached in the Four-Power Kremlin talks and further lengthy negotiations will deal largely with technicalities.

The technicalities are not trifles and will necessitate considerable negotiations.

Last night's four hour and 40 minutes session with Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov seemed to have cleared the atmosphere here and the source said chances of a solid agreement were "fair."

Conference Is Planned

(In Paris, official French government sources said French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau reported from Moscow that another conference with Molotov probably will be held this week.

(This meeting with Molotov would be to settle procedure for examining certain technical aspects of East-West differences, the sources said. This procedure might include conferenes by financial experts, presumably on the Berlin currency issue, it was added.)

"Some progress" has been made, the source said, and there is no cause for pessimism. The Western Envoys and the Soviets are now said to have reduced their terms to the "lowest denominator."

If there had not been progress at last night's session, the series of talks would have come to an end, the source added.

(In London, informed Whitehall sources said Stalin introduced last night certain "new ideas" offering hopes for an East-West settlement in Berlin. The sources did not disclose the nature of the new ideas, but said their introduction had dispelled fears that the talks would break down after last night's session.)

It was stressed that despite the length of the sessions, the delicacy of the subject and the frankness by both sides, there has been no loss of temper and the conversations have been diplomatically correct and polite.

Statement Is Expected

There were indications that the four powers might make a public statement soon but it is not definitely known when the announcement could be expected since there must obviously be consulations in the four capitals.

Although there is little indication of how much ground such an announcement would cover it was reported it should be at least substantial enough to put to rest some of the rumors around the world."

Moscow newspapers displayed on their front pages today a Tass announcement of the lengthy meeting between Stalin and U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau and British Special Envoy Frank Roberts. There was no editorial comment.

The governments of the United States, Britain and France now have complete reports on the latest Kremlin talks. The three Western envoys met at the American Em-

Boy, 7, Is Fatally Shot By Brother

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 24 (AP) — A seven-year-old boy was shot and killed by his 11-year-old brother while playing in the yard of their home in the nearby town of Willow Street, Deputy Coroner Dr. John P. Helm reported today.

Dr. Helm said Barry Lee Shenberger died after a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle entered his body near the heart.

Tension Off As Berlin Raids End

Election In Red Sector Delayed

BERLIN, Aug. 24 (AP) — Tension eased today in blockaded Berlin as the Russians appeared to have given up, at least temporarily, their series of kidnap raids into the Western Sectors.

Berliners turned their attention to Moscow reports which told of new hope for a settlement of the 61-day-old crisis brought on by the Russian blockade.

Elections Are Postponed

On the internal political front, Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet Zone Commander, announced that elections in the Russian zone have been postponed for one year. It was the first time an occupying power has postponed elections.

Sokolovsky said that if time were taken for the election now, "the attention of Democratic organizations and the population in general would be diverted from a practical solution of their economic problems and the task of improving the general living standard."

The French-licensed newspaper Der Kurier commented that the Russians were striving to hide the political and economic bankruptcy of their zone. Anti-Communists long have predicted the move on grounds that the Russians faced a Communist defeat.

Along the city's powderkeg Potsdamer Square, where the American, British and Soviet sectors meet, Red Army patrols were quiet after days of border-crossing raids ostensibly aimed at black marketers. German and American officials had charged the Russians were attempting to terrorize the anti-Communist population.

The British said they had abandoned plans to string up barbed wire between their part of the square and the Russian side. Some wire was strung Saturday but it has since been removed. British officials said today they had found it unnecessary to go on with the job.

Col. Frank Howley, U. S. Commandant in Berlin, said late tonight no reply had been received from the Russians on an American proposal to remove Soviet, British and American troops from Potsdamer Platz. He added, however, that armed patrols of the three powers had been

ITU Faces Count On Court Contempt

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 24 (AP) —Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert said today attorneys for the National Labor Relations Board have asked him to cite the International Typographical Union (AFL) for contempt of court, charging violation of an injunction he issued against the union last March 27.

The judge said he would study the NLRB petition and then decide what action he would take.

He would not reveal details of the NLRB petition submitted today during a conference with an NLRB attorney.

The petition will be filed in Federal Court tomorrow at Indianapolis, where the hearing which led to the injunction was held, Judge Swygert added.

The injunction restrained the ITU from following its "no contract" policy in its dealing with newspapers.

It also restrained the union from "supporting, authorizing x x x or encouraging subordinate local unions x x x to engage in, or continue to engage in, any strikes, slowdowns walkouts, or other disruptions of any kind to the business operations of employers in the newspaper publishing industry" in maintaining contracts prohibited by the Taft-Hartley Act.

Minister Under Scrutiny After Asking Men To Ignore Draft Law

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP) — A young Methodist minister, already under scrutiny of Federal authorities, calmly repeated today his appeal to draft eligibles not to register for Selective Service.

The Rev. Ernest R. Bromley, 36, told a reporter at his summer home in neighboring Nassau that he believed civil disobedience to military conscription was the only method of preventng a future war.

The minister projected himself into a controversy Sunday when he made this declaration in a sermon.

Brig. Gen. Ames T. Brown New York State Director of Selective Service, asked U. S. District Attorney Irving Higbee at Syracuse to "investigate and take appropriate action."

Higbee said at Syracuse today he there were limits to free speech, as evolved by court interpretations of the Constitutional Right, but declined to comment on the Bromley utterances. He explained he had not yet seen the text or published reports.

Substituting for the pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Nassau, Sunday, Mr. Bromley advocated that young men refuse to register for the draft.

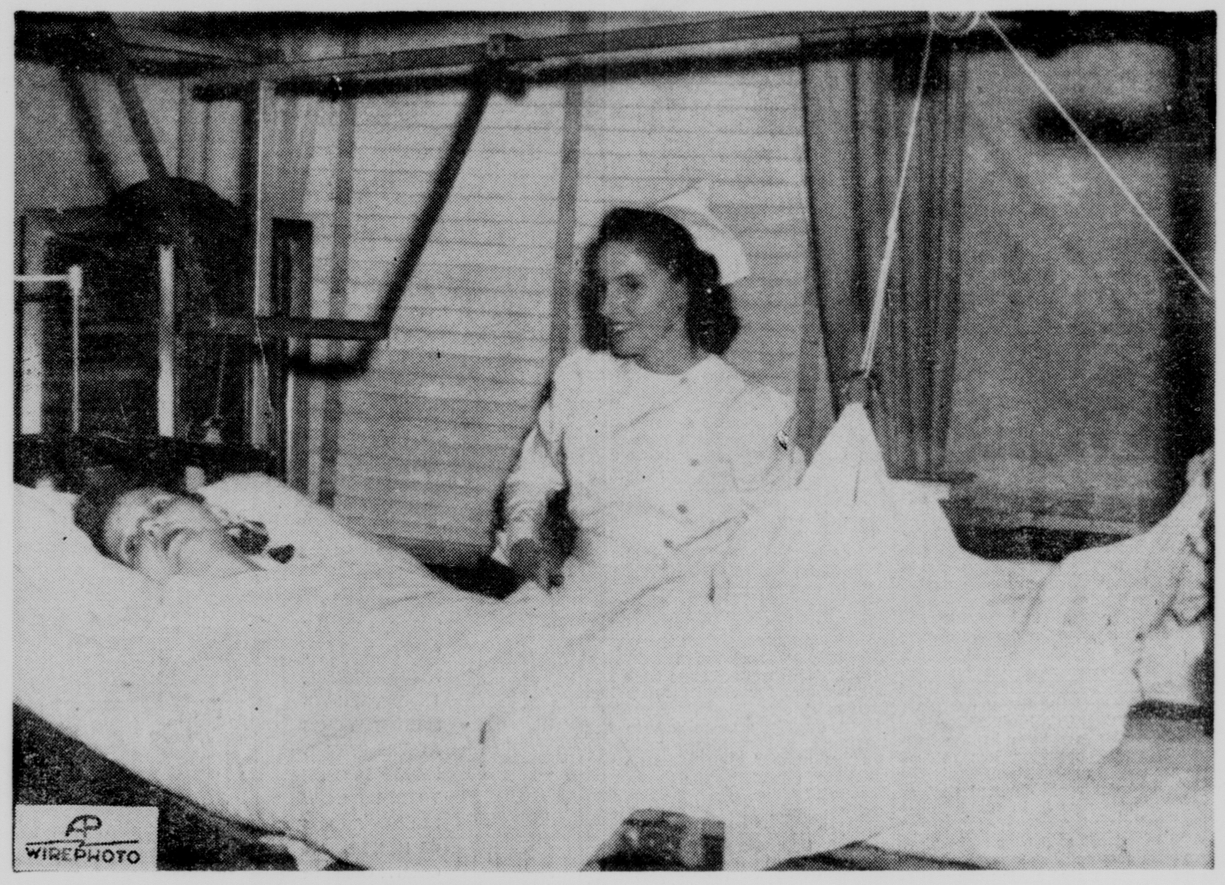

He termed the Selective Service Act "a huge and tragic step toward war, dictatorship and catastrophe."

"Civil disobedience is the only approach now," he told a reporter today.

"I am fully aware of public consequences" of public advocacy of nonregistration, Mr. Bromley added.

A native of Boston, Bromley said he had held pastorates in a number of communities in North Carolina. He last had a church in Stonewall, he said.

He stated that he registered for the draft in 1940, but had been deferred because he was a minister.

Church Council Told Communism Bars Peace Goal

Czech Says West Supremacy At End

AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS, Aug. 24 (AP)—Clashing East-West views on Soviet policy and Communism today were laid before the World Council of Churches by a U. S. Republican Party foreign policy maker and a Czech professor.

John Foster Dulles, a Presbyterian lay leader and advisor both to the Republican Party and the U. S. State Department under a bi-partisan foreign policy, said:

"The Soviet Communist regime is not a regime of peace and indeed it does not purport to be. It may not and I hope that it does not, want international war. But if so, that is a matter of expediency, not of principle."

Dulles, who has been assailed as a warmonger by the Russians, told the assembly:

"Marxian Communism is atheistic and materialistic. Its leaders reject the concept of moral law. There is, says Stalin, no such thing as 'eternal justice.' Laws are merely the means whereby those in power carry out their will, and human beings have no rights that are God-given and therefore not subject to be taken away by man."

Explosion Wrecks Tenn. Coal Office

DUCKTOWN, Tenn., Aug. 24 (AP) — An explosion wrecked a coal company office here today in what Sheriff Burch Biggs said was the aftermath of election violence in Polk County.

Biggs said the office of the Presswood Coal Company was wrecked by "a violent explosion about 1:30 a. m." He said he did not know what caused the blast.

No one was in the building and no one was injured in the explosion, Biggs added. Justice of the Peace W. G. Davis said the explosion "could be heard all over town."

The sheriff said he had been unable to hire a deputy for the Ducktown District since the August 5 election violence that resulted in three deaths and four injuries. Ducktown is 30 miles from Benton, County Seat.

"The situation has been out of hand in Ducktown ever since the guards left. I tried to get the National Guard and state patrolmen not to leave, but wasn't successful" he added.

A National Guard unit and about 50 state highway patrolmen maintained order in Polk County from August 6 to August 11 after Sheriff Biggs reported that his office was unable to cope with the situation.

Biggs was not a candidate for re-election in the August 5 voting. The Democratic organization of his father, Burch E. Biggs, Sr., was defeated by candidates of the Good Government League.

The GGL victors will take office September 6, Sheriff Biggs said.

Rise In Cost Of Living Gives GM Workers Raise

Quarter Million Employes To Get Three Cent Hike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A new upward leap in the cost of living, reported today by the government, brought an automatic wage increase of three cents an hour to more than a quarter-million automobile workers.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that its consumers' price index hit a record high of 173.7 on July 15. The base, 100.0, is the 1935-39 prewar average.

Approximately 265,000 hour-rated employes of General Motors will receive the three-cent increase. Under a history-making contract negotiated by the United Auto Workers-CIO last May, the pay of the GM workers is linked directly to the BLS index.

Wages Fluctuate

Their wages fluctuate one cent an hour for each 1.14 points the index goes up or down. The adjustments come four times a year. This is the first under the new contract.

The three-cent increase goes into efect in the first pay period beginning after September 1.

In addition to the hour-rated employes, some 68,000 salaried employes of the giant motor firm will receive $25 extra in September and another $15 in December, or a total cost of living adjustment of $40 in the period between September 1 and December 1.

Thus, the company noted, approximately 333,000 of its employes will receive adjustments to compensate for the increase in living costs.

Under the GM contract which gave an immediate increase of 11 cents an hour, the CIO United Auto Workers and the corporation agreed to review the index each three months and revise the hourly pay rate upward or downward for each full index point above or below 169.3.

Reduction Has Base

In no event would a decline below 164.7 provide for a reduction in the wage scale, however.

The BLS, calling its index the Consumers' Price Index rather than

Spy Probers To Subpoena 'Chief' Red

Papers Will Be Served Monday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—(AP)—Congressional spy probers expect to subpoena a long-sought prize witness Monday—J. Peters, pictured by a witness as chief of a prewar Red underground in the United States.

Informed today that Peters is due Monday at deportation proceedings in New York, Acting Chairman Mundt (R-SD) of the House UnAmerican Activities Committee said "we are going to have our man there."

And in New York, Mrs. Carol King, attorney for Peters, said her client will be on hand.

Identifies Peters As Head

Wittaker Chambers, claiming to have served the underground before renouncing Communism, has testified to the committee that to the best of his knowledge Peters headed it.

Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller told the committee of the deportation hearing. The Immigration Service said it doesn't know where Peters is now. He is under $5,000 bond.

Mrs. King said in New York that her client "certainly will show up" Monday. She added that Peters' real name is Alexander Stevens, but declined to say where he could be reached.

The attorney said the deportation hearing would be "completely illegal." She said "they're going to a lot of trouble to serve a subpoena on Stevens. The Un-American Activities Committee could have gotten in touch with me and I could have arranged to have the subpoena served. They didn't have

Mrs. Kasenkina Calls Off Press Talks For Time

Indicates She Will Answer 13 Questions

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP) — A press interview with Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kasenkina was called off indefinitely today because newsreel and television preparations tired her out.

The interview would have been the first direct contact of the press with the Russian school teacher since she jumped from a third story window of the Russian consulate August 12.

The 42-year-old teacher was taken off the critical list Saturday at Roosevelt Hospital.

Early today a hospital official said she had recovered enough to be interviewed. Reporters could see her some time today, the official said.

Later a list of 13 questions prepared by reporters, covering her experiences since she first came into the news a week before her jump, was given to the teacher.

The hospital said she would answer the questions later in the day.

Finally 12 newsmen were taken to the door of the teacher's room. But after a half-hour wait they

Rankin Leads In Miss. Primary

[By The Associated Press]

Returns last night (Tuesday) gave Rep. John E. Rankin a big lead over two challengers in Mississippi's Democratic primary.

The 66 year old enemy of Communism and advocate of White Supremacy was ahead of Claude F. Clayton and Raymond Jarvis in the state's first district congressional race.

Clayton, a circuit judge and a combat veteran of World War Two, hoped to force Rankin into a runoff election. He ran a close second to Rankin two years ago. In Mississippi, the Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

In other early returns in the state, Rep. William M. Colmer led Grover C. Doggette in the Sixth District and Rep. John Bell Williams, one-armed war veteran, took a commanding lead over Decatur P. Butler in the seventh district. There also was a Fourth District race between Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy and John E. Aldridge.

New York and South Carolina picked house candidates, too, by the direct vote route. Delaware Democrats selected nominees in a state convention.

South Carolina Democrats nominated 30 year old James B. Hare over former Rep. John C. Taylor in the Third Congressional district.

They were running for the House Seat vacated when Rep. W. J. Bryan Dorn withdrew to try for the Senate. He was defeated by Senator Maybank.

Considerable interest centered on the campaign of Rankin, a nember of the House committee on Un-American Activities. He told the voters his defeat "would be the best news Joe Stalin ever heard."

9 Persons Killed In C-47 Crash

Two Air Force Crafts Collide

NEWTON, N. J., Aug. 24 (AP) — Nine persons were killed today when an Air Force C-47 transport plane crashed and burned after colliding with another plane.

There was some conflict in reports from Air Force spokesmen.

Capt. J. A. Ziccarelli, public relations officer at Middletown, Pa., air base, said the plane left there at noon with seven enlisted chaplain's assistants and two crew members aboard.

An air force spokesman at Bolling Field, Washington, however said the crashed ship started from there neaded for Stewart Field, N. Y., and those known aboard were two officers and five enlisted men who got on at Bolling and two enlisted men picked up at Olmstead Field near Harrisburg, Pa.

The Pennsylvania Air Base said the plane probably was carrying chaplains' assistants to a religious meeting in Connecticut.

The transport crashed in rolling farm country and immediately burst into flames. The charred and mangled bodies were found strewn among the wreckage which was scattered over an area of several hundred yards.

Russell Blakeslee, Newton dairy farmer, said the plane flew in from the southwest "only 400 to 500 feet above ground" in apparent trouble, curved to the left and went into a loop. The transport gained about 200 feet before falling into a tailspin, he said.

The other army plane involved in the crash, a B-25 from Stewart Field, N. Y., returned to its base.

Israel Told To Punish Kidnapers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—The United States demanded today that the Israeli Provisional Government punish the kidnapers of George Paro, chief code clerk of the American Consul General in Jerusalem.

The state department announced Paro was mistreated Saturday night by two captors and accused of being a British spy. Then he was held for nine hours at Haganah (Israeli Army) headquarters which refused to permit him to communicate with the consulate, the Department said. (In Jerusalem, an Israeli Army source said Stern Gang underground members had called him a spy because he resembled a British detective. The Army took charge of him after Sternists released him.)

John J. MacDonald, U. S. Consul General, already has protested to Bernard Joseph, Israeli Military Governor of Jerusalem, and asked an investigation.

In addition, the State Department instructed him to submit the facts to Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Mediator, and a Security Council Commission.

Also it directed James G. McDonald, U S Special Representative at Tel Aviv, to demand that the Israeli government investigate and punish the guilty persons.

One of the two kidnapers was unknown to Paro the Department said, implying that he did know the second.

American Consulates In Vladivostok And Leningrad Involved

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 25 (AP) —The Soviet government has decided to sever all consular ties between the United States and Russia as a result of the Kasenkina Case, the Moscow Radio said today.

Involved are the only consulates maintained by Russia in the United States—those in New York and San Francisco—and the existing American consulate in Vladivostok and the one projected for Leningrad.

It was from the Soviet Consulate in New York that Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, a Russian school teacher, leaped on August 12, touching off a Soviet-American row.

The decision to close the consulates, the Moscow broadcast said, was disclosed in the text of the Russian Government's reply to a U. S. State Department note dealing with the case of Mrs. Kasenkina and another refugee Russian teacher, Mikhail I. Samarin.

Mrs. Kasenkina In Hospital

The State Department had told the Soviet Government that the United States will not turn Mrs. Kasenkina over to Russian authorities against her will. She is under treatment now in a New York hospital.

The involved dispute also has resulted in an American request for the recall of Jacob M. Lomakin, Soviet Consul General in New York, because of his conduct in the case of Mrs. Kasenkina. Lomakin claimed to have "rescued" her from a group of Anti-Soviet Russians.

The broadcast said:

"The government of the U.S.S.R. reject the unfounded statements of the State Department about Soviet government officials and considers the actions and statements of the Soviet Government and its official representatives in the U.S.A. in connection with the case of Kasenkina and Samarin are completely in accord with the legitimate interests of the Soviet Union in defending its citizens from criminal attempts against their liberty and civil rights."

In complaining of the action of Soviet officials in the United States the State Department had said:

"The government of the United States cannot permit the exercise within the United States of the police power of any foreign government."

Referring to the decision regarding the American consulates, the broadcast said the Soviet government decided:

"In accordance with the principle of reciprocity to consider the United States consulate in Vladivostok to be closed immediately. On the same basis to consider the agreement previously arrived at between the governments of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. on the opening of a United States Consulate in Leningrad as having lost its validity."

"Situation Created"

Further, the broadcast said the Soviet Government "states that a situation has recenly been created in the U.S.A. in which the normal executions of their functions by Soviet consulates in the United States becomes impossible."

Quoting the text of the Soviet reply to the State Deparment the broadcast said:

Atomic Workers Vote To Settle Dispute

LOS ALAMOS, N. M., Aug. 24 (AP) —Absentee workers agreed late today to accept a union settlement of a labor dispute at the Los Alamos Atomic project.

Although some shouted protests, a show of hands indicated approval by the majority of the men at a mass meeting in nearby Espanola.

Parents Lose Children That Were Tortured For Stealing

ATLANTA, Aug. 24 (AP)—A father and stepmother lost custody of two children today in a case of alleged medieval torture of their seven-year-old daughter because they said, she stole 25 cents.

The parents were accused, among other things, of leaving the girl stretched on tiptoe in an apple tree with her head fixed in a crotch so if she relaxed she would choke, and of lower her into an open toilet pit and pouring water on her.

Juvenile Judge W. W. Woolfolk termed it" the worst case of cruelty to children I have ever heard of." He took custody of the girl, Martha Ann, and her nine-year-old brother, Donald. On a criminal charge of cruelty to children, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cox were bound over to Fulton County Court on $500 bond.

In an unusual action, Judge Woolfolk released his private record of the case because "this is something I think the public should know about."

The report said on August 16, the stepmother, a former divorcee, accused Martha Ann of stealing 25 cents from a housekeeper. The stepmother wore out two switches on the child and whipped her with slab from an apple crate, the record said.

Previously, the report continued, Martha Ann and Donald had been forced to pull weeds from 7 a. m., to 6 p. m., without being permitted to drink water. They were whipped when they did drink.

The housekeeper, Mrs. Willie Hammond, testified she left the home because treatment of th children left her nervous. Mrs. Hamond said the father asked her to talk to the child when she was in the toilet pit and "it was the hardest thing I ever had to do."

"Situation Created"

Further, the broadcast said the Soviet Government "states that a situation has recently been created in the U.S.A. in which the normal executions of their functions by Soviet consulates in the United States becomes impossible."

Quoting the text of the Soviet reply to the State Deparment the broadcast said:

Church Council Told Communism Bars Peace Goal

Czech Says West Supremacy At End

AMSTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS, Aug. 24 (AP)—Clashing East-West views on Soviet policy and Communism today were laid before the World Council of Churches by a U. S. Republican Party foreign policy maker and a Czech professor.

John Foster Dulles, a Presbyterian lay leader and advisor both to the Republican Party and the U. S. State Department under a bi-partisan foreign policy, said:

"The Soviet Communist regime is not a regime of peace and indeed it does not purport to be. It may not and I hope that it does not, want international war. But if so, that is a matter of expediency, not of principle."

Dulles, who has been assailed as a warmonger by the Russians, told the assembly:

"Marxian Communism is atheistic and materialistic. Its leaders reject the concept of moral law. There is, says Stalin, no such thing as 'eternal justice.' Laws are merely the means whereby those in power carry out their will, and human beings have no rights that are God-given and therefore not subject to be taken away by man."

Rise In Cost Of Living Gives GM Workers Raise

Quarter Million Employes To Get Three Cent Hike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A new upward leap in the cost of living, reported today by the government, brought an automatic wage increase of three cents an hour to more than a quarter-million automobile workers.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that its consumers' price index hit a record high of 173.7 on July 15. The base, 100.0, is the 1935-39 prewar average.

Approximately 265,000 hour-rated employes of General Motors will receive the three-cent increase. Under a history-making contract negotiated by the United Auto Workers-CIO last May, the pay of the GM workers is linked directly to the BLS index.

Wages Fluctuate

Their wages fluctuate one cent an hour for each 1.14 points the index goes up or down. The adjustments come four times a year. This is the first under the new contract.

The three-cent increase goes into efect in the first pay period beginning after September 1.

In addition to the hour-rated employes, some 68,000 salaried employes of the giant motor firm will receive $25 extra in September and another $15 in December, or a total cost of living adjustment of $40 in the period between September 1 and December 1.

Thus, the company noted, approximately 333,000 of its employes will receive adjustments to compensate for the increase in living costs.

Under the GM contract which gave an immediate increase of 11 cents an hour, the CIO United Auto Workers and the corporation agreed to review the index each three months and revise the hourly pay rate upward or downward for each full index point above or below 169.3.

Reduction Has Base

In no event would a decline below 164.7 provide for a reduction in the wage scale, however.

The BLS, calling its index the Consumers' Price Index rather than

Mrs. Kasenkina Calls Off Press Talks For Time

Indicates She Will Answer 13 Questions

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP) — A press interview with Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kasenkina was called off indefinitely today because newsreel and television preparations tired her out.

The interview would have been the first direct contact of the press with the Russian school teacher since she jumped from a third story window of the Russian consulate August 12.

The 42-year-old teacher was taken off the critical list Saturday at Roosevelt Hospital.

Early today a hospital official said she had recovered enough to be interviewed. Reporters could see her some time today, the official said.

Later a list of 13 questions prepared by reporters, covering her experiences since she first came into the news a week before her jump, was given to the teacher.

The hospital said she would answer the questions later in the day.

Rankin Leads In Miss. Primary

[By The Associated Press]

Returns last night (Tuesday) gave Rep. John E. Rankin a big lead over two challengers in Mississippi's Democratic primary

The 66 year old enemy of Communism and advocate of White Supremacy was ahead of Claude F. Clayton and Raymond Jarvis in the state's first district congressional race.

Clayton, a circuit judge and a combat veteran of World War Two, hoped to force Rankin into a runoff election. He ran a close second to Rankin two years ago. In Mississippi, the Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

In other early returns in the state, Rep. William M. Colmer led Grover C. Doggette in the Sixth District and Rep. John Bell Williams, one-armed war veteran, took a commanding lead over Decatur P. Butler in the seventh district. There also was a Fourth District race between Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy and John E. Aldridge.

New York and South Carolina picked house candidates, too, by the direct vote route. Delaware Democrats selected nominees in a state convention.

South Carolina Democrats nominated 30 year old James B. Hare over former Rep. John C. Taylor in the Third Congressional district.

They were running for the House Seat vacated when Rep. W. J. B. Dorn withdrew to try for the Senate. He was defeated by Senator Maybank

Considerable interest centered on the campaign of Rankin, a nemeber of the House committee on Un-American Activities. He told the voters his defeat "would be the best news Joe Stalin ever heard."

Israel Told To Punish Kidnapers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—The United States demanded today that the Israeli Provisional Government punish the kidnapers of George Paro, chief code clerk of the American Consul General in Jerusalem.

The state department announced Paro was mistreated Saturday night by two captors and accused of being a British spy. Then he was held for nine hours at Haganah (Israeli Army) headquarters which refused to permit him to communicate with the consulate, the Department said. (In Jerusalem, an Israeli Army source said Stern Gang underground members had called him a spy because he resembled a British detective. The Army took charge of him after Sternists released him.)

John J. MacDonald, U. S. Consul General, already has protested to Bernard Joseph, Israeli Military Governor of Jerusalem, and asked an investigation.

In addition, the State Department instructed him to submit the facts to Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Mediator, and a Security Council Commission.

Also it directed James G. McDonald, U S Special Representative at Tel Aviv, to demand that the Israeli government investigate and punish the guilty persons.

One of the two kidnapers was unknown to Paro the Department said, implying that he did know the second.

Boy, 7, Is Fatally Shot By Brother

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 24 (AP) — A seven-year-old boy was shot and killed by his 11-year-old brother while playing in the yard of their home in the nearby town of Willow Street, Deputy Coroner Dr. John P. Helm reported today.

Dr. Helm said Barry Lee Shenberger died after a bullet from a .22 caliber rifle entered his body near the heart.

ITU Faces Count On Court Contempt

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 24 (AP) —Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert said today attorneys for the National Labor Relations Board have asked him to cite the International Typographical Union (AFL) for contempt of court, charging violation of an injunction he issued against the union last March 27.

The judge said he would study the NLRB petition and then decide what action he would take.

He would not reveal details of the NLRB petition submitted today during a conference with an NLRB attorney.

The petition will be filed in Federal Court tomorrow at Indianapolis, where the hearing which led to the injunction was held, Judge Swygert added.

The injunction restrained the ITU from following its "no contract" policy in its dealing with newspapers.

It also restrained the union from "supporting, authorizing x x x or encouraging subordinate local unions x x x to engage in, or continue to engage in, any strikes, slowdowns walkouts, or other disruptions of any kind to the business operations of employers in the newspaper publishing industry" in maintaining contracts prohibited by the Taft-Hartley Act.

Spy Probers To Subpoena 'Chief' Red

Papers Will Be Served Monday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—(AP)—Congressional spy probers expect to subpoena a long-sought prize witness Monday—J. Peters, pictured by a witness as chief of a prewar Red underground in the United States.

Informed today that Peters is due Monday at deportation proceedings in New York, Acting Chairman Mundt (R-SD) of the House UnAmerican Activities Committee said "we are going to have our man there."

And in New York, Mrs. Carol King, attorney for Peters, said her client will be on hand.

Identities Peters As Head

Wittaker Chambers, claiming to have served the underground before renouncing Communism, has testified to the committee that to the best of his knowledge Peters headed it.

Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller told the committee of the deportation hearing. The Immigration Service said it doesn't know where Peters is now. He is under $5,000 bond.

Mrs. King said in New York that her client "certainly will show up" Monday. She added that Peters' real name is Alexander Stevens, but declined to say where he could be reached.

The attorney said the deportation hearing would be "completely illegal." She said "they're going to a lot of trouble to serve a subpoena on Stevens. The Un-American Activities Committee could have gotten in touch with me and I could have arranged to have the subpoena served. They didn't have

DUCKTOWN, Tenn., Aug. 24 (AP) — An explosion wrecked a coal company office here today in what Sheriff Burch Biggs said was the aftermath of election violence in Polk County.

Biggs said the office of the Presswood Coal Company was wrecked by "a violent explosion about 1:30 a. m." He said he did not know what caused the blast.

No one was in the building and no one was injured in the explosion, Biggs added. Justice of the Peace W G. Davis said the explosion "could be heard all over town."

The sheriff said he had been unable to hire a deputy for the Ducktown District since the August 5 election violence that resulted in three deaths and four injuries. Ducktown is 30 miles from Benton, County Seat.

"The situation has been out of hand in Ducktown ever since the guards left. I tried to get the National Guard and state patrolmen but to leave, but wasn't successful" he added.

A National Guard unit and about 50 state highway patrolmen maintained order in Polk County from August 6 to August 11 after Sheriff Biggs reported that his office was unable to cope with the situation

Biggs was not a candidate for re-election in the August 5 voting. The Democratic organization of his father, Burch E. Biggs, Sr., was defeated by candidates of the Good Government League.

The GGL victors will take office September 6, Sheriff Biggs said.

Minister Under Scrutiny After Asking Men To Ignore Draft Law

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP) — A young Methodist minister, already under scrutiny of Federal authorities, calmly repeated today his appeal to draft eligibles not to register for Selective Service.

The Rev. Ernest R. Bromley, 36 told a reporter at his summer home in neighboring Nassau that he believed civil disobedience to military conscription was the only method of preventng a future war.

The minister projected himself into a controversy Sunday when he made this declaration in a sermon.

Brig. Gen. Ames T. Brown New York State Director of Selective Service, asked U. S. District Attorney Irving Higbee at Syracuse to "investigate and take appropriate action."

Higbee said at Syracuse today he there were limits to free speech, as evolved by court interpretations of the Constitutional Right, but declined to comment on the Bromley utterances. He explained he had not yet seen the text or published reports.

Substituting for the pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Nassau, Sunday, Mr. Bromley advocated that young men refuse to register for the draft.

He termed the Selective Service Act "a huge and tragic step toward war, dictatorship and catastrophe."

"Civil disobedience is the only approach now," he told a reporter today.

"I am fully aware of public consequences" of public advocacy of nonregistration, Mr. Bromley added.

A native of Boston, Bromley said he had held pastorates in a number of communities in North Carolina. He last had a church in Stonewall, he said.

He stated that he registered for the draft in 1940, but had been deferred because he was a minister.

Atomic Workers Vote To Settle Dispute

LOS ALAMOS, N. M., Aug. 24 (AP) —Absentee workers agreed late today to accept a union settlement of a labor dispute at the Los Alamos Atomic project.

Although some shouted protests, a show of hands indicated approval by the majority of the men at a mass meeting in nearby Espanola.

Parents Lose Children That Were Tortured For Stealing

ATLANTA, Aug. 24 (AP)—A father and stepmother lost custody of two children today in a case of alleged medieval torture of their seven-year-old daughter because they said, she stole 25 cents.

The parents were accused, among other things, of leaving the girl stretched on tiptoe in an apple tree with her head fixed in a crotch so if she relaxed she would choke, and of lower her into an open toilet pit and pouring water on her.

Juvenile Judge W. W. Woolfolk termed it" the worst case of cruelty to children I have ever heard of." He took custody of the girl, Martha Ann, and her nine-year-old brother, Donald. On a criminal charge of cruelty to children, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cox were bound over to Fulton County Court on $500 bond.

In an unusual action, Judge Woolfolk released his private record of the case because "this is something I think the public should know about."

The report said on August 16, the stepmother, a former divorcee, accused Martha Ann of stealing 25 cents from a housekeeper. The stepmother wore out two switches on the child and whipped her with slab from an apple crate, the record said.

Previously, the report continued, Martha Ann and Donald had been forced to pull weeds from 7 a. m., to 6 p. m., without being permitted to drink water. They were whipped when they did drink.

The housekeeper, Mrs. Willie Hammond, testified she left the home because treatment of th children left her nervous. Mrs. Hamond said the father asked her to talk to the child when she was in the toilet pit and "it was the hardest thing I ever had to do."

Kaiser Assails Attack On Ohio Plant Contract

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — The Head of Kaiser-Frazer Corp. today told President Truman that if the government cancels his contract for the Cleveland blast furnace it could "destroy the very sanctity of contracts."

The War Assets Administration has leased the plant to Kaiser-Frazer. Protests by Republic Steel Corp. and Preston Tucker have led to a Congressional investigation beginning tomorrow morning.

Assailing Republic President Charles M. White in a telegram to the President, Henry Kaiser, chairman of the K-F board, said today: "Never before in my memory has any person or corporation had the effrontery to insult the President of the United States by asking him to scrap as a worthless piece of paper, in Hitler fashion, a contract entered into and on behalf of the United States. x x x"

The War Assets Administration signed a contract with Kaiser-Frazer August 17 to take over the $28,000,000 plant. The terms included permission to buy the plant for $14,200,000, or to lease it. Under the lease, annual payments would depend on production, but never below $800,000.

Republic Steel Corporation, which has operated the furnace since it was built during the war, and Preston Tucker, who has been trying to get a new-type car into production, protested the lease.

Republic officials said the rental allowed Kaiser-Frazer was less than half the $2,500,000 the WAA had been demanding from them. C. M. White, Republic president, said that WAA negotiations with K-F had been "clandestine." He also said the action may force the shutdown of many foundries which have been replying on Republic for pig iron.

Tucker protested that his bids had been rejected although his top offer was higher than the K-F figure.

WAA, on the eve of the hearing tomorrow by the Senate Small Business Committee and a House procurement subcommittee, endied that it held any secret dealings with K-F.

WAA Administrator Jess Larson also said the Republic charge about K-F rental being low was "obviously based on incorrent information."

a cost of living measurement, reported the new figure was 9.7 percent higher than a year ago and 30.3 per cent above the June 1946 level. It was 76.2 per cent above pre-war August, 1939.

The GM contract provides for an increase of one cent an hour for each 1.14 points the index advances. After the initial 11-cent increase in May, the average wage of GM employes was reported to be $1.61 an hour.

The living cost index has risen from 169.3, where it stood April 15, prior to the contract, to 173.7, an increase of 4.4 points. This was sufficient for a three cent raise, and almost enough for four.

The Bureau reported a rise between June 15 and July 15 of 1.2 per cent in the average prices of goods and services purchased by moderate-income families in large cities.

Armed Forces Call "Quits" To Mounting Inter-Service Rivalry

Joint Decision Given Publicly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—(AP)—Top men of the Army, Navy and Air Force called "quits" jointly and publicly today on the recently increasing inter-service rivalry, especially between the Navy and Air Force.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff; Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Chief, addressed a meeting of 300 top Army, Navy and Air Force planning officers. Each asked that the "harmony" word be passed down the line.

Disagreement between the Air Force and Navy had been mounting over their individual interpretations of just how much ground is covered by a ruling that authority and responsibility in strategic air warfare belong to the Air Force.

The row was a top item of business at a joint Chiefs of Staff meeting in Newport, R. I., over the weekend with Secretary of Defense Forrestal as referee.

Forrestal told th military planners he is convinced that at the top command level there is a "clear understanding" that the Air Force has the responsibility of strategic air warfare.

But also the Air Force understands that it is "not merely to permit but to seek all the help it can get from Naval air in the use of air power, either strategically or tactically," he added.

Likewise, the Navy is assigned the job of anti-submarine warfare, Forrestal said. But it understands that it is "to invite all the help it can get from the Air Force in carrying out this mission."

The decisions made at the Newport meeting "reflects neither a victory for the Air Force nor a defeat for the Navy," Forrestal said.

"They do reflect my views, and if followed through with sincerity and tenacity, will mean a victory for the country."

withdrawn from the square and that all was quiet there.

Message Is Transmitted

The American liaison officer who approached the Russians with the suggestion yesterday said a Soviet officer told him he would transmit it to the Berlin Commandant, Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov.

The American proposal would leave sector borders to patrols of German police in hopes the Germans, even though split into east and west forces, might find a way to co-operate.

The American liaison officer said the Russian deputy for police matters with whom he spoke agreed something should be done to relieve the border tension. If Kotikov's reaction is favorable, the Americans said, an agreement will be sought which they hope will straighten things out.

In the air lift over the Russian blockade, tragedy struck again with the collision of two American C-47 transports in the air near Frankfurt. Four crew members were killed, bringing to nine the total of Americans killed in crashes during the air supply operation.

The accident marred the U. S. Air Force's new record day of 3,020 tons of supplies in 393 flights. The Royal Air Force flew 297 sorties.

Moscow Radio

"It will be seen from the State Department's note of August 19 that the United States Government not only does not intend to put an end to those actions of American administrative authorities which are creating such a situation—to the extent of American police invading the premises of the Soviet consulate in New York as was the case August 12—but on the contrary justifies such a manifest violation of the rules accepted in international practice."

This was a reference to the action of New York police at the time Mrs. Kasenkina jumped from a third floor window of the Soviet consulate and was taken to a hospital.

While she has been in the hospital, Mrs. Kasenkina has refused to see Soviet authorities.

The Soviet reply claimed that at present she now is in the hospital "virtually under prison conditions." The broadcast said that since "free communication between her and Soviet representatives is not permitted, statements ascribed to her cannot be considered as deserving any confidence, especially if one takes into consideration the serious condition of her health."

Mrs. Kasenkina had planned to hold a press interview yesterday, but this was postponed after she became exhausted by preparations for coverage of the event.

Four Pilots Die In Airlift Crash

RAVOTZHAUSEN, GERMANY, Aug. 24 (AP)—Four Americans died today in the flaming wreckage of two C-47 air lift planes which collided in the air here.

Air force officials said the two-man crew of each of the planes was killed, bringing to nine the total of dead since the air supply operation for blockaded Berlin began on June 26. Three bodies had been recovered tonight and a fourth was believed to be in the charred remains of one of the planes.

The two-engined planes were returning to Wiesbaden in overcast weather after helping the air lift set a new record in supplying Russion-blockaded Berlin. The planes carried a share of the 3,200 tons of food and supplies sent to the city in a 24-hour period.

German farmers who witnessed the crash near this little town in the American occupation zone said one plane had just come out of the overcast. The pilot apparently was unaware of the other plane until too late.

The nose of one plane tore off the tail of the other, both plunged down in uncontrolled spirals. They crashed about a half mile apart in recently harvested farmland.

Flames prevented rescuers from reaching the bodies until an hour later.

Identifications were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Commenting on the collision, Air Force Headquarters said in a statement:

"The major accident rate for 'Vittles' Aircraft continued to be two-thirds less than the overall U. S. Air Force Average. The Air Force definition of a 'major accident' is one that requires 10 man-hours for repair.

"The fatal accident rate for planes in the air lift task force is approximately the same as that of the U. S. Air Force as a whole."

Mrs. Kasenkina

were told by a police lieutenant:

"The excitement of the preparations has been so great that Mrs. Kasenkina is tired and she doesn't want to see anyone from the press."

A hospital spokesman said the teacher "still wants to see the press but no date for the interview has been set."

The questions submitted to the teacher by the reporters asked "why did you jump?" and "what do you want to do after you leave the hospital?" They also asked her to verify reports through police and hospital authorities that she had refused to see anyone from the consulate and, during a hospital visit by Vice Consul Zot I. Chepurnykh, had accused him of keeping her prisoner at the consulate.

Laughs at Question

Asked about Chambers' statement that her client headed the Communist underground, Mrs. King laughed and said:

"I will say it is more of, quote, Mr. Truman's Red Herring."

The President has repeatedly said the Congressional Spy probe was a "Red Herring" designed to distract attention from Congressional failure to act on his anti-inflation proposal and other measures.

In another development in Capitol Hill's anti-subversive campaign, the Senate Investigating Committee announced that Attorney General Tom Clark has offered to meet with Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) on September 8 to discuss Ferguson's demand for loyalty data on federal workers.

Ferguson wants information on the William W. Remington case. He is a State Department official who Ferguson says was transferred to a confidential position while undergoing an FBI check. The Senator wants to know whether government agencies have ignored FBI notices in personnel shifts while investigations are under way.

Meanwhile, the House Committee received an angry protest from Alger Hiss, former high-bracket federal official, who accused the committee of "verdict-first, testimony-later tactics" and urged the House Group to "get down to business" in its spy inquiry.

Hiss sent a seven-page open letter to Chairman Thomas (R-NJ), challenging the committee to "delay no longer in penetrating to the bedrock of the facts revelant to the charge which you have publicized—that I am or have been a Communist."

Hiss devoted three pages of the letter to a list of 34 "personages of recognized stature" with whom he said he worked closely in government service. The list included Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Harold Stassen, John F. Dulles and three former Secretaries of State, Cordell Hull, Edward Stettinius and James F. Byrnes.

"I too have had a not insignificant role in the magnificent achievements of our nation in recent times," Hiss wrote.

Hiss put out his letter to newsmen as the House Committee concluded a day-long session of questioning five new witnesses behind closed doors, setting the stage for tomorrow's face-to-face meeting between Hiss and his accuser, Chambers.

The two key figures will confront each other publicly for the first time when they appear before the committee in open session.

Kaiser Assails Attack On Ohio Plant Contract

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — The Head of Kaiser-Frazer Corp. today told President Truman that if the government cancels his contract for the Cleveland blast furnace it could "destroy the very sanctity of contracts."

The War Assets Administration has leased the plant to Kaiser-Frazer. Protests by Republic Steel Corp. and Preston Tucker have led to a Congressional investigation beginning tomorrow morning.

Assailing Republic President Charles M. White in a telegram to the President, Henry Kaiser, chairman of the K-F board, said today:

"Never before in my memory has any person or corporation had the effrontery to insult the President of the United States by asking him to scrap as a worthless piece of paper, in Hitler fashion, a contract entered into and on behalf of the United States. x x x"

The War Assets Administration signed a contract with Kaiser-Frazer August 17 to take over the $28,000,000 plant. The terms included permission to buy the plant for $14,200,000, or to lease it. Under the lease, annual payments would depend on production, but never below $800,000.

Republic Steel Corporation, which has operated the furnace since it was built during the war, and Preston Tucker, who has been trying to get a new-type car into production, protested the lease.

Republic officials said the rental allowed Kaiser-Frazer was less than half the $2,500,000 the WAA had been demanding from them. C. M. White, Republic president, said that WAA negotiations with K-F had been "clandestine." He also said the action may force the shutdown of many foundries which have been replying on Republic for pig iron.

Tucker protested that his bids had been rejected although his top offer was higher than the K-F figure.

WAA, on the eve of the hearing tomorrow by the Senate Small Business Committee and a House procurement subcommittee, endied that it held any secret dealings with K-F.

WAA Administrator Jess Larson also said the Republic charge about K-F rental being low was "obviously based on incorrent information."

Rise In Cost

a cost of living measurement, reported the new figure was 9.7 per cent higher than a year ago and 30.3 per cent above the June 1946 level. It was 76.2 per cent above pre-war August, 1939.

The GM contract provides for an increase of one cent an hour for each 1.14 points the index advances. After the initial 11-cent increase in May, the average wage of GM employes was reported to be $1.61 an hour.

The living cost index has risen from 169.3, where it stood April 15, prior to the contract, to 173.7, an increase of 4.4 points. This was sufficient for a three cent raise, and almost enough for four.

The Bureau reported a rise between June 15 and July 15 of 1.2 per cent in the average prices of goods and services purchased by moderate-income families in large cities.

Armed Forces Call "Quits" To Mounting Inter-Service Rivalry

Joint Decision Given Publicly

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff; Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Chief, addressed a meeting of 300 top Army, Navy and Air Force planning officers. Each asked that the "harmony" word be passed down the line.

Disagreement between the Air Force and Navy had been mounting over their individual interpretations of just how much ground is covered by a ruling that authority and responsibility in strategic air warfare belong to the Air Force.

The row was a top item of business at a joint Chiefs of Staff meeting in Newport, R. I., over the weekend with Secretary of Defense Forrestal as referee.

Forrestal told th military planners he is convinced that at the top command level there is a "clear understanding" that the Air Force has the responsibility of strategic air warfare.

But also the Air Force understands that it is "not merely to permit but to seek all the help it can get from Naval air in the use of air power, either strategically or tactically," he added.

Likewise, the Navy is assigned the job of anti-submarine warfare, Forrestal said. But it understands that it is "to invite all the help it can get from the Air Force in carrying out this mission."

The decisions made at the Newport meeting "reflects neither a victory for the Air Force nor a defeat for the Navy," Forrestal said.

"They do reflect my views, and if followed through with sincerity and tenacity, will mean a victory for the country."

Tension Off

withdrawn from the square and that all was quiet there.

Message Is Transmitted

The American liaison officer who approached the Russians with the suggestion yesterday said a Soviet officer told him he would transmit it to the Berlin Commandant, Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov.

The American proposal would leave sector borders to patrols of German police in hopes the Germans, even though split into east and west forces, might find a way to co-operate.

The American liaison officer said the Russian deputy for police matters with whom he spoke agreed something should be done to relieve the border tension. If Kotikov's reaction is favorable, the Americans said, an agreement will be sought which they hope will straighten things out.

In the air lift over the Russian blockade, tragedy struck again with the collision of two American C-47 transports in the air near Frankfurt. Four crew members were killed, bringing to nine the total of Americans killed in crashes during the air supply operation.

The accident marred the U. S. Air Force's new record day of 3,020 tons of supplies in 393 flights. The Royal Air Force flew 297 sorties.

Moscow Radio

"It will be seen from the State Department's note of August 19 that the United States Government not only does not intend to put an end to those actions of American administrative authorities which are creating such a situation—to the exent of American police invading the premises of the Soviet consulate in New York as was the case August 12—but on the contrary justifies such a manifest violation of the rules accepted in international practice."

This was a reference to the action of New York police at the time Mrs. Kasenkina jumped from a third floor window of the Soviet consulate and was taken to a hospital.

While she has been in the hospital, Mrs. Kasenkina has refused to see Soviet authorities.

The Soviet reply claimed that at present she now is in the hospital "virtually under prison conditions." The broadcast said that since "free communication between her and Soviet representatives is not permitted, statements ascribed to her cannot be considered as deserving any confidence, especially if one takes into consideration the serious condition of her health."

Mrs. Kasenkina had planned to hold a press interview yesterday, but this was postponed after she became exhausted by preparations for coverage of the event.

Mary Louise Muir Will Is Probated

The will of Mary Louise Muir, Lonaconing, who died August 16, was admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court. Noel Speir Cook was named executor and bond was placed for $1,000.

The will bequeathed personal property to Anna Lees Perry and Mary S. Dick, nieces; bonds and stocks were left to Mary S. Dick, and funds in a loan association in Roanoke, Va., were left to Anna Lees Perry.

Four Pilots Die In Airlift Crash

RAVOTZHAUSEN, GERMANY, Aug. 24 (AP)—Four Americans died today in the flaming wreckage of two C-47 air lift planes which collided in the air here.

Air force officials said the two-man crew of each of the planes was killed, bringing to nine the total of dead since the air supply operation for blockaded Berlin began on June 26. Three bodies had been recovered tonight and a fourth was believed to be in the charred remains of one of the planes.

The two-engined planes were returning to Wiesbaden in overcast weather after helping the air lift set a new record in supplying Russion-blockaded Berlin. The planes carried a share of the 3,200 tons of food and supplies sent to the city in a 24-hour period.

German farmers who witnessed the crash near this little town in the American occupation zone said one plane had just come out of the overcast. The pilot apparently was unaware of the other plane until too late.

The nose of one plane tore off the tail of the other, both plunged down in uncontrolled spirals. They crashed about a half mile apart in recently harvested farmland.

Flames prevented rescuers from reaching the bodies until an hour later.

Identifications were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Commenting on the collision, Air Force Headquarters said in a statement:

"The major accident rate for 'Vittles' Aircraft continued to be two-thirds less than the overall U. S. Air Force Average. The Air Force definition of a 'major accident' is one that requires 10 man-hours for repair.

"The fatal accident rate for planes in the air lift task force is approximately the same as that of the U. S. Air Force as a whole."

were told by a police lieutenant:

"The excitement of the preparations has been so great that Mrs. Kasenkina is tired and she doesn't want to see anyone from the press."

A hospital spokesman said the teacher "still wants to see the press but no date for the interview has been set."

The questions submitted to the teacher by the reporters asked "why did you jump?" and "what do you want to do after you leave the hospital?" They also asked her to verify reports through police and hospital authorities that she had refused to see anyone from the consulate and, during a hospital visit by Vice Consul Zot I. Chepurnykh, had accused him of keeping her prisoner at the consulate.

to hold this illegal hearing." She did not elaborate.

Laughs at Question

Asked about Chambers' statement that her client headed the Communist underground, Mrs. King laughed and said:

"I will say it is more of, quote, Mr. Truman's Red Herring."

The President has repeatedly said the Congressional Spy probe was a "Red Herring" designed to distract attention from Congressional failure to act on his anti-inflation proposal and other measures.

In another development in Capitol Hill's anti-subversive campaign, the Senate Investigating Committee announced that Attorney General Tom Clark has offered to meet with Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich) on September 8 to discuss Ferguson's demand for loyalty data on federal workers.

Ferguson wants information on the William W. Remington case. He is a State Department official who Ferguson says was transferred to a confidential position while undergoing an FBI check. The Senator wants to know whether government agencies have ignored FBI notices in personnel shifts while investigations are under way.

Meanwhile, the House Committee received an angry protest from Alger Hiss, former high-bracket federal official, who accused the committee of "verdict-first, testimony-later tactics" and urged the House Group to "get down to business" in its spy inquiry.

Hiss sent a seven-page open letter to Chairman Thomas (R-NJ), challenging the committee to "delay no longer in penetrating to the bedrock of the facts revelant to the charge which you have publicized—that I am or have been a Communist."

Hiss devoted three pages of the letter to a list of 34 "personages of recognized stature" with whom he said he worked closely in government service. The list included Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Harold Stassen, John F. Dulles and three former Secretaries of State, Cordell Hull, Edward Stettinius and James F. Byrnes.

"I too have had a not insignificant role in the magnificent achievements of our nation in recent times," Hiss wrote.

Hiss put out his letter to newsmen as the House Committee concluded a day-long session of questioning five new witnesses behind closed doors, setting the stage for tomorrow's face-to-face meeting between Hiss and his accuser, Chambers.

The two key figures will confront each other publicly for the first time when they appear before the committee in open session.

Hus Faculty in Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia, gave this view from the other side of the iron curtain:

"What we are witnessing is x x x the end of Western supremacy within the realm of the international order x x x even the enormous wealth, the military and atomic power of the American nation must no deceive us." He said this was a time when "the underdogs of society" are on the march.

Just Between Us

Get Definite Answer To Dance Invitation Before Its Too Late

By NANCY MOTTRAM

(Q) "Dear Nancy: This summer a group of us formed a club and have had several picnics and parties. Now we're planning to have a dance before school starts, and I've asked the boy who's gone to the last three affairs with me. He told me he didn't know whether or not he could make it, and that he'd tell me later. That was two weeks ago, and there isn't too much time left before the dance. I have seen him on the street, but he just waves and never stops to talk. I'm afraid he's going to tell me he can't make it at the last minute, and that will ruin my plans for the dance. What do you think I should do?"

(A) You'd better get matters straight, fast. If he's putting off telling you the bad news until he can work up the courage, it might be too late to find someone else. You don't want to be left out because of his indecision about the whole thing. Make a point of seeing him soon, or calling him and getting a definite answer. If he gives you a positive yes, all well and good. If not, line up another beau and invite him well before the eve of the dance.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A friend of mine and I recently met two boys at a party, and we'd like to see them again. Do you think it would be all right to get in touch with them, or should we let them make the first move?"

(A) It could honestly be called "forward" if you two made the first move to strike up a friendship, unless you decided to give a party of your own and invite them. Why not round up the same fellows and gals who were at that get-together, and choose an evening when your parents will let you roll up the rugs and stock up on coke and sandwiches? It would be perfectly natural to ask them to come in that case. Otherwise, it's strictly up to them to make any arrangements for the four of you to get together again.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I went with a girl for sometime before a friend of hers managed to cause a breakup between us. I was pretty mad at both of them, and haven't bothered to call or speak to my former date for some time. She took the same attitude at first, but now she smiles and says hello when we run into each other at dances and so forth, and I'd like to ask her out again. I've heard that she hasn't been seeing this other girl at all lately, and she might have realized just why things ended as they did. What do you think I should do?"

(A) When you face the facts, you know you want to take her out again. And since she's cooled her friendship with the trouble-maker, she wants to imply that she understands what happened, and would like to see you again, too. Call her and ask about her plans for this Saturday night, and there's a pretty good chance that you two will be able to straighten everything out.

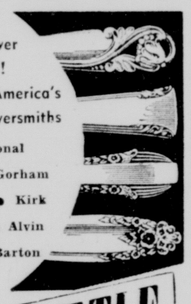

If you have a problem at school or at home, write Miss Mottram for her help.

A Matter Of Legitimate Interest Of All Americans

Alger Hiss, former State Department official and currently head of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, has admitted, as this newspaper pointed out a day or so ago, that he knew Whittaker Chambers, senior Time magazine editor and avowed one-time member of the Communist underground in America, but knew him under another name.

This does not prove, or even necessarily suggest, that there were any disloyal dealings between the two. But it does give the House un-American Activities Committee something definite to go on in this phase of the inquiry into pro-Russian espionage in the United States.

That inquiry is still being assailed in some "liberal quarters as a "witch hunt." Thus Eleanor Roosevelt writes that "smearing good people like Lauchin Currie and Alger Hiss is unforgivable." Mrs. Roosevelt is convinced of this because, as she says, she knows Currie and Hiss "fairly well." Few Americans will agree that this fact would justify calling off the inquiry.

It must be emphasized again that the accusation made against Hiss and Currie have not been proved. But some facts have been brought out which call for explaining The name of Lauchin Currie, former secretary to Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been linked with that of Nathan Gregory Silvermaster. This gentleman was born in Russia, was given a job in the Department of Agriculture by Henry Wallace, was transferred to the Treasury, then to the Department of Commerce and, during the war, to the Board of Economic Warfare. The Naval Intelligence Service would have nothing to do with him. After investigating his case, the Civil Service Commission said he was a Communist and urged that he be dismissed from Government service.

At this point, Silvermaster went to Currie, who interceded for him with Secretary of War Patterson. Silvermaster was continued on the Federal payroll until after the war. Before the committee Silvermaster refused to say whether or not he was a Communist, and declined to answer most questions on the ground that they might "incriminate" him.

We repeat there is much here that needs explaining. Congress has not only a right but a duty to know why the Federal "loyalty check" procedure, which it had authorized and appropriated money for, evidently did not work in the Silvermaster case. Mr. Currie's connection with that case is a matter of legitimate public interest. The fact that he was popular in and around the White House does not make him immune from congressional scrutiny. The United States is not that kind of a country—at least not any longer.

Russia's Lomakin Has Long Been A Bad Actor

Consul General Jacob M. Lomakin who has been requested by the State Department to leave this country has long been a bad actor. Some years ago, when he was stationed in San Francisco, he virtually "shanghaied" a Russian seaman who wanted to stay in the United States. Perhaps it was for that display of Soviet zeal that he was made Consul General in New York, an office ranking next in importance to the Russian ambassadorship. The action by the United States is the only thing a self-respecting government could take.

In rejecting as false, from beginning to end, Russia's charges that the United States "conspired in the kidnaping" of the two Russian schoolteachers, the State Department sent to Moscow a detailed bill of complaints against Lomakin. Though the representative of a foreign power, he hindered New York police in their investigation of the earlier case of Mrs. Kasenkina, who was apparently spirited away from her anti-Soviet refuse. He then imprisoned the unfortunate woman in the Soviet Consulate and drove her to a violent action which for a time threatened to cause her death. Lomakin's whole conduct in this case has been such as to make him persona non grata in the United States.

The State Department's action is the sharpest blow to relations between the United States and Soviet Russia since these were restored in 1933. Naturally, people on both sides of the Atlantic are asking whether the action reflects failure of the secret Moscow conversations or will doom those negotiations to failure. The meeting that is believed by many to be a climax to the series of conversations, has been held. The results will soon be made known. But there need be no connection between them and the Lomakin event. Whether the prospects for an agreement at Moscow are bright or dim, the United States was faced in the Lomakin case with an intolerable abuse of diplomatic privilege and took the only course which relations between two civilized nations would permit.

High Cost Hypocrites

A table published following a survey lists the established prices of various makes of automobiles and "new-used" prices. The "new-used" price is the quotation commanded when a new car, instead of being sold through a regular dealer at the list price, is purchased by a used car dealer and sold at a premium.

For lower priced cars these premiums range from $320 to $1,183. One "low-priced" car, listed at $1,814—which a few years ago could be obtained for $800—sells new on the "used" car lots at $2,997.

Why is this going on more than three years after the war ended? The answer is because production has not attained its prewar efficiency and there aren't enough cars to satisfy demand. Automobile factories are making fewer cars with more labor than before the war. Americans scorn England's practices which have brought the same results but this country has less and less to boast about.

Unions seem to fear that as soon as the market is fully supplied, there will be cutbacks in production and unemployment. The plain fact is that if sufficient cars were produced to supply domestic demand and prices were more reasonable, there would be huge export outlets. Other countries are receiving only token shipments of American cars. In the meantime Americans, because of practices which hold production back are paying enormous premiums for new cars. This is plain "feather-bedding" and those who moan about the high cost of living without pointing to more production as the cure are political hypocrites.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Immunization Schedule

Protection against disease with vaccines and serums has proved remarkably effective as evidenced by comparing the statistics of bygone days with present day figures. Our army experiences also demonstrated the value of immunization as history shows that before its introduction, more men were killed by bacteria than by sword and gunpowder. But we need not go back that far because nowadays, in areas where the procedure is done routinely, the lowest rates of maladies that can be vaccinated against are always noted.

To appreciate the benefits derived from injections of this nature, the effect on a community rather than on the individual must be analyzed. For example, one type of serum failed to work in 9.2 per cent of children who were exposed to the ailment in question. This meant that slightly fewer than one in ten developed the condition against which they were vaccinated. Parents of the youngsters who failed to obtain the desired results had a right to be skeptical and many probably showed displeasure in more than one way. The "shots," therefore were looked upon as useless because they had been unsuccessful in their experience.

The parents did not realize that 90 per cent of the tots receiving them were helped and that of the group who were not vaccinated, 82.8 per cent became ill. Furthermore, these disillusioned mothers and fathers may not have appreciated the fact that the measure was efficacious. Even though it did not prevent the disease entirely, the little one often encountered a light case free from complications. This is the way that the merits of immunization must be considered.

Another aspect of immunization is that many individuals expect too much from it. The results are not always permanent and ,unless repeated from time to time, protection will disappear. Thus a man of 40, who was vaccinated against smallpox as a youngster, may again become susceptible unless the procedure is repeated. Immunizations against various disorders are usually started in childhood and should be completed by the time the youngster begins school. It is impossible to safeguard against every malady but we are fortunate in having preparations to ward off some of the most serious contagious types.

The exact time that this is done is fairly well standardized although it may vary slightly in different communities. The plan generally recommended is to vaccinate first against smallpox between the second and sixth months; repeated at 6 and 12 years and every 7 years thereafter. Whooping cough vaccine is utilized at the age of 5 to 9 months and a booster dose on entering school.

Tetanus toxoid also is administered early, with booster doses at yearly intervals especially during periods when the youngster has a tendency to fall and cut himself in dirty out-of-door places. The schedule for diphtheria follows that of whooping cough and tetanus. But if the Schick test remains positive, it should be repeated when the child is 2 years old and again on entering school. Typhoid vaccine is rarely given before the age of 8 years. Influenza vaccine is an individual problem and plans are now being made to inaugurate a BCG regimen against tuberculosis.

It Say's Here

By BOB HOPE

"Here y'are, kids. Get 'em before the cops come."

That will be the familiar phrase in Sacramento, Calif., when the City Council completes its cleanup of comic books in that city. An investigation is going on now that may reach high into the inner circles of cartoons. Big names in the adventure field will feel the hatchet as the Police Department's juvenile division cracks down relentlessly on the vicious criminals.

The comics, so says the Council, are "deplorable" and have a "detrimental effect" on children. And they're right.

Take "Bathead . . the man with the flying ears." There's no telling how many innocent youngsters have been hurt jumping off garage roofs while trying to flap their loving cups.

And as exhibit "B" there's "Lola Laverne . . Girl Enchantress." She is personally responsible for keeping five little boys' minds off their homework.

If we need further proof it's "Secret Undercover Agent 21-P." He's so secret they can't print it.

Yes, sir, all this stuff has a terrible effect on children. Instead of concentrating on their arithmetic, they just sit there trying to think up new ways to capture Mars.

And racketeers are likely to start a new crime: Bootleg comics. I can see little junior on some dark night waiting at the border for the sound of the motorboat that will bring him the next installment of "Super Schmo."

Of course, deep in my heart I hope they don't do away with all the comics . . . I will have to go back to reading books.

DANIEL IN THE LION'S DEN

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Justice Douglas Nearly Killed in Truck Crash; U. S. Armed Forces Ask $28,000,000,000; Yank Sergeant Pinches Speeding Red Officer

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas had a very close brush with death the other day.

Vacationing in Washington State, the brilliant jurist accompanied a friend who was trucking four horses across the Cascade mountains. While ascending a steep canyon road, the rear wheels of the truck suddenly began slipping on loose dirt from a recent slide.

Before the friend and Douglas could do anything about it, the truck skidded out of control and was hurtling backward wildly. After some distance, the truck finally crashed upside down against some trees, scattering the occupants over the landscape.

Miraculously, neither the men nor the animals were injured.

Eye-Poppers

The preliminary budget estimates submitted by the Army and Navy for next year are eye-poppers.

The two services are asking for approximately $5,000,000,000 more than the $16,000,000,000 Congress voted them this year. The Navy wants over $11,000,000,000 and the Army more than $10,000,000,000.

This stupendous $21,00,000,000 total does not include air force estimates. They are still to come and are sure to be not less than $7,000,000,000.

The 1949 budget is already in preparation. It will be submitted to the New Congress in January by President Truman, whether he is re-elected or not. If they win, G.O.P. leaders are privately planning to demand a voice in the preparation of the budget.

Pinched

In the supercharged Berlin atmosphere, Russian speeding is a constant headache to U. S. authorities. Traffic regulations mean little to the Reds, particularly officers. Once in an auto, they know only one speed—wide open.

But they are slowly learning. This is the way they are being taught:

A sergeant and a trooper of the crack U. S. constabulary flagged down a racing Russian colonel. He stopped, but refused to identify himself. The sergeant, courteously, ordered him out of the car. The Russian not only refused, but wound up his windows and locked himself in the car.

"I guess we had better call an officer, the trooper said. "This bird's looking for trouble."

"Officer, hell," snorted the sergean. "What kind of an army do you think you're in? This is the U. S. Army, soldier. I don't need an officer to handle this guy. If he's looking for trouble, I'm the cookie to accommodate him—all legal and proper."

The sergeant sent for a wrecking truck. The front wheels of the Russian's car were jacked up and, with him still sitting locked glaring in it, the truck started dragging the car to an M. P. station. Whereupon the enraged Russian started his engine and throwing it into reverse tried to tear himself loose.

He not only had no luck, but by the time he arrived at the station his rear tires had been ground to shreds.

Samaritan

Sheriff Michael F. Costello, Providence, R. I., is a unique enforcement officer.

The husky, ruddy-faced Irishman spends his own money to find living places for evicted families. He has even incurred the ire of a judge for refusing to evict a family until it could find another place to stay.

Costello pays for frequent Newspaper "ads" in his search for homes for needy families. One ad was headed, "Remember last Sunday's Gospel, 'Thou Shalt Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself.' The ad listed a number of low-cost residences that Costello had personally found and which he announced were available to distressed familes. Another ad urged tenants to pool their resources and "organize community building clubs."

"If we can do something to build the security of the family," Costello says earnestly, "Then we will be doing a truly wonderful thing."

On The Ball

Minnesota G. O. P. chiefs are strongly pressuring Gov. Earl Warren to bring his whole family to the state to give a much-needed hand to Sen. Joe Ball. He faces a tough fight against young, aggressive Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis. Newspaper polls have shown him leading Ball.

Republican leaders are laying great emphasis on Warren's bringing his family with him. They feel the Californian's handsome brood of boys and girls will be big vote-getters.

Meanwhile, usually very talky Elmer Benson, Wallaceite chieftain, is being strangely coy about whether he'll enter the hot senatorial fight. With Benson in the race, the advantage would be with Ball. Anti-Wallaceite liberals are making strenuous undercover efforts to dissuade Benson from running.

Vaughanites

General MacArthur doesn't know it yet, but he's due to get some political straphangers hand-picked by Harry Vaughan, the President's two-starred, bully-boy military aide.

Vaughan not only designated his own cronies for the Jap occupation jobs but rammed them down the throat of the Army when it objected. The beefy White House functionary forced the Army to accept his friends. He has also planted other cronies in good-paying State Department posts.

Hot Oil

The 15-year-old rift between U. E. oil companies and Mexico may soon be healed. Quiet negotiations are in progress that may again open up Mexico's huge oil resources to U. S. consumers. Both sides are giving every evidence of wanting to come to terms.

The oil companies are frantic for new sources of supply, particularly as handy as Mexico. The Mexican government, in dire financial straits, is equally anxious for new revenues. But it has to tread delicately at home as the exappropriation of the once Yankee-owned oil properties is still celebrated as a national holiday.

What's A Homerun Worth? Let People In A Free Market Say

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

They say that Babe Ruth, the idol of millions, held 54 major league records. There was one more. He was the biggest money earner in the history of baseball.

Starting at $600 a year, he reached a top of $80,000, and in 24 years was paid a total of $925,000. Add another $41,445 as his share in World Series' receipts. Add an estimated $1,000,000 from endorsements of this and that, barnstorming tours, movies and radio appearances. That's $2,000,000. But who says he wasn't worth it? Who envies him a dime of it? Not a soul.

The Bambino's good years were before income taxes took most of the big salaries. In 1930-1931, when he was being paid more than the President of the United States, the tax collector nicked his $80,000 for about $12,000, leaving him $68,000. A man could save something then. If he had played for the same pay in 1947, the government would have taken over $52,000 and left him 34% of what he made.

In 1930, the Babe could put the $68,000 the government left him in a bank at 4%, earning him $2,720 a year. In 1947, what was left on an $80,000 income would earn in a savings bank 1½%, or only $417 to cover costly hospital services for cancer of the throat. And think, too, of what a buck would buy in 1930, and what it will buy today! In one way or another, this hits all of us.

Babe was worth every dollar he earned—the biggest drawing card in baseball. No one begrudges him a penny. But he was lucky. He knocked them out of the park before Uncle Sam began to ask seriously, "What is my share of what you make"?

In a tough competitive world, the boy from the orphans' home made good. He reached the highest rung on the ladder. He inspired millions of boys at the foot of the ladder.

Of course, baseball was more than money to him. There was "the roar of the crowd" that Jim Corbett said always "gets you." And there was the ancient solid satisfaction when his bat, the old "Louisville slugger," met 'er on the nose with two hundred pounds of swinging beef behind it. That does something for a male man. It tickles his he-stuff that comes down from old Mr. Neanderthal himself. When the tickle of achievement goes out of the he-stuff, America will be through.

All I'm saying is, don't monkey with that tickle. No one wants to redistribute the earnings of the Babe. No one says he got too much. Yet a lot of folks claim to have a divine mission to re-distribute the wealth of other men, who got theirs as honestly as Babe got his—men who have the rare judgment to run a business successfully and, as a result, bring money into a town which flows into the grandstands when the King of Clout appears, and makes his income possible.

What is a home run worth? No one can eat it, or cobble his shoes with it. How much is a baseball bat worth? All it's good for is base hits! How much should the manufacturer of the "Louisville slugger" be permitted to make?

Better let the people voting—with their dollars in a free market—decide these things, not the Commies or the Socialists. Then there'll be more Tom Edisons and Babe Ruths, or the makers of radio, which brought the crack of Babe's bat to the remotest sheep ranch in Wyoming, or the television people, or the Edisons who made night-time baseball possible.

Taft-Hartley Law Has Served As An Emancipation Statute

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—A year of the Taft-Hartley law's operations has demonstrated the absurdity of the claim of labor-union bosses that this was a "slave law."

The truth is the new law has served as an emancipation act. Millions of workers can breathe more freely today than they could under the old Wagner Act. This is because today a worker cannot be coerced by a labor-union boss. Many workers haven't found out yet that they can file an unfair labor practice charge against a union boss but many more are learning it every day.

The real reason, indeed, why the union bosses are so violent in their denunciation of the law is that it cramps their technique and prevents them from riding roughshod over workers. It prevents a small group of union strategists, for instance, from forcing a closed shop or a union shop on unwilling workers—there must be elections by secret ballot. It prevents individual grievances from being smothered by union bosses. It prevents the misrepresentation of the facts concerning wage negotiations so that an employer can refute publicly the untruths that used to be told about wage offers.

Driving Out Communists

More than anything else, the provisions of the new law have driven Communists from control of certain unions. The few unions that are holding out against signing anti-Communist affidavits are doing so either because they do not dare offend Communists in their ranks or because they want to show their members how defiant they can be about scorning the Taft-Hartley law.

Today there are more members in unions than there were before the Taft-Hartley bill became law. Collective bargaining has not been frustrated or squelched, as was predicted by the union bosses, but instead there are more contracts in operation as a result of collective bargaining than ever before in the industrial history of America.

There have been fewer strikes since the Taft-Hartley law was passed than there were the year before and those which for a time threatened the national safety—such as the coal strike—have been brought to a peaceful end through the use of the preventive injunction.

Employers were previously subject to injunctions and now both labor unions and employers can be enjoined from doing illegal acts.

Perhaps the most ridiculous of all claims made about the alleged unworkability or unconstitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Act centered for a while on the right of union members to conduct political activities and to use their funds to help elect political candidates of their own choosing.

The courts, as predicted in these dispatches a year ago, have held that it is not unlawful for individual workers to contribute money to political campaign committees. They must, however, do it directly as other citizens do and they cannot convert unions into political committees, collecting funds ostensibly for union dues and using such dues for political purposes without the individual consent of each member.

No Civil or Political Rights Lost

Today, as always, separate political committees composed of union leaders or anyone else can be formed and can canvass union memberships and collect campaign contributions. No civil or political rights of any kind have been lost.

Likewise, all the hue and cry about unions and corporations not being able to publish newspapers that present editorials in a campaign has been stilled, because the Supreme Court has said, in effect, that the law's ban is on expenditures "in connection with" a campaign and not expenses incurred in the regular publication of bona fide newspapers and periodicals.

The union bosses will not cease, of course, to attack the Taft-Hartley Act. It did deprive them of their license and freedom to do as they pleased, misrepresenting the employer's attitude and taking refuge under the "unfair labor practice" provisions of the old law, coercing workers and crying out "unfair labor practice" if an employer attempted to give the facts to his employees.

The Taft-Hartley Act in one year has already operated as a balanced law as between employers and unions. Properly interpreted and sincerely enforced, it will prove the best law yet passed to protect the collective bargaining process and to promote the cause of industrial peace.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Merchants Of Death

Whether or not Alger Hiss was or is or has been or has never been and is not a Communist is something for the Committees of Congress and the Grand Juries and courts to decide and also they have to decide whether he was privileged to be what he was or was not and who is lying.

However, way back in about 1941, I came across the existence of the Ware Group in Washington who were engaged in placing Communists in the most critical position in the Federal Government. I was then told who the original 10 were and among them was mentioned Alger Hiss. I naturally did not publish the name because I could not prove the fact.

However, it is a remarkable coincidence that every name on that Ware list has risen to high office in the Federal Government and is now accused of espionage. I wish further to note that I was then informed that the Dies Committee had turned over to the Department of Justice the full data on the Ware Group.

But this is only incidental to my subject today, which is "Merchants of Death." Quincy Howe, editor of "Living Age" from 1929 to 1935, gathered documents showing that the armament makers of France and Germany were in collusion to make money out of war. This material was eventually published in "Fortune" magazine under the caption "Arms and the Men" (March, 1934.) Those engaged in the business of manufacturing munitions of war were labeled "Merchants of Death."

Senator Gerald P. Nye set up a committee of the Senate to investigate American munitions manufacturers and he traveled up and down the country attacking them, demanding "conscription of wealth," "taking profits out of war." This campaign was so effective that it left the United States without an adequate munitions industry when war came.

I engaged in debates on the subject in several cities, calling attention to the danger of this propaganda, and was smeared as a hireling of munitions makers. So competent was the work of the Nye Committee, of Quincy Howe's material and the "Fortune" article, that anyone whom they attacked and smeared was repudiated.

Now, this Nye Committee possessed vast powers. It could subpoena the files of every manufacturer in the United States whom it suspected of being engaged in the manufacture of arms and munitions; it could investigate the relations of such manufacturers with similar ones in Europe. It could ferret out every research that was being done to improve American weapons of defense and offense. Its authority was so broad that it could go into the files of citizens suspected of relations with arms manufacturers.

Its purpose was clearly and admittedly to disarm America. And that was done as anyone knows who remembers Pearl Harbor.

So we come to Alegr Hiss. He and Charles Kramer, also accused of Communist espionage, were employes, investigators, research workers and aides to Senator Nye.

There again is the long arm of coincidence. Who shall say that it is not true that Alger Hiss, coming out of the Harvard Law School, did not take the Nye Committee on just as a job? He had already entered the government as assistant to the general counsel of the AAA, which was Henry Wallace's organization. He moved from there to be legal assistant to the Nye Committee; from that job he went to the Department of Justice. Since he entered the government in 1933, he has remained in it until last year when he succeeded Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Who shall say that this is not a bright Harvard lawyer trying to get on? Nevertheless, the the fact must be brought out clearly that one of the worst jobs ever done by a Senatorial investigating committee, acting as a propaganda agency, was that of the Nye Committee to disarm America and leave her helpless before a foreign foe. And that job was done in the face of the failure of the London Economic Conference, of a distressed Europe, and of Hitler's rise to power.

Why does not Congress investigate the files of the Nye Committee to discover how that body came into existence and under what inspiration?

The Pride Of Country

Never can I be too grateful for having been born in a free, democratic country. Its blessing are legion. Its benefits are far beyond any country in the world. America—"the land of the free and the home of the brave." Truly that. And linked to it, as a good neighbor, is Canada, enjoying the same blessings.

This year celebrates one hundred years of peace and good will between these two democracies. What a record! May their flags ever wave together, and their hearts ever warm with friendliness! I feel at home in both countries.

But here is a curious thing—there are people in both countries who are ever boring in the dark, and in silence, to undermine these countries that have even illustrated to them how happy a people can be under democratic rule. Some are citizens but for an evil purpose, and others are foreigners, from countries that have never known such blessings and happiness. Then why do they bore, steal, lie, and seek to sabotage what does not belong to them? If these foreign spies so love their own form of government, why don't they stay at home with it and enjoy it?

Also, if people over here think so much of a foreign form of government, why don't they give up the country of their birth and go to the one that suits them, and which they praise so gleefully and freely? These are free lands in this Western World—freer than any on the face of the globe, outside that of England, and they are going to remain just that, no matter how many thieves break in and seek to steal and destroy.

Yes, we live in a free land, but it isn't free to foreign criminals! Why do these foreign agents and spies give up their time and lives to work among happy people, while their own people starve and suffer? What is their pride of country worth?

I am an American. I love my country, and I love Canada, where, for years, I have spent my summer vacations and learned about the genuineness and hospitality of these good neighbors. This pride of country is inborn, and it should forever be held sacred. There isn't an inch of space that should harbor, even for a day, anyone seeking to destroy this pride, its government, or its great institutions.

At this point, Silvermaster went to Currie, who interceded for him with Secretary of War Patterson. Silvermaster was continued on the Federal payroll until after the war. Before the committee Silvermaster refused to say whether or not he was a Communist, and declined to answer most questions on the ground that they might "incriminate" him.

We repeat there is much here that needs explaining. Congress has not only a right but a duty to know why the Federal "loyalty check" procedure, which it had authorized and appropriated money for, evidently did not work in the Silvermaster case. Mr. Currie's connection with that case is a matter of legitimate public interest. The fact that he was popular in and around the White House does not make him immune from congressional scrutiny. The United States is not that kind of a country—at least not any longer.

Russia's Lomakin Has Long Been A Bad Actor

Consul General Jacob M. Lomakin who has been requested by the State Department to leave this country has long been a bad actor. Some years ago, when he was stationed in San Francisco, he virtually "shanghaied" a Russian seaman who wanted to stay in the United States. Perhaps it was for that display of Soviet zeal that he was made Consul General in New York, an office ranking next in importance to the Russian ambassadorship. The action by the United States is the only thing a self-respecting government could take.

In rejecting as false, from beginning to end, Russia's charges that the United States "conspired in the kidnaping" of the two Russian schoolteachers, the State Department sent to Moscow a detailed bill of complaints against Lomakin. Though the representative of a foreign power, he hindered New York police in their investigation of the earlier case of Mrs. Kasenkina, who was apparently spirited away from her anti-Soviet refuse. He then imprisoned the unfortunate woman in the Soviet Consulate and drove her to a violent action which for a time threatened to cause her death. Lomakin's whole conduct in this case has been such as to make him persona non grata in the United States.

The State Department's action is the sharpest blow to relations between the United States and Soviet Russia since these were restored in 1933. Naturally, people on both sides of the Atlantic are asking whether the action reflects failure of the secret Moscow conversations or will doom those negotiations to failure. The meeting that is believed by many to be a climax to the series of conversations, has been held. The results will soon be made known. But there need be no connection between them and the Lomakin event. Whether the prospects for an agreement at Moscow are bright or dim, the United States was faced in the Lomakin case with an intolerable abuse of diplomatic privilege and took the only course which relations between two civilized nations would permit.

High Cost Hypocrites

A table published following a survey lists the established prices of various makes of automobiles and "new-used" prices. The "new-used" price is the quotation commanded when a new car, instead of being sold through a regular dealer at the list price, is purchased by a used car dealer and sold at a premium.

For lower priced cars these premiums range from $320 to $1,163 One "low-priced" car, listed at $1,814 —which a few years ago could be obtained for $800 —sells new on the "used" car lots at $2,997.

Why is this going on more than three years after the war ended? The answer is because production has not attained its prewar efficiency and there aren't enough cars to satisfy demand. Automobile factories are making fewer cars with more labor than before the war. Americans scorn England's practices which have brought the same results but this country has less and less to boast about.

Unions seem to fear that as soon as the market is fully supplied, there will be cutbacks in production and unemployment. The plain fact is that if sufficient cars were produced to supply domestic demand and prices were more reasonable, there would be huge export outlets Other countries are receiving only token shipments of American cars. In the meantime Americans, because of practices which hold production back are paying enormous premiums for new cars. This is plain "feather-bedding" and those who moan about the high cost of living without pointing to more production as the cure are political hypocrites.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Immunization Schedule

Protection against disease with vaccines and serums has proved remarkably effective as evidenced by comparing the statistics of bygone days with present day figures. Our army experiences also demonstrated the value of immunization as history shows that before its introduction, more men were killed by bacteria than by sword and gunpowder. But we need not go back that far because nowadays, in areas where the procedure is done routinely, the lowest rates of maladies that can be vaccinated against are always noted.

To appreciate the benefits derived from injections of this nature, the effect on a community rather than on the individual must be analyzed. For example, one type of serum failed to work in 9.2 per cent of children who were exposed to the ailment in question. This meant that slightly fewer than one in ten developed the condition against which they were vaccinated. Parents of the youngsters who failed to obtain the desired results had a right to be skeptical and many probably showed displeasure in more than one way. The "shots," therefore were looked upon as useless because they had been unsuccessful in their experience.

The parents did not realize that 90 per cent of the tots receiving them were helped and that of the group who were not vaccinated, 82.8 per cent became ill. Furthermore, these disillusioned mothers and fathers may not have appreciated the fact that the measure was efficacious. Even though it did not prevent the disease entirely, the little one often encountered a light case free from complications. This is the way that the merits of immunization must be considered.

Another aspect of immunization is that many individuals expect too much from it. The results are not always permanent and ,unless repeated from time to time, protection will disappear. Thus a man of 40, who was vaccinated against smallpox as a youngster, may again become susceptible unless the procedure is repeated. Immunizations against various disorders are usually started in childhood and should be completed by the time the youngster begins school. It is impossible to safeguard against every malady but we are fortunate in having preparations to ward off some of the most serious contagious types.

The exact time that this is done is fairly well standardized although it may vary slightly in different communities. The plan generally recommended is to vaccinate first against smallpox between the second and sixth months; repeated at 6 and 12 years and every 7 years thereafter. Whooping cough vaccine is utilized at the age of 5 to 9 months and a booster dose on entering school.

Tetanus toxoid also is administered early, with booster doses at yearly intervals especially during periods when the youngster has a tendency to fall and cut himself in dirty out-of-door places. The schedule for diphtheria follows that of whooping cough and tetanus. But if the Schick test remains positive, it should be repeated when the child is 2 years old and again on entering school. Typhoid vaccine is rarely given before the age of 8 years. Influenza vaccine is an individual problem and plans are now being made to inaugurate a BCG regimen against tuberculosis.

It Say's Here

By BOB HOPE

"Here y'are, kids. Get 'em before the cops come."

That will be the familiar phrase in Sacramento, Calif., when the City Council completes its cleanup of comic books in that city. An investigation is going on now that may reach high into the inner circles of cartoons. Big names in the adventure field will feel the hatchet as the Police Department's juvenile division cracks down relentlessly on the vicious criminals.

The comics, so says the Council, are "deplorable" and have a "detrimental effect" on children. And they're right.

Take "Bathead . . the man with the flying ears." There's no telling how many innocent youngsters have been hurt jumping off garage roofs while trying to flap their loving cups.

And as exhibit "B" there's "Lola Laverne . . Girl Enchantress." She is personally responsible for keeping five little boys' minds off their homework.

If we need further proof it's "Secret Undercover Agent 21-P." He's so secret they can't print it.

Yes, sir, all this stuff has a terrible effect on children. Instead of concentrating on their arithmetic, they just sit there trying to think up new ways to capture Mars.

And racketeers are likely to start a new crime: Bootleg comics. I can see little junior on some dark night waiting at the border for the sound of the motorboat that will bring him the next installment of "Super Schmo."

Of course, deep in my heart I hope they don't do away with all the comics . . . I will have to go back to reading books.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas had a very close brush with death the other day.

Vacationing in Washington State, the brilliant jurist accompanied a friend who was trucking four horses across the Cascade mountains. While ascending a steep canyon road, the rear wheels of the truck suddenly began slipping on loose dirt from a recent slide.

Before the friend and Douglas could do anything about it, the truck skidded out of control and was hurtling backward wildly. After some distance, the truck finally crashed upside down against some trees, scattering the occupants over the landscape.

Miraculously, neither the men nor the anmials were injured.

Eye-Poppers

The preliminary budget estimates submitted by the Army and Navy for next year are eye-poppers.

The two services are asking for approximately $5,000,000,000 more than the $16,000,000,000 Congress voted them this year. The Navy wants over $11,000,000,000 and the Army more than $10,000,000,000.

This stupendous $21,00,000,000 total does not include air force estimates. They are still to come and are sure to be not less than $7,000,000,000.

The 1949 budget is already in preparation. It will be submitted to the New Congress in January by President Truman, whether he is re-elected or not. If they win, G.O.P. leaders are privately planning to demand a voice in the preparation of the budget.

Pinched

In the supercharged Berlin atmosphere, Russian speeding is a constant headache to U. S. authorities. Traffic regulations mean little to the Reds, particularly officers. Once in an auto, they know only one speed—wide open.

But they are slowly learning. This is the way they are being taught:

A sergeant and a trooper of the crack U. S. constabulary flagged down a racing Russian colonel. He stopped, but refused to identify himself. The sergeant, courteously, ordered him out of the car. The Russian not only refused, but wound up his windows and locked himself in the car.

"I guess we had better call an officer, the trooper said. "This bird's looking for trouble."

"Officer, hell," snorted the sergean. "What kind of an army do you think you're in? This is the U. S. Army, soldier. I don't need an officer to handle this guy. If he's looking for trouble, I'm the cookie to accommodate him—all legal and proper."

The sergeant sent for a wrecking truck. The front wheels of the Russian's car were jacked up and, with him still sitting locked glaring in it, the truck started dragging the car to an M. P. station. Whereupon the enraged Russian started his engine and throwing it into reverse tried to tear himself loose.

He not only had no luck, but by the time he arrived at the station his rear tires had been ground to shreds.

Samaritan

Sheriff Michael F. Costello, Providence, R. I., is a unique enforcement officer.

The husky, ruddy-faced Irishman spends his own money to find living places for evicted families. He has even incurred the ire of a judge for refusing to evict a family until it could find another place to stay.

Costello pays for frequent Newspaper "ads" in his search for homes for needy families. One ad was headed, "Remember last Sunday's Gospel, 'Thou Shalt Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself." The ad listed a number of low-cost residences that Costello had personally found and which he announced were available to distressed familes. Another ad urged tenants to pool their resources and "organize community building clubs."

"If we can do something to build the security of the family," Costello says earnestly, "Then we will be doing a truly wonderful thing."

On The Ball

Minnesota G. O. P. chiefs are strongly pressuring Gov. Earl Warren to bring his whole family to the state to give a much-needed hand to Sen. Joe Ball. He faces a tough fight against young, aggressive Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis. Newspaper polls have shown him leading Ball.

Republican leaders are laying great emphasis on Warren's bringing his family with him. They feel the Californian's handsome brood of boys and girls will be big vote-getters.

Meanwhile, usually very talky Elmer Benson, Wallaceite chieftain, is being strangely coy about whether he'll enter the hot senatorial fight. With Benson in the race, the advantage would be with Ball. Anti-Wallaceite liberals are making strenuous undercover efforts to dissuade Benson from running.

Vaughanites

General MacArthur doesn't know it yet, but he's due to get some political straphangers hand-picked by Harry Vaughan, the President's two-starred, bully-boy military aide.

Vaughan not only designated his own cronies for the Jap occupation jobs but rammed them down the throat of the Army when it objected. The beefy White House functionary forced the Army to accept his friends. He has also planted other cronies in good-paying State Department posts.

Hot Oil

The 15-year-old rift between U. E. oil companies and Mexico may soon be healed. Quiet negotiations are in progress that may again open up Mexico's huge oil resources to U. S. consumers. Both sides are giving every evidence of wanting to come to terms.

The oil companies are frantic for new sources of supply, particularly as handy as Mexico. The Mexican government, in dire financial straits, is equally anxious for new revenues. But it has to tread delicately at home as the exappropriation of the once Yankee-owned oil properties is still celebrated as a national holiday.

What's A Homerun Worth? Let People In A Free Market Say

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

They say that Babe Ruth, the idol of millions, held 54 major league records. There was one more. He was the biggest money earner in the history of baseball.

Starting at $600 a year, he reached a top of $80,000, and in 24 years was paid a total of $925,000. Add another $41,445 as his share in World Series' receipts. Add an estimated $1,000,000 from endorsements of this and that, barnstorming tours, movies and radio appearances. That's $2,000,000. But who says he wasn't worth it? Who envies him a dime of it? Not a soul.

The Bambino's good years were before income taxes took most of the big salaries. In 1930-1931, when he was being paid more than the President of the United States, the tax collector nicked his $80,000 for about $12,000, leaving him $68,000. A man could save something then. If he had played for the same pay in 1947, the government would have taken over $52,000 and left him 34% of what he made.

In 1930, the Babe could put the $68,000 the government left him in a bank at 4%, earning him $2,720 a year. In 1947, what was left on an $80,000 income would earn in a savings bank 1½%, or only $417 to cover costly hospital services for cancer of the throat. And think, too, of what a buck would buy in 1930, and what it will buy today! In one way or another, this hits all of us.

Babe was worth every dollar he earned—the biggest drawing card in baseball. No one begrudges him a penny. But he was lucky. He knocked them out of the park before Uncle Sam began to ask seriously, "What is my share of what you make"?

In a tough competitive world, the boy from the orphans' home made good. He reached the highest rung on the ladder. He inspired millions of boys at the foot of the ladder.

Of course, baseball was more than money to him. There was "the roar of the crowd" that Jim Corbett said always "gets you." And there was the ancient solid satisfaction when his bat, the old "Louisville slugger," met 'er on the nose with two hundred pounds of swinging beef behind it. That does something for a male man. It tickles his he-stuff that comes down from old Mr. Neanderthal himself. When the tickle of achievement goes out of the he-stuff, America will be through.

All I'm saying is, don't monkey with that tickle. No one wants to redistribute the earnings of the Babe. No one says he got too much. Yet a lot of folks claim to have a divine mission to re-distribute the wealth of other men, who got theirs as honestly as Babe got his—men who have the rare judgment to run a business successfully and, as a result, bring money into a town which flows into the grandstands when the King of Clout appears, and makes his income possible.

What is a home run worth? No one can eat it, or cobble his shoes with it. How much is a baseball bat worth? All it's good for is base hits! How much should the manufacturer of the "Louisville slugger" be permitted to make?

Better let the people voting—with their dollars in a free market—decide these things, not the Commies or the Socialists. Then there'll be more Tom Edisons and Babe Ruths, or the makers of radio, which brought the crack of Babe's bat to the remotest sheep ranch in Wyoming, or the television people, or the Edisons who made night-time baseball possible.

Taft-Hartley Law Has Served As An Emancipation Statute

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—A year of the Taft-Hartley law's operations has demonstrated the absurdity of the claim of labor-union bosses that this was a "slave law."

The truth is the new law has served as an emancipation act. Millions of workers can breathe more freely today than they could under the old Wagner Act. This is because today a worker cannot be coerced by a labor-union boss. Many workers haven't found out yet that they can file an unfair labor practice charge against a union boss but many more are learning it every day.

The real reason, indeed, why the union bosses are so violent in their denunciation of the law is that it cramps their technique and prevents them from riding roughshod over workers. It prevents a small group of union strategists, for instance, from forcing a closed shop or a union shop on unwilling workers—there must be elections by secret ballot. It prevents individual grievances from being smothered by union bosses. It prevents the misrepresentation of the facts concerning wage negotiations so that an employer can refute publicly the untruths that used to be told about wage offers.

Driving Out Communists

More than anything else, the provisions of the new law have driven Communists from control of certain unions. The few unions that are holding out against signing anti-Communist affidavits are doing so either because they do not dare offend Communists in their ranks or because they want to show their members how defiant they can be about scorning the Taft-Hartley law.

Today there are more members in unions than there were before the Taft-Hartley bill became law. Collective bargaining has not been frustrated or squelched, as was predicted by the union bosses, but instead there are more contracts in operation as a result of collective bargaining than ever before in the industrial history of America.

There have been fewer strikes since the Taft-Hartley law was passed than there were the year before and those which for a time threatened the national safety—such as the coal strike—have been brought to a peaceful end through the use of the preventive injunction.

Employers were previously subject to injunctions and now both labor unions and employers can be enjoined from doing illegal acts.

Perhaps the most ridiculous of all claims made about the alleged unworkability or unconstitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Act centered for a while on the right of union members to conduct political activities and to use their funds to help elect political candidates of their own choosing.

The courts, as predicted in these dispatches a year ago, have held that it is not unlawful for individual workers to contribute money to political campaign committees. They must, however, do it directly as other citizens do and they cannot convert unions into political committees, collecting funds ostensibly for union dues and using such dues for political purposes without the individual consent of each member.

No Civil or Political Rights Lost

Today, as always, separate political committees composed of union leaders or anyone else can be formed and can canvass union memberships and collect campaign contributions. No civil or political rights of any kind have been lost.

Likewise, all the hue and cry about unions and corporations not being able to publish newspapers that present editorials in a campaign has been stilled, because the Supreme Court has said, in effect, that the law's ban is on expenditures "in connection with" a campaign and not expenses incurred in the regular publication of bona fide newspapers and periodicals.

The union bosses will not cease, of course, to attack the Taft-Hartley Act. It did deprive them of their license and freedom to do as they pleased, misrepresenting the employer's attitude and taking refuge under the "unfair labor practice" provisions of the old law, coercing workers and crying out "unfair labor practice" if an employer attempted to give the facts to his employees.

The Taft-Hartley Act in one year has already operated as a balanced law as between employers and unions. Properly interpreted and sincerely enforced, it will prove the best law yet passed to protect the collective bargaining process and to promote the cause of industrial peace.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Merchants Of Death

Whether or not Alger Hiss was or is or has been or has never been and is not a Communist is something for the Committees of Congress and the Grand Juries and courts to decide and also they have to decide whether he was privileged to be what he was or was not and who is lying.

However, way back in about 1941, I came across the existence of the Ware Group in Washington who were engaged in placing Communists in the most critical position in the Federal Government. I was then told who the original 10 were and among them was mentioned Alger Hiss. I naturally did not publish the name because I could not prove the fact.

However, it is a remarkable coincidence that every name on that Ware list has risen to high office in the Federal Government and is now accused of espionage. I wish further to note that I was then informed that the Dies Committee had turned over to the Department of Justice the full data on the Ware Group.

But this is only incidental to my subject today, which is "Merchants of Death." Quincy Howe, editor of "Living Age" from 1929 to 1935, gathered documents showing that the armament makers of France and Germany were in collusion to make money out of war. This material was eventually published in "Fortune" magazine under the caption "Arms and the Men" (March, 1934.) Those engaged in the business of manufacturing munitions of war were labeled "Merchants of Death."

Senator Gerald P. Nye set up a committee of the Senate to investigate American munitions manufacturers and he traveled up and down the country attacking them, demanding "conscription of wealth," "taking profits out of war." This campaign was so effective that it left the United States without an adequate munitions industry when war came.

I engaged in debates on the subject in several cities, calling attention to the danger of this propaganda, and was smeared as a hireling of munitions makers. So competent was the work of the Nye Committee, of Quincy Howe's material and the "Fortune" article, that anyone whom they attacked and smeared was repudiated.

Now, this Nye Committee possessed vast powers. It could subpoena the files of every manufacturer in the United States whom it suspected of being engaged in the manufacture of arms and munitions; it could investigate the relations of such manufacturers with similar ones in Europe. It could ferret out every research that was being done to improve American weapons of defense and offense. Its authority was so broad that it could go into the files of citizens suspected of relations with arms manufacturers.

Its purpose was clearly and admittedly to disarm America. And that was done as anyone knows who remembers Pearl Harbor.

So we come to Alegr Hiss. He and Charles Kramer, also accused of Communist espionage, were employes, investigators, research workers and aides to Senator Nye.

There again is the long arm of coincidence. Who shall say that it is not true that Alger Hiss, coming out of the Harvard Law School, did not take the Nye Committee on just as a job? He had already entered the government as assistant to the general counsel of the AAA, which was Henry Wallace's organization. He moved from there to be legal assistant to the Nye Committee; from that job he went to the Department of Justice. Since he entered the government in 1933, he has remained in it until last year when he succeeded Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Who shall say that this is not a bright Harvard lawyer trying to get on? Nevertheless, the the fact must be brought out clearly that one of the worst jobs ever done by a Senatorial investigating committee, acting as a propaganda agency, was that of the Nye Committee to disarm America and leave her helpless before a foreign foe. And that job was done in the face of the failure of the London Economic Conference, of a distressed Europe, and of Hitler's rise to power.

Why does not Congress investigate the files of the Nye Committee to discover how that body came into existence and under what inspiration?

The Pride Of Country

Never can I be too grateful for having been born in a free, democratic country. Its blessing are legion. Its benefits are far beyond any country in the world. America—"the land of the free and the home of the brave." Truly that. And linked to it, as a good neighbor, is Canada, enjoying the same blessings.

This year celebrates one hundred years of peace and good will between these two democracies. What a record! May their flags ever wave together, and their hearts ever warm with friendliness! I feel at home in both countries.

But here is a curious thing—there are people in both countries who are ever boring in the dark, and in silence, to undermine these countries that have even illustrated to them how happy a people can be under democratic rule. Some are citizens but for an evil purpose, and others are foreigners, from countries that have never known such blessings and happiness. Then why do they bore, steal, lie, and seek to sabotage what does not belong to them? If these foreign spies so love their own form of government, why don't they stay at home with it and enjoy it?

Also, if people over here think so much of a foreign form of government, why don't they give up the country of their birth and go to the one that suits them, and which they praise so gleefully and freely? These are free lands in this Western World—freer than any on the face of the globe, outside that of England, and they are going to remain just that, no matter how many thieves break in and seek to steal and destroy.

Yes, we live in a free land, but it isn't free to foreign criminals! Why do these foreign agents and spies give up their time and lives to work among happy people, while their own people starve and suffer? What is their pride of country worth?

I am an American. I love my country, and I love Canada, where, for years, I have spent my summer vacations and learned about the genuineness and hospitality of these good neighbors. This pride of country is inborn, and it should forever be held sacred. There isn't an inch of space that should harbor, even for a day, anyone seeking to destroy this pride, its government, or its great institutions.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Son Who Defends His Drinking Father Should Study Case

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

From a worried son comes a letter requesting suggestions on how to work out a difference between his parents in regard to his father's social drinking.

He writes:

"My father works hard to support our family which consists of my mother, himself and me. When in company, he enjoys having a few drinks, which usually results in his becoming intoxicated. This happens only about once a month.

"My mother hates intoxication, and whenever this happens she complains bitterly. She says she does not mind him drinking if he would always stay sober.

"My father is not a drunkard, and he does not really want to be intoxicated, but when company comes, or at a party, one can hardly refuse drinks when they are offered. If he did, they would think him a hen-pecked husband.

"What is your opinion in this matter and what steps do you think my mother should take in the future?"

I am afraid that in his loyalty to his father, and in his eagerness to defend him against the possible charge of being "hen-pecked," this son is overlooking the danger signs in this situation. He says his father does not wish to become intoxicated but that he feels he cannot refuse a drink when one is offered to him. Does this mean that he thinks he should take a drink every time he is asked, no matter how many may be pressed upon him? This, of course, would be a very silly point of view.

In every situation in life we all do the things we most want to do. This husband and father apparently has choose between not drinking at all or becoming intoxicated. The son says he does not like to be intoxicated, yet he chooses the drinks that will make him so, rather than to leave them alone and stay sober.

I get the impression from this young man's letter that he feels his mother is unreasonable in her attitude, and that because her husband gets drunk only about once a month, she should overlook it.

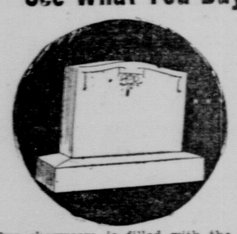

I am afraid I cannot agree with him. If the wife in the case could be absolutely assured that things would never go any further than this once-a-month binge, she might perhaps put up with it, not because she approves, but because she might feel that it was better to tolerate an occasional episode of this sort than to keep quarreling about it. But the trouble is that this kind of thing is not likely to remain static. The chances are that the drinking episodes will become more and more frequent, and then real trouble will begin.

If this son is wise, I believe that instead of siding with his father against his mother, he will try to persuade him that he is making a great mistake to allow himself to be persuaded into drinking merely because he is afraid of being considered henpecked. If the son is tactful, he will probably be able to influence his father better than his mother can, since she is unable to keep from making scenes about it.

This young man has a chance to keep his home from becoming an unhappy one. I hope he will see his opportunity and make the most of it.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Son Who Defends His Drinking Father Should Study Case

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

From a worried son comes a letter requesting suggestions on how to work out a difference between his parents in regard to his father's social drinking.

He writes:

"My father works hard to support our family which consists of my mother, himself and me. When in company, he enjoys having a few drinks, which usually results in his becoming intoxicated. This happens only about once a month.

"My mother hates intoxication, and whenever this happens she complains bitterly. She says she does not mind him drinking if he would always stay sober.

"My father is not a drunkard, and he does not really want to be intoxicated, but when company comes, or at a party, one can hardly refuse drinks when they are offered. If he did, they would think him a hen-pecked husband.

"What is your opinion in this matter and what steps do you think my mother should take in the future?"

I am afraid that in his loyalty to his father, and in his eagerness to defend him against the possible charge of being "hen-pecked," this son is overlooking the danger signs in this situation. He says his father does not wish to become intoxicated but that he feels he cannot refuse a drink when one is offered to him. Does this mean that he thinks he should take a drink every time he is asked, no matter how many may be pressed upon him? This, of course, would be a very silly point of view.

In every situation in life we all do the things we most want to do. This husband and father apparently has choose between not drinking at all or becoming intoxicated. The son says he does not like to be intoxicated, yet he chooses the drinks that will make him so, rather than to leave them alone and stay sober.

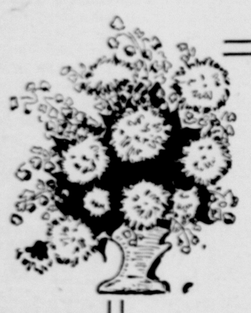

I get the impression from this young man's letter that he feels his mother is unreasonable in her attitude, and that because her husband gets drunk only about once a month, she should overlook it.

I am afraid I cannot agree with him. If the wife in the case could be absolutely assured that things would never go any further than this once-a-month binge, she might perhaps put up with it, not because she approves, but because she might feel that it was better to tolerate an occasional episode of this sort than to keep quarreling about it. But the trouble is that this kind of thing is not likely to remain static. The chances are that the drinking episodes will become more and more frequent, and then real trouble will begin.

If this son is wise, I believe that instead of siding with his father against his mother, he will try to persuade him that he is making a great mistake to allow himself to be persuaded into drinking merely because he is afraid of being considered henpecked. If the son is tactful, he will probably be able to influence his father better than his mother can, since she is unable to keep from making scenes about it.

This young man has a chance to keep his home from becoming an unhappy one. I hope he will see his opportunity and make the most of it.

Girl, 6, Uninjured When Hit By Car

City Police reported that Patricia Ann Keesee, six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ruby Keesee, 536 Maryland Avenue, escaped injury Monday night when she was struck by an automobile at the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Broadway.

Police identified the driver of the car as Melvin P. Wertz, 40, 207 Maryland Avenue. Wertz told police he was traveling south on Maryland Avenue, when the small girl darted from between two parked cars into his path.

The bumper of Wertz' car struck the girl and knocked her down, but when the driver took her home, the child's mother said she was apparently uninjured. No charges were preferred.

Driver Gets Suspended Term On Reckless Charge

Darrell J. Bishop, Route 5, received a suspended 30-day jail term Monday in Trial Magistrates Court for reckless driving, but was found not guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Substitute Magistrate Harold E. Naughton, who presided, warned Bishop to refrain from drinking, keep the peace, and support his children. Bishop was arrested last week on Springdale Street after his car had been stopped for some time on a railroad crossing.

Robert L. Gilpin, 215 Pennsylvania Avenue, paid a fine of $5.75 for reckless driving on Route 40 at Narrows Park on Sunday, and Harry L. Yost, 160 North Mechanic Street, forfeited $6.45 for failing to come to a complete halt at a stop sign at Narrows Park on August 16.

Everett Draws 60 Days In Car Theft

A young Army recruit pleaded guilty yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court to unauthorized operation of a car and was sentenced to 60 days in County Jail.

Another defendant, Mullen H. Smith, Henderson Avenue, entered a plea of guilty to assisting in the unauthorized use of a car but the case was held open by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

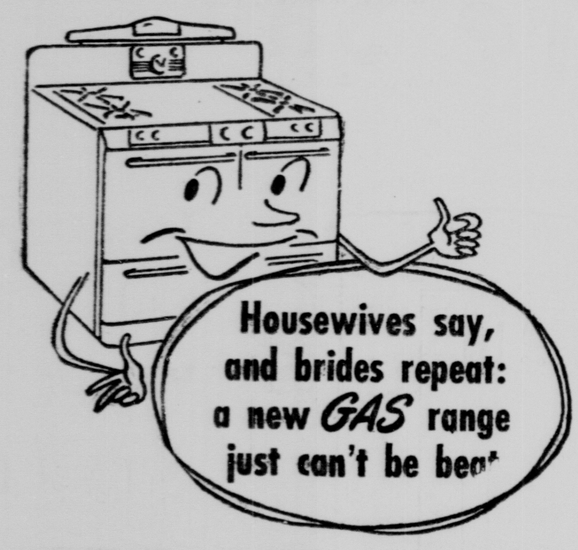

Authorities said the soldier, Pvt. Raymond Everett, Christie Road, was wearing unauthorized corporal's stripes to impress his friends. Military Police said he was AWOL since 6 a. m. Monday. He was convicted of stealing the car of Donald L. Liller, Rawlings, Sunday night.

Smith was arrested early Monday morning and was charged with the theft of a car owned by S. Babcock, Columbus, O.

Everett, who is reported to have been in the Army four months, will face Army charges when released from County Jail.

Within ten years after Des Moines, Iowa, prohibited wooden roofs, the number of roof fires dropped from 469 to 57 a year. Before the ordinance was passed, 41 per cent of all fires in Des Moines started on roofs; ten years later, only 7 per cent.

Of every 1,000 factory workers today 270 are women, and Industrial Food-Crafts surveys show that in some plants 80 per cent of them report on the job without eating a proper breakfast; in many cases none at all.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

This is the second in a series of pieces on the Metropolitan Opera House. If you missed the first, don't fret. In it, I merely reviewed my offer to run the Opera for a year and guarantee it against deficit, on condition that I be given a free hand and allowed to clean house.

Billy Rose

"Let's imagine the Met has taken me up on my offer," I concluded. "It's my first day at work. I'm in the front office, and I've asked Edward Johnson, its managing director, to bring out the ledger and let me take a look at the payroll."

And that's where we pick it up today . . . .

As I look at the payroll, the first item that catches my eye is four managers besides Mr. Johnson—Frank St. Leger, in charge of casting; Paul Keppel, finances; Jules Seebach, labor relations, and Earle Lewis, in charge of this and that. I tote up their salaries and find they amount to approximately twice as much as the social security the musicians' union has been hollering for.

"Why five managers?" I ask myself. "With the Opera idle part of the year, why shouldn't Eddie Johnson cast his own shows, and handle the dough and the union fellows himself?"

I pick up the phone and call a lady who has been performing at the Opera House for years. "Tell me what you know about St. Leger," I ask.

"He's a competent enough fellow," says the singer, "but not very popular with the performers. And that's because he's forever waging a war of nerves and keeping us off-balance. For instance, instead of letting us know in April what roles we're to sing in November, he plays a dead hand and keeps us guessing. As a consequence, the artist is cheated out of a chance to rehearse during the summer and become easy and expert in those roles. We all feel that it isn't fair to tell an artist in September that he's scheduled to sing a principal role in 'Louise.' 'Louise' is too difficult an opera for such short notice."

"What do you know about so-and-so?" I ask, mentioning another name on the payroll.

"You'll have to handle this one with kid gloves," says the singer, "or you may have a libel suit slapped on you. For years, this gent has been working both sides of the fence. In addition to collecting a salary from the Met, he acts as agent for a number of artists, and to justify the commissions they pay him, he has to get them the highest salaries he can. What's even more important, his job with the Met puts him in a spot where he can take talented newcomers out of play when they audition for jobs his own clients are holding down."

I dial another number.

"How do you feel about Jules Seebach?" I ask the business agent of one of the unions.

"He isn't a bad guy," says the union man, "but his approach to labor relations is pretty corny. Because it's the Met, he tries to handle us on a take-it-or-leave-it basis, and of course that doesn't make a hit with the boys. The fellow we like in that outfit is Charles [illegible] president of the Board. When we met with him last week we all thought his attitude was a fair and friendly one."

I hang up the phone and pick up the statement of income for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1947. It shows a profit of $11,808.28. But the next statement, the one for 1947-48, shows a loss of over $220,000, although there was an increase in gross intake of better than $160,000.

"What gives?" I say to myself. "Down what rathole did almost $400,000 disappear?"

As I try to puzzle this one out, there is a knock on the door and a little man enters.

"Who are you?" I ask, adjusting the pince nez with the black ribbon I have bought for the occasion.

"No one in particular," says the little man, "just an average Joe who likes opera and goes whenever he can afford it. I barged in on you because my missus and I are worried about what you're going to do to our favorite form of entertainment. We can't see how you can make the opera break even without hurting the quality of the performances."

"I think it can be done," I say. "In 1911 the directors of the Met raised $500,000 and handed it over to their new general director, Guilio Gatti Casazza, with orders not to come back for more. And Gatti Casazza didn't. Though he paid artists as much as $3,000 a performance, between the years 1911 and 1932 that fund never was exceeded. For twenty-one years, aside from certain concessions in rent and taxes made to the operating company, the directors of the Metropolitan contributed not one cent toward its support. They made up no deficits because there were no deficits. In other words, Gatti proved that opera can be made to pay for itself."

"I get it," says the little man, "and because it was done once, you think it can be done again. Tell me, what problem are you going to tackle first?"

"I think I'll poke my nose into the stagehand situation," I say. "On the 1947 statement, I see that labor and materials amounted to almost half a million dollars. I realize the scenic problems of the Met are much more complicated than those of the legit theatre, but nevertheless, this figure seems a bit out of line. And don't get me wrong—I'm not blaming the stagehands. They may be wrestling with tons of lumber when a painted drop might be twice as effective. For instance, I understand that the scenery for one of the operas was bought in 1907—after it had been discarded by an Italian opera house."

"And it sure looks it," says the little man. "By the way, I hope you don't mind my bothering you."

"No bother at all," I say. "Whether you know it or not, you and your wife own the opera. Back in 1939, the Met passed the hat for a million bucks, and in my book, that makes every person who contributed a stockholder. Besides, everyone in the five boroughs pays a couple of cents more in tax or rent because the cultural part of the Opera House is tax exempt."

"I'd like to hear more," says the little man. "When can I drop in again?"

"Come around about the middle of my next column," I say.

Gallup Poll:

Quiz Of Voters Finds That Many Are Uninformed On Candidates

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., August 24—Managers of the election campaigns for America's minor parties face a heavy task to impress on voters' minds the names of their Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates.

That is one conclusion to be drawn from a nation-wide information test concerning 1948 nominees, conducted by the Institute among representative voters.

One out of every three people, for example, cannot link the name of the Progressive Party with its presidential nominee, Henry A. Wallace. And, although Norman Thomas has been a candidate on the Socialist ticket in each of the last four elections, only every fifth voter knows he is the party's standard bearer again in 1948.

Even the major parties, however, have some "areas of ignorance" about their candidates to dispel. Twelve per cent of all voters do not know who the Republican nominee is and nine per cent are not aware that President Truman was nominated for re-election by the Democrats.

Fewer than six out of ten people know that Governor Earl Warren is Dewey's running mate, and only half the voters name Senator Alben W. Barkley as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

To determine the amount of voter information on the candidates, the Institute asked this question:

"Will you tell me the names of the presidential and vice-presidential candidates for the: Republican Party? Democratic Party? Progressive Party? States' Right Party? Socialist Party?"

The answers:

PERCENTAGE ANSWERING CORRECTLY
Republican
Thomas E. Dewey, Pres.	83%
Earl Warren, V. P.	58
Democratic
Harry S. Truman, Pres.	91%
Alben W. Barkley, V. P.	49
Progressive
Henry A. Wallace, Pres.	67%
Glen H. Taylor, V. P.	30
States' Rights
J. Strom Thurmond, Pres.	11%
Fielding Wright, V. P.	3
Socialist
Norman Thomas, Pres.	21%
Tucker P. Smith, V. P.	*

* Less than one per cent.

Today's survey determined voter knowledge about candidates of specifically named parties, and was not a test of information about the men involved. Thus, it is entirely posible that more than 67 per cent of voters can identify Wallace as a former Vice-President or Secretary of Agriculture. His party adopted the name Pregressive only a month ago, and probably some of the voters who failed this part of the test have not yet connected the name of the party with Wallace.

Education has a lot to do with how well informed voters are on candidates. While all but two or three per cent of college-trained voters can correctly name the major party presidential nominees, only 81 per cent of those who went just to grade school know the Republican nominee and 85 per cent the Democratic candidate.

There are, however, big gaps in even the college graduate's information about the other parties. One in ten can not name the Progressive candidate, and only half know that Thomas is running for the Socialists.

In 1944 voters did somewhat better in a similar quiz on the major party vice-presidential nominees than they do this year. In August of that year Truman, Democrat, was correctly named by 64% and Governor John W. Bricker on the Republican ticket was known by 62 per cent.

About 1629, Thomas Morton gained control of Mount Wollaston (now Quincy) Mass., and established his famous "New English Canaan" Merrymount. He became so obnoxious to the Puritans at Boston because of his encouragement of Maypoles and other reprehensible "idolls," and because of "his great licentiousness of life in all profaneness," he was captured by Miles Standish and shipped off to England.

Vern Stephens' Homer In Ninth Beats Indians

2-Run Circuit Blast Wins For Boston, 9-8

BOSTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—A two-run homer by Vern Stephens in the last of the ninth tonight lifted the Boston Red Sox into first place in the American League, a half game over Cleveland's Indians, who were defeated 9-8 by the Sox in a rousing finish before 34,172 paid fans.

Vern Stephens

Stephens' homer, his 27th, was belted on the first pitch to him by lanky Russ Christopher, fifth Cleveland hurler and the third used in the ninth by the Indians, who dropped to second place.

The game was a ding-dong battle all the way with the Sox putting over two runs in the eighth to tie the score at 6-all and the Indians breaking the deadlock in the top of the ninth by bunching four hits for two runs.

The Sox used four pitchers, and Cleveland five. Earl Caldwell, 43-year-old relief hurler who retired three Indians in the ninth, was credited with his first Red Sox win. Score:

Moose Team Tops Outdoor Club, 5-1

Elks, Eagles To Play Second Contest Today

Russ Minnicks kept seven hits well spaced while his mates rapped out eleven and "Ike" Cessna and Frank Williams starred afield as the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose downed the Cumberland Outdoor Club in the opening game of their Rocking Chair Softball League playoff series yesterday at Community Park by the score of 5-1.

Minnicks notched his 10th pitching triumph of the season and the lone run credited to the Outdoor Club came on Pollock's homer in the third frame.

Williams, Walter Hite and Ed Roberts shared six of the Moose team's eleven hits and Jim Angellatta smacked a two-bagger. Cessna at third base and Williams at short excelled with their snappy fielding.

The second game of the Moose-Outdoor series is set for Thursday at 6:15 p. m. at Stitcher Field instead of Community Park where Moorefield and the Cumberland American Legion baseball teams will play off a postponed game.

Today at 6:15 at Community Park, the B.P.O. Elks and F.O. Eagles will clash in the second game of their Rocking Chair League series. The Elks copped the opener on Monday by the score of 6-0. Yesterday's score:

MOOSE	002 210 0—5	11	2

Minnicks and Roberts. Weltman and Brady.

Boggs Expects Eighty Entries For Contest

Members of the Cumberland Country Club desiring to participate in the annual Presidents — Vice Presidents golf match on Sunday are requested to contact Carroll Boggs, professional at the local club.

Boggs expects about 80 players to participate in the match. The losing team will play host to the winners at a dinner.

Colts Ask Waivers On Pair Of Guards

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Aug. 24—(AP)—The Baltimore Colts of the All-America Football Conference asked waivers today on guards Frank Yokas and Joe Mitchell.

Yokas played with the Los Angeles Dons and the Colts the last two seasons. Mitchell, a one-handed rookie, played for the University of Texas last year.

Their departure will reduce the Colt squad to 43, eight more than the league limit of 35.

17 Night Games Listed
Eleven Set For Friday
Leaders Meet Thursday
Bloom, Klotz Seek Job

By C. V. BURNS

Cumberland high school teams are scheduled to play a total of 17 night games at the Fort Hill Stadium during the forthcoming season. Eleven of the contests are listed for Friday, five on Saturday and one on Thursday.

The only daylight scholastic game on tap is the annual Fort Hill-A.H.S. tilt Thanksgiving Day.

Teams representing schools of Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia will show against Cumberland's three schools.

LaSalle will appear in seven nocturnal tilts and Fort Hill and Allegany six each.

Keyser and Ridgeley are listed for three appearances in the Greenway Avenue bowl. Other visiting teams include Washington-Lee of Arlington, Va.; Calvin Coolidge, Washington, D. C.; St. Mary's of the Mount, Pittsburgh; Berlin, Pa.; Martinsburg; Moorefield and Romney, W. Va., Beall of Frostburg and Hagerstown.

Here's the set-up on the 1948 night schedule:

THURSDAY

Nov. 16—Berlin at LaSalle.

FRIDAY

Sept. 10—Washington-Lee, Arlington, Va., at Fort Hill.
Sept. 17—Beall at Allegany.
Sept. 24—Keyser at Fort Hill.
October 1—LaSalle at Fort Hill.
October 8—Hagerstown at Allegany.
October 15—Calvin Coolidge, Washington, D. C., at Fort Hill.
October 22—Keyser at LaSalle.
October 29—Martinsburg at Allegany.
November 5—Allegany vs. LaSalle.
November 12—Ridgeley at LaSalle.
November 19—Romney at LaSalle.

SATURDAY

September 18—Moorefield at Fort Hill.
September 25—St. Mary's of the Mount, Pittsburgh, at LaSalle.
October 2—Ridgeley at Allegany.
October 16—Keyser at Allegany.
October 23—Ridgeley at Fort Hill.

A "natural" is in store for local baseball fans tomorrow when the Moorefield American Legion and the Cumberland American Legion play off a postponed game at Community Park at 5:15 p. m.

It's a battle for first place in the Interstate League and should attract a large crowd to the Wineow Street park.

Cumberland's leads Moorefield by the margin of one-half game and a victory for the West Virginians would put them on top in President John J. Long's circuit.

They're all square in their season's series, Cumberland having won the opener 10-8 while Moorefield captured the second game 6-5.

Norman Geatz defeated Dwight Kessel in the first contest and the veteran "Ossie" Raines outpitched the youthful Pat Creegan in the second.

Bob Whip announces that among the player-coaches recommended for Cumberland's team in the All-American Professional Basketball League for the 1948-49 season are Mike Bloom and Lou Klotz, both of whom played with the Baltimore Bullets.

Klotz called Whip from Atlantic City, N. J., yesterday and filed an application for the local job. "Buddy" Jeannette, of the Baltimore Bullets, has recommended Mike Bloom.

The local team hopes to arrange a working agreement with Baltimore and Whip plans to go to the Monumental City in October to talk "turkey."

Baltimore has 40 players on its roster at the present time and the Bullets' opening practice is set for September 27. The candidates include 18 players who starred in college in their senior year.

Whip is hopeful of landing at least three good players from the Bullets.

Art Swiden, the Braddock, Pa., heavyweight, who spent some time in Cumberland recently, has made another unsatisfactory showing in a Pittsburgh ring and Carl Hughes, of the Pittsburgh Press, takes the big boy over the coals as follows:

"It's unfortunate that Art Swiden, the heavyweight champ of North and South Braddock, has lost his amateur status. If he hadn't he could start all over.

"Which next to retiring, is about the only way he could redeem himself with local fight fans."

Hughes comments further on Swiden's sorrowful showing against Pedro Bradley, of Cleveland, who trounced Art at Zivic Arena the other night.

"The blame rests on Swiden," Hughes continued. "He couldn't and didn't do anything. It was suggested that if he got more than carfare to Millvale for the appearance, he was overpaid.

"P. J. (Bunny) Buntag, who conceded the heavyweight crown to Swiden many months ago, filed the only dissenting opinion. He claimed his protege had "left his fight in the gym."

We have a lot of admiration for the way in which Mr. Hughes "covers" fights. There's entirely too much petting and pampering these so-called fighters who don't belong in the ring and don't rate the purses they are asking. This also goes for consistent losers and poor performers among the amateurs.

If more writers would be honest about it and tell what punks some fighters really are the sport would be better off.

More power to Carl Hughes.

CCC Women Win Over Somerset In Final Match

Local Golf Team Cops 4th Tilt, 22 1-2 To 3

Capturing seven out of eight foursomes and one twosome, women golfers of the Cumberland Country Club concluded a successful season yesterday by defeating the Somerset Country Club team at Somerset, Pa., by the score of 22½ to 3 points.

The victory was Cumberland's fourth in five matches with out-of-town teams during the 1948 season and it marked the locals' second triumph over the Pennsylvanians. Wins also were scored over Hagerstown and Waynesboro and Hagerstown in a triangular match.

Missourian Cops North American Trapshoot Crown

Broughton Breaks 200 Straight At Vandalia

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 24 (AP)—John A. Broughton, a 26-year-old foundry molder from Ferguson, Mo., won the North American clay target championship today at the Grand American trapshoot.

The stocky quail hunter broke 200 targets in a row from 16 yards to win all alone over a field of 774 other marksmen. Six shooters tied at 199 of 200 in the long marathon. Of 16 who broke the first 100, and 17 who cracked the second century, Broughton was the only one able to put a pair of perfect runs together.

Broughton, cheered on by his wife Marcella, picked up close to $1,000 in prize money in addition to the coveted trophy. Last year he won $3,700 at the Roaring Grand by finishing second in the two big handicap races.

The big shoot, held on the amateur trapshooting grounds here for 25 years, was marred today by its first accident in the quarter century. Tommy Rafferty of Brooklyn, N. Y., one of four brothers who came here to work in the trap houses, was struck in the hands and scalp by a charge from an accidentally-discharged shotgun.

Cliff Doughman, former Army shooting instructor from Morrow, O., who won the North American title a year ago, turned professional after that victory and took the pro crown today with a 199 of 200 total. His only miss was on the 200th target, a simple straightaway.

Moselle Cameron of Denver, Colo., winner of yesterday's champion of champions race, and Lela Hall Frank of Sierra Madre, Calif., seven time winner of the women's North American laurels, tied for the feminine crown at 197 of 200, highest score ever registered in the race.

Six shooters deadlocked for second behind Broughton with 199 of 200, and like the feminine leaders went into a shootoff to decide the places.

Peck's Conquers Century A.C. In Overtime Battle

Eisentrout's Triple In 9th Decides, 4-1

FROSTBURG, Aug. 24 — "Buck" Eisentrout's triple with the bases full in the 9th inning enabled Peck's Cafe to defeat the Century Athletic Club in the opening game of their Frostburg Softball League playoff series today at State Teachers' College Field by the score of 4-1.

Mike Davis and Dale Coleman engaged in a pitchers' battle and at the end of the regulation seven innings the teams were deadlocked at 1-1.

"Tuffy" Sullivan singled to open the 9th. Dale Coleman was safe on an error and after Hughes flied out Joe Scarpelli was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Fram went out on an infield fly but Eisentrout came through in the "clutch" with his base cleaning triple to right-center to sew up the game.

Peck's took a 1-0 lead in the opening frame when Coleman singled and completed the circuit when Short Fielder Meagher let the ball get away from him. Doubles by Meagher and Ritchie Middleton knotted the score in the third.

Coleman, who beat the C.A.C. today, turned back the league leaders last week. Prior to that contest he was Peck's catcher. Peck's enters the series minus Gracie, first string pitcher, who has gone to camp with the National Guard.

Sullivan banged a double and two singles to pace Peck's swatsmiths while Clarence Rae connected for two singles for the C.A.C.

The second game of the C.A.C.-Peck's series will be played Thursday.

Stoops' Restaurant and the Aristocrats will open their best-of-three-games series tomorrow (Wednesday) at 6 p. m. at State Teachers' College Field. The score:

PECK'S	100 000 003—4	12	2

U. S. Davis Cup Team Named For Tests With Australia

Schroeder, Talbert, Parker, Mulloy Picked

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — Ted Schroeder, Frankie Parker, Gardnar Mulloy and Billy Talbert were picked today to defend the Davis Cup against Australia in the challenge round at Forest Hills Sept. 4-6.

The only surprise lay in the ignoring of Bob Falkenburg, the tall California fireballer who won this summer's Wimbledon championship. The cup selection committee chose to bank on a quartet of veterans, deep in cup experience, to turn back the Aussies.

Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., teamed with Jack Kramer to win back the international team trophy at Melbourne winter before last, and the same pair defended it successfully last summer at Forest Hills. Kramer since has turned pro.

Parker, Mulloy and Talbert also made the trip to Melbourne, but only Mulloy saw action there. He defeated Dinny Pails in straight sets in the fourth match after the U. S. already had won the cup. Parker declined to team with Mulloy in doubles after failing to win a singles berth.

Present indications are that this will be another two-man team, with Schroeder and Parker playing both singles matches and pairing up in the doubles. Talbert, however, made a strong bid for a singles assignment by winning last week's Newport tournament, in which all the big shots competed.

The four-man team will gather at Forest Hills on Monday to begin intensive practice under Alrick H. Man Jr., the non-playing captain. Man need not name his actual lineup until 24 hours before the matches open.

The Australians will challenge with the same team which squeaked through to a 3-2 win over the Czechs in last week's inter-zone final at Boston. Adrian Quist and Billy Sidwell played the singles, and Colin Long and Geoff Brown paired in doubles. This alignment could be altered for the challenge round.

Potomac Valley Upsets Leaders

Tops Wellersburg, 3-2, Phillips Notches 14th

Potomac Valley's Cubs sliced Wellersburg's lead to 1½ games in the County Softball League when they defeated the Pennsylvanians on their home field yesterday by the score of 3-2.

Hayden Phillips outpitched Baker and Toler to register his 11th consecutive triumph of the season. His season's record is 14 wins and 3 losses.

The triumph was the 7th in a row for the Cubs who will play another game at Wellersburg today at 6 p. m.

Paul Lease led the Potomac Valley offensive with two singles and a double while Broadwater rapped two singles. Baker and Robinette hit safely twice for Wellersburg, one of the latter's blows being a two-bagger.

Narrows Park's Cardinals tied the Hyndman Firemen for third place in the ten-team circuit by wallcping Bedford Road on the latter's field, 13 to 1. Johnny Horn limited the Roaders to six hits while his mates jumped on Mayo for an even dozen, six of which were shared by Raupach and Shaffer.

The Hyndman Firemen-Allegany Grove game at Hyndman was halted by darkness in the 7th inning with the score tied at 6-6. Bittner and Bennett were the pitchers.

PAILS SAYS AUSSIES DON'T HAVE CHANCE

SYDNEY, Aug. 24—(AP)—Dinny Pails, who played on Australia's Davis Cup team last year but now is a professional, thinks his former teammates haven't a chance of taking the trophy away from the United States next month.

"But the boys would have had a great chance if John Bromwich was with them," he added.

Both Pails and Bromwich were on the losing team last year. Pails now is ineligible and Bromwich, veteran of almost a decade of international tennis, refused to play when the Australian team voted to do its traveling by air.

Amazing Chisox Break Yankees' Winning Streak

Pale Hose Nose Out New Yorkers, 6 To 5

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—The cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox, puffed up over their three straight victories against the league leading Cleveland Indians, continued to play the role of giant-killers today, knocking off the New York Yankees 6-5.

The defeat, only their fifth in 18 meetings with the White Sox this season, not only snapped the third place Yankees seven-game winning streak, but ruined a glorious chance to pick up ground on the leaders.

At that, the Yankees just missed catching the Sox with a belated ninth inning rally which produced two runs and left the potential tying run on second as Charlie Keller popped out to Shortstop Luke Appling to end the game.

Southpaw Bill Wight, a former Yankee, was credited with the victory although he weakened in the eighth and gave way to rookie Howard Judson. Judson, in turn, was replaced by Lefty Frank Papish, in the ninth.

Ed Lopat, who came to the Yankees from Chicago in the Wight deal, was the loser. He was touched up for nine hits and four runs in the seven innings he worked. What proved to be the winning runs, though, were garnered off Joe Page, who once again failed the Yankees in relief.

Tony Lupien, the Harvard alumnus, and the venerable Luke Appling, were the leaders in the White Sox attack. Each collected three hits and each drove in two runs. Among Lupien's safeties were a double and home run. Box:

A "natural" is in store for local baseball fans tomorrow when the Moorefield American Legion and the Cumberland American Legion play off a postponed game at Community Park at 5:15 p. m.

It's a battle for first place in the Interstate League and should attract a large crowd to the Wineow Street park.

Cumberland's leads Moorefield by the margin of one-half game and a victory for the West Virginians would put them on top in President John J. Long's circuit.

They're all square in their season's series, Cumberland having won the opener 10-8 while Moorefield captured the second game 6-5.

Norman Geatz defeated Dwight Kessel in the first contest and the veteran "Ossie" Raines outpitched the youthful Pat Creegan in the second.

Bob Whip announces that among the player-coaches recommended for Cumberland's team in the All-American Professional Basketball League for the 1948-49 season are Mike Bloom and Lou Klotz, both of whom played with the Baltimore Bullets.

Klotz called Whip from Atlantic City, N. J., yesterday and filed an application for the local job. "Buddy" Jeannette, of the Baltimore Bullets, has recommended Mike Bloom.

The local team hopes to arrange a working agreement with Baltimore and Whip plans to go to the Monumental City in October to talk "turkey."

Baltimore has 40 players on its roster at the present time and the Bullets' opening practice is set for September 27. The candidates include 18 players who starred in college in their senior year.

Whip is hopeful of landing at least three good players from the Bullets.

Art Swiden, the Braddock, Pa., heavyweight, who spent some time in Cumberland recently, has made another unsatisfactory showing in a Pittsburgh ring and Carl Hughes, of the Pittsburgh Press, takes the big boy over the coals as follows:

"It's unfortunate that Art Swiden, the heavyweight champ of North and South Braddock, has lost his amateur status. If he hadn't he could start all over.

"Which next to retiring, is about the only way he could redeem himself with local fight fans."

Hughes comments further on Swiden's sorrowful showing against Pedro Bradley, of Cleveland, who trounced Art at Zivic Arena the other night.

"The blame rests on Swiden," Hughes continued. "He couldn't and didn't do anything. It was suggested that if he got more than carfare to Millvale for the appearance, he was overpaid.

"P. J. (Bunny) Buntag, who conceded the heavyweight crown to Swiden many months ago, filed the only dissenting opinion. He claimed his protege had "left his fight in the gym."

We have a lot of admiration for the way in which Mr. Hughes "covers" fights. There's entirely too much petting and pampering these so-called fighters who don't belong in the ring and don't rate the purses they are asking. This also goes for consistent losers and poor performers among the amateurs.

If more writers would be honest about it and tell what punks some fighters really are the sport would be better off.

More power to Carl Hughes.

Missourian Cops North American Trapshoot Crown

Broughton Breaks 200 Straight At Vandalia

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 24 (AP)—John A. Broughton, a 26-year-old foundry molder from Ferguson, Mo., won the North American clay target championship today at the Grand American trapshoot.

The stocky quail hunter broke 200 targets in a row from 16 yards to win all alone over a field of 774 other marksmen. Six shooters tied at 199 of 200 in the long marathon. Of 16 who broke the first 100, and 17 who cracked the second century, Broughton was the only one able to put a pair of perfect runs together.

Broughton, cheered on by his wife Marcella, picked up close to $1,000 in prize money in addition to the coveted trophy. Last year he won $3,700 at the Roaring Grand by finishing second in the two big handicap races.

The big shoot, held on the amateur trapshooting grounds here for 25 years, was marred today by its first accident in the quarter century. Tommy Rafferty of Brooklyn, N. Y., one of four brothers who came here to work in the trap houses, was struck in the hands and scalp by a charge from an accidentally-discharged shotgun.

Cliff Doughman, former Army shooting instructor from Morrow, O., who won the North American title a year ago, turned professional after that victory and took the pro crown today with a 199 of 200 total. His only miss was on the 200th target, a simple straightaway.

Moselle Cameron of Denver, Colo., winner of yesterday's champion of champions race, and Lela Hall Frank of Sierra Madre, Calif., seven time winner of the women's North American laurels, tied for the feminine crown at 197 of 200, highest score ever registered in the race.

Six shooters deadlocked for second behind Broughton with 199 of 200, and like the feminine leaders went into a shootoff to decide the places.

HYNDMAN, MIDLAND TEAMS MEET TODAY

The Hyndman Firemen and Midland of the Bi-State Baseball League will play off a postponed game today at 5:30 p. m. at the Midland Baseball Park.

Midland nosed out Hyndman last Sunday at Hyndman by the score of 3-2.

They will compete against Australia's best tennis players at Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 4-6.

Peck's Conquers Century A.C. In Overtime Battle

Eisentrout's Triple In 9th Decides, 4-1

FROSTBURG, Aug. 24 — "Buck" Eisentrout's triple with the bases full in the 9th inning enabled Peck's Cafe to defeat the Century Athletic Club in the opening game of their Frostburg Softball League playoff series today at State Teachers' College Field by the score of 4-1.

Mike Davis and Dale Coleman engaged in a pitchers' battle and at the end of the regulation seven innings the teams were deadlocked at 1-1.

"Tuffy" Sullivan singled to open the 9th. Dale Coleman was safe on an error and after Hughes flied out Joe Scarpelli was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Fram went out on an infield fly but Eisentrout came through in the "clutch" with his base cleaning triple to right-center to sew up the game.

Peck's took a 1-0 lead in the opening frame when Coleman singled and completed the circuit when Short Fielder Meagher let the ball get away from him. Doubles by Meagher and Ritchie Middleton knotted the score in the third.

Coleman, who beat the C.A.C. today, turned back the league leaders last week. Prior to that contest he was Peck's catcher. Peck's enters the series minus Gracie, first string pitcher, who has gone to camp with the National Guard.

Sullivan banged a double and two singles to pace Peck's swatsmiths while Clarence Rae connected for two singles for the C.A.C.

The second game of the C.A.C.-Peck's series will be played Thursday.

Stoops' Restaurant and the Aristocrats will open their best-of-three-games series tomorrow (Wednesday) at 6 p. m. at State Teachers' College Field. The score:

PECK'S	100 000 003	4	12 2

Dale Coleman and C. Geis. M. Davis and Dennison.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Named For Tests With Australia

Schroeder, Talbert, Parker, Mulloy Picked

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — Ted Schroeder, Frankie Parker, Gardnar Mulloy and Billy Talbert were picked today to defend the Davis Cup against Australia in the challenge round at Forest Hills Sept. 4-6.

The only surprise lay in the ignoring of Bob Falkenburg, the tall California fireballer who won this summer's Wimbledon championship. The cup selection committee chose to bank on a quartet of veterans, deep in cup experience, to turn back the Aussies.

Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., teamed with Jack Kramer to win back the international team trophy at Melbourne winter before last, and the same pair defended it successfully last summer at Forest Hills. Kramer since has turned pro.

Parker, Mulloy and Talbert also made the trip to Melbourne, but only Mulloy saw action there. He defeated Dinny Pails in straight sets in the fourth match after the U. S. already had won the cup. Parker declined to team with Mulloy in doubles after failing to win a singles berth.

Present indications are that this will be another two-man team, with Schroeder and Parker playing both singles matches and pairing up in the doubles. Talbert, however, made a strong bid for a singles assignment by winning last week's Newport tournament, in which all the big shots competed.

The four-man team will gather at Forest Hills on Monday to begin intensive practice under Alrick H. Man Jr., the non-playing captain. Man need not name his actual lineup until 24 hours before the matches open.

The Australians will challenge with the same team which squeaked through to a 3-2 win over the Czechs in last week's inter-zone final at Boston. Adrian Quist and Billy Sidwell played the singles, and Colin Long and Geoff Brown paired in doubles. This alignment could be altered for the challenge round.

Potomac Valley Upsets Leaders

Tops Wellersburg, 3-2, Phillips Notches 14th

Potomac Valley's Cubs sliced Wellersburg's lead to 1½ games in the County Softball League when they defeated the Pennsylvanians on their home field yesterday by the score of 3-2.

Hayden Phillips outpitched Baker and Toler to register his 11th consecutive triumph of the season. His season's record is 14 wins and 3 losses.

The triumph was the 7th in a row for the Cubs who will play another game at Wellersburg today at 6 p. m.

Paul Lease led the Potomac Valley offensive with two singles and a double while Broadwater rapped two singles. Baker and Robinette hit safely twice for Wellersburg, one of the latter's blows being a two-bagger.

Narrows Park's Cardinals tied the Hyndman Firemen for third place in the ten-team circuit by wallcping Bedford Road on the latter's field, 13 to 1. Johnny Horn limited the Roaders to six hits while his mates jumped on Mayo for an even dozen, six of which were shared by Raupach and Shaffer.

The Hyndman Firemen-Allegany Grove game at Hyndman was halted by darkness in the 7th inning with the score tied at 6-6. Bittner and Bennett were the pitchers.

BIGGEST YEAR YET - - By Alan Maver

PAILS SAYS AUSSIES DON'T HAVE CHANCE

SYDNEY, Aug. 24—(AP)—Dinny Pails, who played on Australia's Davis Cup team last year but now is a professional, thinks his former teammates haven't a chance of taking the trophy away from the United States next month.

"But the boys would have had a great chance if John Bromwich was with them," he added.

Both Pails and Bromwich were on the losing team last year. Pails now is ineligible and Bromwich, veteran of almost a decade of international tennis, refused to play when the Australian team voted to do its traveling by air.

Amazing Chisox Break Yankees' Winning Streak

Pale Hose Nose Out New Yorkers, 6 To 5

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—The cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox, puffed up over their three straight victories against the league leading Cleveland Indians, continued to play the role of giant-killers today, knocking off the New York Yankees 6-5.

The defeat, only their fifth in 18 meetings with the White Sox this season, not only snapped the third place Yankees seven-game winning streak, but ruined a glorious chance to pick up ground on the leaders.

At that, the Yankees just missed catching the Sox with a belated ninth inning rally which produced two runs and left the potential tying run on second as Charlie Keller popped out to Shortstop Luke Appling to end the game.

Southpaw Bill Wight, a former Yankee, was credited with the victory although he weakened in the eighth and gave way to rookie Howard Judson. Judson, in turn, was replaced by Lefty Frank Papish, in the ninth.

Ed Lopat, who came to the Yankees from Chicago in the Wight deal, was the loser. He was touched up for nine hits and four runs in the seven innings he worked. What proved to be the winning runs, though, were garnered off Joe Page, who once again failed the Yankees in relief.

Tony Lupien, the Harvard alumnus, and the venerable Luke Appling, were the leaders in the White Sox attack. Each collected three hits and each drove in two runs. Among Lupien's safeties were a double and home run. Box:

DATE IS CHANGED FOR TITLE FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—The lightweight title bout between Champion Ike Williams and Jesse Flores has been moved back a day to Sept. 23 because of a radio commitment, the 20th Century Sporting Club announced today.

Welterweight Ray Robinson will meet Cuba's Kid Gavilan in a non-title ten on the same card.

The 20th's show at Yankee Stadium originally was set for Sept. 22, one day after the Tournament of Champion's star-studded program at Jersey City, N. J.

The Tournament of Champions also has a doubleheader card with a middleweight title clash between Champion Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan, and a heavyweight tussle matching Jersey Joe Walcott and Gus Lesnevich.

Sol Strauss, acting director of the 20th, said the change in dates was made at the request of the American Broadcasting Company which said it had a big radio show opening that night about the same time the championship fight was due to start.

Loyola Of Los Angeles Names Assistant Coach

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24—(AP)—Loyola University of Los Angeles announced today it had signed big Bob Shaw, 27, former professional football player, as an assistant coach on a three-year contract.

Bob, who turned in a lot of football as an end for Ohio State in 1941 and 1942, played with the Los Angeles Rams in 1945 and 1946. Late in the latter season he suffered a fractured neck vertebra and although the medics say he has recovered and is capable of playing, he decided to take up coaching, university officials said.

The Pribilov or Pribilof islands are volcanic in origin. They are in the Bering sea and belong to the United States. They are isolated and surrounded by fog, which is thought to be the reason why the otary or fur seal selects these grounds for breeding purposes.

DATE IS CHANGED FOR TITLE FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—(AP)—The lightweight title bout between Champion Ike Williams and Jesse Flores has been moved back a day to Sept. 23 because of a radio commitment, the 20th Century Sporting Club announced today.

Welterweight Ray Robinson will meet Cuba's Kid Gavilan in a non-title ten on the same card.

The 20th's show at Yankee Stadium originally was set for Sept. 22, one day after the Tournament of Champion's star-studded program at Jersey City, N. J.

The Tournament of Champions also has a doubleheader card with a middleweight title clash between Champion Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan, and a heavyweight tussle matching Jersey Joe Walcott and Gus Lesnevich.

Sol Strauss, acting director of the 20th, said the change in dates was made at the request of the American Broadcasting Company which said it had a big radio show opening that night about the same time the championship fight was due to start.

Loyola Of Los Angeles Names Assistant Coach

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24—(AP)—Loyola University of Los Angeles announced today it had signed big Bob Shaw, 27, former professional football player, as an assistant coach on a three-year contract.

Bob, who turned in a lot of football as an end for Ohio State in 1941 and 1942, played with the Los Angeles Rams in 1945 and 1946. Late in the latter season he suffered a fractured neck vertebra and although the medics say he has recovered and is capable of playing, he decided to take up coaching, university officials said.

The Pribilov or Pribilof islands are volcanic in origin. They are in the Bering sea and belong to the United States. They are isolated and surrounded by fog, which is thought to be the reason why the otary or fur seal selects these grounds for breeding purposes.

County Board Asks Audit Of School Board Accounts

Holmes Abstains From Voting On Proposal

An order was passed at yesterday's meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for an audit of the books and accounts of the Allegany County Board of Education, at a cost of $2,800.

The motion for the audit was made by Commissioner William H. Lemmert. Frostburg, after John W. Rollins, Jr., and Meyer Seigel of the local branch of Berman, Goldman and Company, Baltimore accountants, appeared and offered to audit the books for 1946-47 and 1947-48 for that amount.

Commissioner James Holmes, Lonaconing, abstained from voting on the order, saying he would like time to think it over. Board President Charles N. Wilkinson commented, "I've always advocated an audit of the School Board's books, independently of the one made by the state."

Lemmert said, "We have the authority to have the audit made by auditors selected by the commissioners under terms of Chapter 743, of the Acts of 1947, which became effective June 1, 1947. I see no reason why it shouldn't be done as a matter of good business."

Termed Good Business

After Commissioner Lemmert made the motion it was seconded by Wilkinson and passed by a 2 to 0 vote, with Commissioner Holmes abstaining, advising that the idea should be thought over carefully.

Lemmert was asked yesterday if this is a special audit and he said, "We think it is good business to have the School Board's books audited, and have the authorization under the law."

Wilkinson was asked if the audit is a special audit and since the law was effective over a year ago why it is being ordered now. He said, "We believe the School Board's books should be audited as a matter of good business for the county. With the press of other business the matter had not come up before. I've advocated independent audits of the School Board's books ever since I've been a commissioner."

It was recalled here that the Maryland General Assembly passed a law providing for special audits by commissioners of Allegany, Garrett and Montgomery counties of the books of School Boards.

Get Income Tax Fund

A check for $59,153.11 was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from the state as the county's share of the 1947 state income taxes.

The City of Cumberland and various incorporated communities in the county will also receive their apportionment under the program recommended by the Sherbow Report.

The county received $41,100.89 from state income taxes last year for the 1946 taxable period. The almost $20,000 increase resulted from an increase in the number of individuals who paid taxes in 1947 and the return for 1948 will probably show a corresponding upward trend, according to county officials.

The county commissioners informed a group of residents of the lower Town Creek section, who presented a petition containing 90 names, that construction of a bridge across the stream would cost at least $15,000 even for the cheapest type which could be used.

The board stated that at present they could not justify construction of the bridge, but would place it on a list of proposed projects which might be approved later.

A letter was also received from Miss Ora M. Bowers who asked that repairs be made to a road leading off Oldtown Road at the Millstone, several miles from Cumberland. The letter was referred to the county engineer.

Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, wrote to the board asking for hearings on the tax assessments on property of Cumberland Lodge No. 63 B.P.O. Elks, and Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

Stegmaier wrote that the assessment on the Elks property at 114 South Centre Street was listed at $83,700 and the K. of C. Home at 13 North Mechanic Street at $51,490.

Both organizations are seeking tax exemptions and the review before the county board is preliminary to awaiting a decision in Circuit Court on a test case expected to be heard next month. Both organizations paid last year's tax bill, according to county officials.

Cities Provide

geles Bureau of Light and Power for Boulder Dam power lines.

In spite of all this, the cost of government went down and the tax rate was reduced. Nevertheless, assessed valuation was cut from $187,000,000 to $128,000,000 during this period of rapid population growth, and services needed by a sound community were kept at a high level.

For the sixth consecutive year the Pasadena fire department was awarded the national certificate of merit for fire prevention activities; for the second time Pasadena won the national city health conservation contest; and Pasadena led all cities in its class in the library activities.

Kenosha Takes A Prize

In 1925, three years after it adopted the manager plan, Kenosha won first prize in the Wisconsin Better Cities Contest, and Aubrey Williams, then secretary of the contest, said the city manager plan was the greatest factor in the outcome.

It was not always so. Prior to 1922, Kenosha had its quota of politicians and city hall hangers-on, its quota of graft and inefficiency.

One of the first things the city manager did was to install a uniform system of accounting so the financial condition of the city as a whole, and of each department separately, could be known at any time. The budget system was simultaneously put into effect.

Under the Council-Manager plan the per capita cost of government in Kenosha was reduced about 25%. All the business enterprises which the city carries on are being run more economically than before.

Varied Entertainment Planned For Fair

The 31st annual Cumberland Fair will offer a varied entertainment program during the five-day event September 14 through 18, according to Clifton W. White, president of the Cumberland Fair Association, Inc.

Frank Cervone's Band, with a repertoire of popular and classical music, will provide musical entertainment.

Also appearing will be a Chinese contortionist dancer, Florence Hin Low; and the Marie Shaw dancers, a group of eight girls who will present precision dancing, tap and novelty routines.

Janet and Paul, an aerial acrobatic team, will perform stunts 90 feet in the air from the top of the rigging. The Beau Jesters, a male quartet; the Plutocrats, a dog act, and The Hollys, a mimicry team, are also on the program.

Finance Head To Ask Additional City Insurance

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said yesterday he plans to ask the Mayor and Council to authorize an additional $730.02 a year to obtain 100 per cent insurance coverage on city-owned buildings here and in Pennsylvania.

The approximated increase of Maryland fire and extended coverage totals $195,600 and in Pennsylvania, $14,900.. However, in two instances less insurance is suggested totalling $800. The overall suggested increase, less the decreases, is $209,-700.

Buchholtz said he believes the figure quoted by the North America Corporation, Baltimore, "is a cheap investment when you consider that property values have increased to such an extent that fire or damage will mean a serious loss without additional coverage.

"Finances have been my business and I know that the additional investment by the city will mean a saving later," he added.

Two Estimates Presented

In presenting two estimates from North America to Buchholtz, the J. H. Holzshu Company, local insurance bond and real estate firm, said that 37 buildings are affected. The list, the company said, includes all of the present buildings except some small ones in Pennsylvania. Included in the amounts are three buildings which were not insured before.

The local bonding firm said the suggested amounts vary between 90 and 100 per cent of the 100 per cent insurable values to allow for fluctuation of construction costs in the next year and to take into the consideration the type of construction and fire protection available.

None of the figures includes building contents.

Should the city agree to take on the added protection, it will carry insurance on its buildings totalling $622,600. Currently, the insurance totals $362,750 on Maryland property and $50,150 on Pennsylvania property, an overall of $412,900.

In the case of City Hall the present amount of insurance is $100,000. The report estimates that the 100 per cent insurable value is $173,000 but suggests the city carry only $155,000. The difference is $55,000 or an increase of $53.94 on the present policy.

Overall the Maryland 100 per cent insurance value is estimated at $622,950 with the suggested amount to carry $556,650.

The Pennsylvania insurance value is estimated at $50,450 with the suggested amount to carry $63,950. The fact that the latter figure is higher, where in the case of Cumberland it is lower, is attributed to a larger number of buildings, not now insured, credited to the Pennsylvania totals.

Larger Properties listed

Among the larger items of insurance listed in the report for the Maryland properties are the Public Safety Building, insured now for $95,000, estimated 100 per cent at $168,500, and suggested amount to carry, $151,000.

Warehouse and Garage, Wills Creek west of Valley Street, now insured for $25,000, estimated 100 per cent $45,000, and suggested amount to carry, $40,000.

Bath House at Constitution Park, now insured for $22,00, estimated 100 per cent $30,000, and suggested amount to carry, $27,000.

Central Fire Station, $12,000 present, $21,000 estimated, and $18,000 suggested.

South Side Fire Station, $16,000 present, $25,000 estimated, and $22,-000 suggested.

West Side Fire Station, $16,000 present, $25,000 estimated and $22,-000 suggested.

East Side Fire Station, $16,000 present, $25,000 estimated, $22,000 suggested.

Three buildings in Constitution Park, not now insured, are included in the estimated and suggested schedule. They include the Wild Life Building, estimated valuation at $5,000 and suggested coverage of $4,500;

The park police building, estimated $800 and suggested $800; and

The City Police pistol range building, estimated $2,000 and suggested $1,800.

The overall insurable value of Constitution Park buildings is estimated at $88,800.

In the interest of fire protection and control, William N. Merrick, technical representative of the North America Corporation, has offered the following recommendations at Constitution Park:

1. Provide 12 fire pails of water in the frame warehouse and garage. In winter the fire pails should be protected from freezing by dissolving six pounds of granulated calcium chloride in each pail.

2. Provide three 2½ gallon non-freeze type fire extinguishers bearing labels of the Underwriters Laboratories Inc., in the cinder block bath house.

3. Provide two fire pails of water in the police office and storage building. Same should be protected from freezing in the winter as described in item No. 1.

4. Recharge soda and acid fire extinguishers in garage and storage building at 309 Willowbrook Road, date and tag. Also replace soda and acid extinguisher in the garage section with 2½ gallon foam type extinguisher bearing the label of the Underwriters.

He also recommended removal of a brush pile from rear of building at 402 North Mechanic Street.

Short Gap Fire Company Marks First Birthday

Brelsford Is MC At Banquet Event

Members of the Short Gap, W. Va., Volunteer Fire Company celebrated the first anniversary of the organization at a banquet held last night in the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall in Fort Ashby.

Baker D. Brelsford, president of the company, acted as master of ceremonies and outlined the history of the company organized August 22, 1947, with 15 members.

The company, Brelsford reported, now has 30 active members. Three months ago, he said, the fire company moved into its new fire hall, a 28 by 32 foot structure built on one acre of land purchased by the firemen.

The hall houses the company's pumper and serves as a meeting place for the firemen. The company, he added, now has on order 200 feet of two and one-half inch hose and 300 feet of one and one-half inch hose.

Brief talks were given by William Miller, Keyser, a past president of the Potomac Valley Volunteer Fire Association, and by Samuel Umstott and Kenneth Miller, of the Short Gap firemen.

Officers of the company are Brelsford, Richard Pownall, vice president; Ortis L. Massey, secretary; Graham D. Shafer treasurer, and S. K. Miller, fire chief.

Attending the banquet were Mr. and Mrs. S. Kenneth Miller, Mr. and Mrs. L. Brelsford, Milan Frizmencic, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Arnold, Samuel Umstott and family, Charles Puffenbarger and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Files, Paul D. Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Spencer and Patsy, Mrs. Hawley Hiett, Mrs. Webb Sisk, Mr. and Mrs. John Gracie and Olive; Mr. and Mrs. Baker Brelsford, William Miller, Grace Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. Blair Miller, Nora Lee Krismencic, Marion Umstott and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Beverlin.

The Short Gap Frie Company will sponsor a chicken supper next Saturday, September 4, from 5 to 8 p. m. at the Short Gap Fire Hall. The public is invited.

John Morgan

prepared to disclose last night the nature of his future plans.

Born in Frostburg, Morgan moved to Cumberland in 1912, where he met his future wife, the former Lena B. Barger. The couple has resided in LaVale since 1924.

Their younger son, Paul R. Morgan, a graduate of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, and an infantry veteran of World War II, is on the staff of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company as a mechanical engineer.

The other son, J. Kenneth Morgan, was graduated from Benjamin Franklin University, where he has been teaching since 1945. He served in the Aleutians as a captain in the Air Corps during the war. On August 11 he became a certified public accountant. At present he is practicing in Washington but may eventually return to Cumberland. He has been appointed a full professor of accounting at Benjamin Franklin University.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan have one grandson, born this month to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morgan.

Special Funds

said, but here in Allegany County the school board has encouraged it in the larger schools. The board has declined to permit football in Lonaconing School, for example, he explained, because the school is not large enough, and too many small boys would be needed to fill out the squad, resulting in possible permanent or serious injury to them. In larger schools, such as Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall, there are larger numbers of bigger and stronger boys to draw from.

Fort Hill Stadium WPA Job

The question was raised about Fort Hill Stadium and how much it cost. Kopp explained that Fort Hill High School stadium was made possible only because it was a WPA project. He said, "I've never seen a report on how much it cost and doubt very much if anyone actually knows."

He explained that the School Board borrowed $25,000 through the County Commissioners with the understanding it would be paid back from earnings of the stadium, and thus far about $4,800 has been repaid. "At this rate, it will take 60 years," he smiled.

The $25,000, he continued, was the county's contribution in setting up the works project under the WPA and the present stadium resulted. He reminded the visitors that upkeeps at the stadium has been increasing steadily each year and the plant is now 12 years old.

Asked by Joe Linn and George Hawkins about the possibility of getting seats or bleachers at the Frostburg field, Kopp said no funds are available for this and he has no way of predicting when they will be or where they will come from. He told the questioners that his latest figure on concrete seats amounts to about $30 per seat or $150,000 for 5,000 seats.

Kopp was asked how many people can be seated in Fort Hill stadium and he replied, "2,800 on one side and 1,200 on the other." One side has concrete and the other side wooden bleachers.

Some members of the committee, including Chester A. Stewart, wanted to know if there was anything the Frostburg people could do to help raise funds to complete the stadium. Dr. Cook suggested that the Beall High School Alumni group might be interested in doing or promoting something along this line.

Kopp and members of the board agreed that there would probably be no major objection to such a program, if it was carefully worked out.

Explains Delays

There was discussion about the engineering phases of the work already done and Kopp told the group that the first engineer on the job had made some honest mistakes regarding drainage which it became necessary to remedy.

Kopp also told the delegation that the work had been delayed by heavy rains this summer and last, and that drainage pipe ordered on which six weeks delivery was promised, did not arrive for nearly 10 months after the order was placed.

The school superintendent assured the visitors that half of the field will be ready for use this fall if it is at all possible to make it usable. The group suggested that stones be removed and the field rolled so the children would have a place to play. Kopp said this will be taken care of at once.

The other half of the field, where grass has been planted, is not to be used until the grass has a chance to take root. Then it is to be cleared of stones, rolled and put into use, while the other half is planted, rolled etc.

Turfing Field Takes Time

Such a procedure, Kopp said, takes time since there is no way to speed up nature and make grass grow any faster.

Kopp also informed the group that it is the Board's plan to plant grass on the sides of the bowl, and to place shrubbery, trees etc. around the bowl. Arrangements have been made with the Department of State Forests and Parks for planting this fall he said.

There was some discussion about water standing at one point on the field to a depth of 18 to 36 inches and not draining properly.

Members of the board agreed that this is a serious hazard and that some child might drown in so much water. It was also pointed out that a health hazard is probably created by stagnant water. The board asked Mr. Kopp to investigate this situation and if necessary to install another drain, or properly grade that portion of the field and eliminate the hazard. He said it will be given immediate attention.

To Put Name On Building

The visitors also asked that the name "Beall High School," or "Frostburg Beall High School" be placed on the building so visitors and tourists will know what the building is. Again there was mutual agreement that this could be done and would be quite desirable.

Discussion on paving of a section of roadway along the top rim of the bowl brought out that Kopp had been advised by engineers that since some of this road was constructed on a fill, it should be allowed to settle through a winter before surfacing. The board agreed that immediate paving will be considered and work will be done before winter if it is at all feasible and funds available are sufficient.

The meeting ended in a friendly vain, with the Frostburg visitors better informed on the full situation than they had been before. Kopp said he welcomes the interest of the citizens in a community in the schools and school facilities. Members of the committee said afterwards, "We have a better understanding of the whole thing now."

The other board member present was Edgar A. Dashiell, dairyman. Other members of the Frostburg group included William Dolder, Mrs. Sara Dolder, Miss Elizabeth Workman, Fred Crowe, Commissioner William Lemmert, all of Frostburg, and William Wilson, Midland.

Wilson Resigns Post As County Attorney

Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday submitted his resignation on account of ill health.

Wilson informed the board that due to his health he would be unable to continue his own law practice and also handle county legal matters.

The resignation was accepted and the board ordered that John T. Fey, local attorney, be named to the post. Fey has been acting attorney to the board for several weeks.

Wilson was city attorney in the administration of George Henderson as mayor of Cumberland in the early 1930's.

Fey, a member of the Allegany county delegation to the Maryland Legislature, is one of the youngest men ever to hold the post. A veteran of World War II, he is now attending the two-week training session with the local Marine Corps Reserve unit at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Search For Stokes' Attackers Continues

Ridgeley and Western Maryland Railway police last night were continuing the search for two men who assaulted Vernon E. Stokes, 38, Carpenter's Addition, when he surprised them during an attempted robbery at his home.

Stokes, who was struck over the head with a chair, suffered only minor injuries and was not taken to a hospital.

Soldier Held Here

A man booked as Herman Phillips, Hendricks, W. Va., was being held in City Jail last night for Military Police. He was taken into custody by Lt. George J. Gocke, officer in charge of the local Army and Air Force recruiting station.

County Board Asks Audit Of School Board Accounts

Holmes Abstains From Voting On Proposal

An order was passed at yesterday's meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for an audit of the books and accounts of the Allegany County Board of Education, at a cost of $2,800.

The motion for the audit was made by Commissioner William H. Lemmert, Frostburg, after John W. Rollins, Jr., and Meyer Seigel of the local branch of Berman, Goldman and Company, Baltimore accountants, appeared and offered to audit the books for 1946-47 and 1947-48 for that amount.

Commissioner James Holmes, Lonaconing, abstained from voting on the order, saying he would like time to think it over. Board President Charles N. Wilkinson commented, "I've always advocated an audit of the School Board's books, independently of the one made by the state."

Lemmert said, "We have the authority to have the audit made by auditors selected by the commissioners under terms of Chapter 743, of the Acts of 1947, which became effective June 1, 1947. I see no reason why it shouldn't be done as a matter of good business."

Termed Good Business

After Commissioner Lemmert made the motion it was seconded by Wilkinson and passed by a 2 to 0 vote, with Commissioner Holmes abstaining, advising that the idea should be thought over carefully.

Lemmert was asked yesterday if this is a special audit and he said, "We think it is good business to have the School Board's books audited, and have the authorization under the law."

Wilkinson was asked if the audit is a special audit and since the law was effective over a year ago why it is being ordered now. He said, "We believe the School Board's books should be audited as a matter of good business for the county. With the press of other business the matter had not come up before. I've advocated independent audits of the School Board's books ever since I've been a commissioner."

It was recalled here that the Maryland General Assembly passed a law providing for special audits by commissioners of Allegany, Garrett and Montgomery counties of the books of School Boards.

Get Income Tax Fund

A check for $59,153.11 was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from the state as the county's share of the 1947 state income taxes.

The City of Cumberland and various incorporated communities in the county will also receive their apportionment under the program recommended by the Sherbow Report.

The county received $41,100.89 from state income taxes last year for the 1946 taxable period. The almost $20,000 increase resulted from an increase in the number of individuals who paid taxes in 1947 and the return for 1948 will probably show a corresponding upward trend, according to county officials.

The county commissioners informed a group of residents of the lower Town Creek section, who presented a petition containing 90 names, that construction of a bridge across the stream would cost at least $15,000 even for the cheapest type which could be used.

The board stated that at present they could not justify construction of the bridge, but would place it on a list of proposed projects which might be approved later.

A letter was also received from Miss Ora M. Bowers who asked that repairs be made to a road leading off Oldtown Road at the Millstone, several miles from Cumberland. The letter was referred to the county engineer.

Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, wrote to the board asking for hearings on the tax assessments on property of Cumberland Lodge No. 63 B.P.O. Elks and Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

Stegmaier wrote that the assessment on the Elks property at 114 South Centre Street was listed at $83,700 and the K. of C. Home at 13 North Mechanic Street at $51,490.

Both organizations are seeking tax exemptions and the review before the county board is preliminary to awaiting a decision in Circuit Court on a test case expected to be heard next month. Both organizations paid last year's tax bill, according to county officials.

geles Bureau of Light and Power for Boulder Dam power lines.

In spite of all this, the cost of government went down and the tax rate was reduced. Nevertheless, assessed valuation was cut from $187,000,000 to $128,000,000 during this period of rapid population growth, and services needed by a sound community were kept at a high level.

For the sixth consecutive year the Pasadena fire department was awarded the national certificate of merit for fire prevention activities; for the second time Pasadena won the national city health conservation contest; and Pasadena led all cities in its class in the library activities.

Kenosha Takes A Prize

In 1925, three years after it adopted the manager plan, Kenosha won first prize in the Wisconsin Better Cities Contest, and Aubrey Williams, then secretary of the contest, said the city manager plan was the greatest factor in the outcome.

It was not always so. Prior to 1922, Kenosha had its quota of politicians and city hall hangerson, its quota of graft and inefficiency.

One of the first things the city manager did was to install a uniform system of accounting so the financial condition of the city as a whole, and of each department separately, could be known at any time. The budget system was simultaneously put into effect.

Under the Council-Manager plan the per capita cost of government in Kenosha was reduced about 25%. All the business enterprises which the city carries on are being run more economically than before.

Varied Entertainment Planned For Fair

The 31st annual Cumberland Fair will offer a varied entertainment program during the five-day event September 14 through 18, according to Clifton W. White, president of the Cumberland Fair Association, Inc.

Frank Cervone's Band, with a repertoire of popular and classical music, will provide musical entertainment.

Also appearing will be a Chinese contortionist dancer, Florence Hin Low; and the Marie Shaw dancers, a group of eight girls who will present precision dancing, tap and novelty routines.

Janet and Paul, an aerial acrobatic team, will perform stunts 90 feet in the air from the top of the rigging. The Beau Jesters, a male quartet; the Plutocrats, a dog act, and The Hollys, a mimicry team, are also on the program.

Finance Head To Ask Additional City Insurance

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said yesterday he plans to ask the Mayor and Council to authorize an additional $730.02 a year to obtain 100 per cent insurance coverage on city-owned buildings here and in Pennsylvania.

The approximated increase of Maryland fire and extended coverage totals $195,600 and in Pennsylvania, $14,900.. However, in two instances less insurance is suggested totalling $800. The overall suggested increase, less the decreases, is $209,-700.

Buchholtz said he believes the figure quoted by the North America Corporation, Baltimore, "is a cheap investment when you consider that property values have increased to such an extent that fire or damage will mean a serious loss without additional coverage.

"Finances have been my business and I know that the additional investment by the city will mean a saving later," he added.

Two Estimates Presented

In presenting two estimates from North America to Buchholtz, the J. H. Holzshu Company, local insurance bond and real estate firm, said that 37 buildings are affected. The list, the company said, includes all of the present buildings except some small ones in Pennsylvania. Included in the amounts are three buildings which were not insured before.

The local bonding firm said the suggested amounts vary between 90 and 100 per cent of the 100 per cent insurable values to allow for fluctuation of construction costs in the next year and to take into the consideration the type of construction and fire protection available.

None of the figures includes building contents.

Should the city agree to take on the added protection, it will carry insurance on its buildings totalling $622,600. Currently, the insurance totals $362,750 on Maryland property and $50,150 on Pennsylvania property, an overall of $412,900.

In the case of City Hall the present amount of insurance is $100,000. The report estimates that the 100 per cent insurable value is $173,000 but suggests the city carry only $155,000. The difference is $55,000 or an increase of $53.94 on the present policy.

Overall the Maryland 100 per cent insurance value is estimated at $622,950 with the suggested amount to carry $556,650.

The Pennsylvania insurance value is estimated at $50,450 with the suggested amount to carry $63,950. The fact that the latter figure is higher, where in the case of Cumberland it is lower, is attributed to a larger number of buildings, not now insured, credited to the Pennsylvania totals.

Larger Properties listed

Among the larger items of insurance listed in the report for the Maryland properties are the Public Safety Building, insured now for $95,000, estimated 100 per cent at $168,500, and suggested amount to carry, $151,000.

Warehouse and Garage, Wills Creek west of Valley Street, now insured for $25,000, estimated 100 per cent $45,000, and suggested amount to carry, $40,000.

Bath House at Constitution Park, now insured for $22,00, estimated 100 per cent $30,000, and suggested amount to carry, $27,000.

Central Fire Station, $12,000 present, $21,000 estimated, and $18,000 suggested.

South Side Fire Station, $16,000 present, $25,000 estimated, and $22,-000 suggested.

West Side Fire Station, $16,000 present, $25,000 estimated and $22,-000 suggested.

East Side Fire Station, $16,000 present, $25,000 estimated, $22,000 suggested.

Three buildings in Constitution Park, not now insured, are included in the estimated and suggested schedule. They include the Wild Life Building, estimated valuation at $5,000 and suggested coverage of $4,500;

The park police building, estimated $800 and suggested $800; and

The City Police pistol range building, estimated $2,000 and suggested $1,800.

The overall insurable value of Constitution Park buildings is estimated at $88,800.

In the interest of fire protection and control, William N. Merrick, technical representative of the North America Corporation, has offered the following recommendations at Constitution Park:

1. Provide 12 fire pails of water in the frame warehouse and garage. In winter the fire pails should be protected from freezing by dissolving six pounds of granulated calcium chloride in each pail.

2. Provide three 2½ gallon non-freeze type fire extinguishers bearing labels of the Underwriters Laboratories Inc., in the cinder block bath house.

3. Provide two fire pails of water in the police office and storage building. Same should be protected from freezing in the winter as described in item No. 1.

4. Recharge soda and acid fire extinguishers in garage and storage building at 309 Willowbrook Road, date and tag. Also replace soda and acid extinguisher in the garage section with 2½ gallon foam type extinguisher bearing the label of the Underwriters.

He also recommended removal of a brush pile from rear of building at 402 North Mechanic Street.

Turfing Field Takes Time

Such a procedure, Kopp said, takes time since there is no way to speed up nature and make grass grow any faster.

Kopp also informed the group that it is the Board's plan to plant grass on the sides of the bowl, and to place shrubbery, trees etc. around the bowl. Arrangements have been made with the Department of State Forests and Parks for planting this fall, he said.

There was some discussion about water standing at one point on the field to a depth of 18 to 36 inches and not draining properly.

Members of the board agreed that this is a serious hazard and that some child might drown in so much water. It was also pointed out that a health hazard is probably created by stagnant water. The board asked Mr. Kopp to investigate this situation and if necessary to install another drain, or properly grade that portion of the field and eliminate the hazard. He said it will be given immediate attention.

To Put Name On Building

The visitors also asked that the name "Beall High School," or "Frostburg Beall High School" be placed on the building so visitors and tourists will know what the building is. Again there was mutual agreement that this could be done and would be quite desirable.

Discussion on paving of a section of roadway along the top rim of the bowl brought out that Kopp had been advised by engineers that since some of this road was constructed on a fill, it should be allowed to settle through a winter before surfacing. The board agreed that immediate paving will be considered and work will be done before winter if it is at all feasible and funds available are sufficient.

The meeting ended in a friendly vain, with the Frostburg visitors better informed on the full situation than they had been before. Kopp said he welcomes the interest of the citizens in a community in the schools and school facilities. Members of the committee said afterwards, "We have a better understanding of the whole thing now."

The other board member present was Edgar A. Dashiell, dairyman. Other members of the Frostburg group included William Dolder, Mrs. Sara Dolder, Miss Elizabeth Workman, Fred Crowe, Commissioner William Lemmert, all of Frostburg, and William Wilson, Midland.

Wilson Resigns Post As County Attorney

Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday submitted his resignation on account of ill health.

Wilson informed the board that due to his health he would be unable to continue his own law practice and also handle county legal matters.

The resignation was accepted and the board ordered that John T. Fey, local attorney, be named to the post. Fey has been acting attorney to the board for several weeks.

Wilson was city attorney in the administration of George Henderson as mayor of Cumberland in the early 1930's.

Fey, a member of the Allegany county delegation to the Maryland Legislature, is one of the youngest men ever to hold the post. A veteran of World War II, he is now attending the two-week training session with the local Marine Corps Reserve unit at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Stokes, who was struck over the head with a chair, suffered only minor injuries and was not taken to a hospital.

Hazelwood Gets Long Bridge Job

The George F. Hazelwood Construction Company, this city, has been awarded the contract for replacing the bridge at Long, on Route 40, and widening the approaches to the structure at a cost of about $200,000, G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the State Roads Commission, announced yesterday.

The approaches to the bridge will be about 1,700 feet long and the new bridge and roadway will be 44 feet wide. The bridge now in use will be torn down one-half at a time to allow traffic to proceed without too much delay, according to Chaires.

There are several rights-of-way not yet cleared, but these are expected to be adjusted within a few days and the contractor will then proceed with the work, Chaires said.

The contract calls for 165 working days to complete the project. Chaires said the bridge replacement will probably be finished this year, and that the approaches will be completed soon after work resumes next spring.

Relocation work between the Six Mile House and Eckhart has been retarded due to bad weather but is progressing nicely, Chaires said.

Resurfacing work is now underway between Crystal Park and the Cumberland city limits by the Cumberland Contracting Company. When it is completed the firm will start resurfacing Route 220 from the Celanese plant to the southern limits of Cresaptown.

A short detour which has been in effect at Cresaptown for several days will be lifted soon, Chaires said, as the contractor has about completed installing large drainage pipes beneath the roadway.

To broil tomatoes choose 6 medium-sized tomatoes, wash and slice off the stem top, then halve; if the halves do not stand straight even off the bottoms by slicing thinly. Mix about ¾ teaspoon salt, a dash of freshly-ground pepper, a dash of paprika, a quarter teaspoon of dried crumbled basil or a little fresh chopped basil, with about ¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs and about a tablespoon of melted butter or margarine. Spread a little of this mixture on each tomato half. Broil under moderate heat until tomatoes are hot through and topping is lightly browned.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24—(INS)—The reunion of Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire has met with such terrific enthusiasm that listen to this:

Frances Rafferty

MGM is going to re-unite Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. This is news that is going to delight the fans all over the world. I never cease getting letters asking why Jeanette and Nelson couldn't appear in a picture together.

Jeanette is more beautiful today than she has ever been anytime in her life. She gave a sensational performance at the Hollywood bowl last week. Nelson filled the concert halls last year when he was on tour. These two, more than any of the stars of yesterday, have kept their place in the heart of the public.

Binnie Barnes was at Feliza Vanderbilt's cocktail party saying au revoir to all her friends. She's leaving the "Leave It To The Girls" radio show, and goes to Italy Friday to make a movie.

Binnie will star in "The Dark Road," an Italian picture her husband, Mike Frankovitch, is making there. She's bought herself a wonderful new wardrobe and she'll stop off in England to see her friends and relatives.

Chatter in Hollywood: Ann Sheridan cut her lovely long red hair, not because she wanted to be in style, but because she plays a WAC in "I Was a Male War Bride."

Steve Hannagan surprised her when he flew here Saturday to say goodbye. It was he who arranged for her to buy her contract from Warners last week, to give her a chance to free lance.

She only wants to make one picture a year—the rest of the time she will spend in New York where Steve has his headquarters.

The Humphrey Bogarts' deal with Columbia for "Born Yesterday" is hot again.

Bogey is trying to get the play and make it as a part of his deal for his own pictures with the company. He doesn't want to play the Paul Douglas role. He would like to play the teacher and let Douglas have the role that made him famous on the stage.

Of course, Harry Cohn will have something to say before any deal can be made. It is entirely up to him.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Frances Rafferty is marrying Tom Baker, former air force colonel, the middle of next month. She is the former MGM actress who was engaged to Bob Stanton, Dick Haymes' brother, for such a long time. Bob remarried his first wife a few weeks ago.

The Reginald Gardiners were in an automobile smash up and have been nursing some bad bruises. Reggie's brakes failed to hold.

Harold Melniker, director of public relations at RKO, and Patricia Cohn are honeymooning at Lake Tahoe. They were married Saturday in Santa Monica.

Jimmy Stewart made many new friends when he sang a chorus of "Shine on Harvest Moon" with Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis at Slapsy Maxie's.

By the time this is in print Ben Bogeaus should be a proud father and Dolores Moran a beautiful mother. She has been in the hospital once and back home again, and her doctor now tells her the baby will be born any hour.

Desi Arnez thought it wasn't a good idea for Lucille Ball to be on the radio in a show called "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat," since Xavier Cugat is his rival in the rumba field. So Lucille changed the name, even though her show is based on the magazine series "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat."

The king and queen attended Hoagy Carmichael's performance at the Casino in London and he was kept on the stage for a full hour longer, taking encores. Royalty seems to like our Hollywood talent.

That's all today.

Climactic Scenes From Great Novels And Plays Planned

By GEORGE TUCKER
(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—Mutual has announced it is going ahead with its plans to bring the climatic scenes of many of the great novels and plays of history to the airways in a new dramatic series, "Great Scenes From Great Plays," beginning Friday, Oct. 1, 8 to 8:30 p. m.

The veteran stage actor Walter Hampden will be the host for these weekly presentations and will star in the first dramatization as the unfortunate lover, "Cyrano De Bergerac"—a role he has played more than 1,000 times in his many years on the stage.

The second broadcast finds screen actor Brian Ahern in "A Tale of Two Cities." After this will come the tender love story of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Browning (the Barrets of Wimpole Street), with Basil Rathbone and Beatrice Straight in the leading roles.

Other plays tentatively scheduled are "The Corn Is Green," with Jane Cowl; "On Borrowed Time," with Boris Karloff, and "The Light That Failed," with Henry Fonda.

"Scenes From Great Plays," will be presented on behalf of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By FRED ALLEN

In Defense Of Radio?

While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be continued by a number of guest writers. Today's contributor is Fred Allen.

Television is on the march! Radio is doomed! Alarmists report that panic-stricken actors scurry through the hallowed halls of N.B.C. with makeup kits concealed beneath their radio scrips ready to flee the microphone the instant video calls.

Fred Allen

As a journeyman radio pantaloon, I refuse to be stampeded until more ominous portents loom in my personal offing. In my frayed estimation, television today is nothing more than agitated decalcomania rampant on the tavern wall and in the family living-room. For entertainment television offers loquacious puppets, stout ladies bending over ovens assembling cucumber ragouts, blurred newsreels, assorted sporting events, antiquated B pictures and a few entertaining shows.

Radio, in rebuttal, fills the home with romp, revel and enlightening fare. Take inventory of the average radio day and your list will show the following attractions.

• — • — •

At the crack of dawn, as the farmer rises, he is reliably informed via radio that corn and hog prices are collapsing. Sensing it is futile to haul his crop and stock to market the farmer feeds his corn to the pigs and goes back to bed. Nine months later corn products are only to be found in the black market and pork prices are inflated — thanks to radio.

• — • — •

Two moulting-love-birds build a fresh nest in their microphone each morning and twitter away their allocated time. Cleverly blending commercials with gossip about their private lives, the celebrities they have hobnobbed with the previous evening and advice to their listeners on subjects ranging from swanculture to "how to harden canteloupes and make croquet balls out of them," the husband and wife mate the trite with the trivial and foal the drab. About all these programs prove is that the only time a married man will talk to his wife for a half hour is when they are sponsored.

Dramatic charades that distill trouble and dole it out in small episodes daily. The plot usually concerns a character named Just Simple Sam who, although his house is on fire, his daughter has eloped with a man who was seen coming out of a Henry Wallace rally, while his wife has just left town on a runaway horse and he has had an automobile accident that has broken his back, fractured his skull and crushed both legs, is still able to crawl to the microphone and help the announcer explain the big contest and where you mail the boxtops. If all of the tears caused by soap operas were laid end to end radio could open its own Gulf Stream.

Havens for housewives. Most quiz shows hastily establish the ignorance of the contestant and give her a refrigerator, an airplane or $20,000 to get away from the microphone. Many winners are so dumb they can't find their way out of the building. Months later, their bodies are found slumped over their prizes—a Road King trailer with a detachable outboard motor in case you want to use it for a crash boat during your vacation, a 300-piece dinner set of simulated agate or a lifetime supply of nutmegs. if every radio program was a quiz show—at a given signal the studio doors could be locked—all of the morons would be trapped. The rest of the population could go about its business.

Dramatize historical events and the stories of the sponsors' products. If the product is steel the program opens with a fanfare—the announcer shouts "STEEL!"—then follow a series of vignettes. 1. A little boy playing with an ingot. A man passing says "What is your, name son?" The boy answers "Andrew Carnegie, sir." (Dramatic music) 2. The steel plant in Pittsburgh. A workman is piling steel. Another workman says "Where does all this steel go, Stanislaus?" (Cymbal crash) A banjo is heard with steel strings, a messenger boy snaps his bicycle clips, two girders clank, a suspension bridge sways in the distance, shots and shells are heard —World War II. (Bugle calls—music crescendo). The announcer shouts "STEEL!" — because of present shortages you can't get it!"

A band, a singing group and an alleged comedian with his stooges. The listener has difficulty making up his mind about the comedy show. When the band is playing he wishes the singing group was singing. When the singing group is singing he wishes the comedian was telling jokes. When the comedian is telling jokes he wishes he had tuned in some other program. The average comedy show is no laughing matter.

Start with gunshots—a woman's shriek—a door slamming. The detective arrives and tells four bad jokes with his girl assistant. The body turns out to be Big Benny, a gangster who owns a nightclub called the Plaid Weasel. There are no clues. The detective and the girl tell seven more bad gags and drink two scotch and sodas. A phone rings. The detective answers and says softly "The mystery is solved, chief. The murderer is Limpy Lester, the pimento king. Big Benny stopped buying pimentos and was puttin' red flannel in the ends of the stuffed olives he was usin' in Martinis." Radio mysteries are always solved. The murderers are always caught. After they murder their victims they wait around the studio until the announcer reads the commercials.

Generally conducted by a Senator, a Congressman, a business tycoon and a newspaper columnist. The topic is—"How Should Truman Proceed with Stalin?" During the course of the discussion Truman is told exactly how to proceed with Stalin. Stalin is told how to help Truman proceed. The discussion goes off the air to riotous applause. One factor has not been taken into consideration. Truman didn't hear the program—neither did Stalin. They both go along growling at each other as before. Listening to most round table discussions is like boring a hole through the wall of a Turkish bath—all you get is a lot of hot air.

Often called "nocturnal non-sequiturs." To be a disk jockey you have to have insomnia and a collection of records. Most night clubs hire disk jockeys in self-defense. When business is bad the disk jockey makes enough noise in the club to keep the bartenders and the waiters awake. Like the owl, the other denizen of the night, when the sun comes up the disk jockey blinks, shakes himself, closes his eyes and sleeps through the day.

• — • — •

Radio has many more attractions — news comentators, who live in a state of perpetual flux. The average news commenator can wax just as hysterical reading his "Bunny Boo" (Rabbit Exterminator) commercial as he can relating the momentous happenings of the day. Dramatic shows named for products they advertise—The Peanut Butter Players—The Carborundum Cavalcade—The Athlete's Foot Follies (musical). Bride and Chump, which enables cretin couples to take their marriage vows over a coast-to-coast network and later to raise children who will become contestants on quiz programs. Musical—Jive and Conga with Sammy LaZonga, An Evening with Carmen Gundelfinger and so on far into the night.

I am not worried. While television is making up its mind, radio marches on! It may be a treadmill—but RADIO MARCHES ON!

Climactic Scenes From Great Novels And Plays Planned

(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—Mutual has announced it is going ahead with its plans to bring the climatic scenes of many of the great novels and plays of history to the airways in a new dramatic series, "Great Scenes From Great Plays," beginning Friday, Oct. 1, 8 to 8:30 p. m.

The veteran stage actor Walter Hampden will be the host for these weekly presentations and will star in the first dramatization as the unfortunate lover, "Cyrano De Bergerac"—a role he has played more than 1,000 times in his many years on the stage.

The second broadcast finds screen actor Brian Ahern in "A Tale of Two Cities." After this will come the tender love story of Robert Browning and Elizabeth Browning (the Barrets of Wimpole Street), with Basil Rathbone and Beatrice Straight in the leading roles.

Other plays tentatively scheduled are "The Corn Is Green," with Jane Cowl; "On Borrowed Time," with Boris Karloff, and "The Light That Failed," with Henry Fonda.

"Scenes From Great Plays," will be presented on behalf of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Hannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hannon, Maryland Avenue, Westernport, at a nuptial mass.

The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's uncle, Rev. Robert Emmett Hannon, pastor of St. Agnes Church, Arlington, Va. Rev. Charles Quinn and Rev. George Pugh, assistant pastors of St. Peter's Church here, and Rev. John Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Cumberland, were in the sanctuary.

The altar was decorated with gladioli and hydrangeas.

George Ord, Maryland Avenue, Westernport, sang "Ave Maria," "O Jesu" and "Lady of the Sacred Heart." Mrs. Ord, who also played the traditional wedding marches, played the accompaniments for her husband.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Thomas A. O'Brien, was attired in a gown of white satin with fitted bodice, lace yoke, long pointed sleeves and full skirt ending in a long train. Her fingertip length veil of French illusion fell from a halo bonnet of satin and illusion and was tied under her chin with satin ribbon. She carried a white satin prayer book with orchid marker and white pearl rosaries, a gift of Rev. Hannon. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Louise O'Brien, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and was attired in a gown of pink and marquisette with lace inserts and matching halo bonnet and gloves. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay tied with pale blue satin ribbon.

Hannon, Sr., mother of the bridegroom, was attired in black crepe with accessories to match and wore an orchid corsage.

Breakfast was served at the home of the bride's brother, Thomas A. O'Brien, to the bridal party and clergy. The reception was held at the bride's home following the breakfast. The home was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and white tapers. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the refreshment table and was surrounded by smilax and maiden-hair fern.

Crops Damaged, But Dealings High

ROMNEY, W. Va.—Damage to peach and apple crops in Hampshire County due to hail storms last week, was reported to be severe in some spots, but comparatively light in others.

However, peach dealings reached peak volume during the week at Romney, with the best Elbertas bringing $3 to $3.50, F.O.B. Commanding the top figure were good U. S. No. 1 Elbertas two inches and up.

The one and three-quarters to two-inch size brought from $2 to $2.50 F.O.B. in mixed-size shipments, and $1.75 to $2 in straight loads. The better "tree run" peaches commanded about $1.50 to $1.75.

Apple dealings were reported light, due to the heavy peach trading. However, Greenings, Maiden Blush and Wealthies were bringing about $2.50 F.O.B. for the best size and quality. Dealings in Jonathan and Grimes apples are expected to start in the week of September 13.

The Chambersburg, Pa., area, reported to have a good peach crop, is expected to become the chief peach-supply area in the East after this week, as dealings in Hampshire County have already reached the peak.

Hannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hannon, Maryland Avenue, Westernport, at a nuptial mass.

The ceremony was performed by the bridegroom's uncle, Rev. Robert Emmett Hannon, pastor of St. Agnes Church, Arlington, Va. Rev. Charles Quinn and Rev. George Pugh, assistant pastors of St. Peter's Church here, and Rev. John Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Cumberland, were in the sanctuary.

The altar was decorated with gladioli and hydrangeas.

George Ord, Maryland Avenue, Westernport, sang "Ave Maria," "O Jesu" and "Lady of the Sacred Heart." Mrs. Ord, who also played the traditional wedding marches, played the accompaniments for her husband.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Thomas A. O'Brien, was attired in a gown of white satin with fitted bodice, lace yoke, long pointed sleeves and full skirt ending in a long train. Her fingertip length veil of French illusion fell from a halo bonnet of satin and illusion and was tied under her chin with satin ribbon. She carried a white satin prayer book with orchid marker and white pearl rosaries, a gift of Rev. Hannon. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Louise O'Brien, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and was attired in a gown of pink and marquisette with lace inserts and matching halo bonnet and gloves. She carried an old-fashioned nosegay tied with pale blue satin ribbon.

The ushers were James A. Welsh, III, and Thomas Donnelly.

Hannon, Sr., mother of the bridegroom, was attired in black crepe with accessories to match and wore an orchid corsage.

Breakfast was served at the home of the bride's brother, Thomas A. O'Brien, to the bridal party and clergy. The reception was held at the bride's home following the breakfast. The home was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and white tapers. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the refreshment table and was surrounded by smilax and maiden-hair fern.

Crops Damaged, But Dealings High

ROMNEY, W. Va.—Damage to peach and apple crops in Hampshire County due to hail storms last week, was reported to be severe in some spots, but comparatively light in others.

However, peach dealings reached peak volume during the week at Romney, with the best Elbertas bringing $3 to $3.50, F.O.B. Commanding the top figure were good U. S. No. 1 Elbertas two inches and up.

The one and three-quarters to two-inch size brought from $2 to $2.50 F.O.B. in mixed-size shipments, and $1.75 to $2 in straight loads. The better "tree run" peaches commanded about $1.50 to $1.75.

Apple dealings were reported light, due to the heavy peach trading. However, Greenings, Maiden Blush and Wealthies were bringing about $2.50 F.O.B. for the best size and quality. Dealings in Jonathan and Grimes apples are expected to start in the week of September 13.

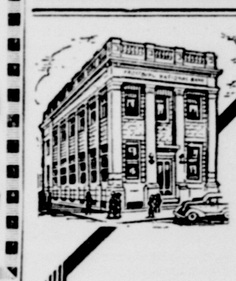

The Chambersburg, Pa., area, reported to have a good peach crop, is expected to become the chief peach-supply area in the East after this week, as dealings in Hampshire County have already reached the peak.

In Memoriam

In remembrance of Albert T. Davis, who was killed in service, 4 years ago today, August 25, 1944.
We did not see you die, we only know
You went away and never did come back.
Memories of you no one can steal;
Some have forgotten you now you've gone,
But we never will, no matter how long.
Loving and always a kind word to say;
Upright and just to the end of the way;
Sincere and true in heart and mind;
What a beautiful memory you left behind.
Sadly missed by Mother & Family.

In Memoriam

In remembrance of Albert T. Davis, who was killed in service, 4 years ago today, August 25, 1944.
We did not see you die, we only know
You went away and never did come back.
Memories of you no one can steal;
Some have forgotten you now you've gone,
But we never will, no matter how long.
Loving and always a kind word to say;
Upright and just to the end of the way;
Sincere and true in heart and mind;
What a beautiful memory you left behind.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for all the kindness and sympathy at the time of the death of our dear husband and son, Robert Dodds. We especially wish to thank Rev. John E. Stocks, those who gave flowers and contributed the use of their cars for the funeral service.
The Dodds Family.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, the late Mr. Harry H. Bosley. We especially wish to thank the employees of The Cement Products Co. and the Community Baking Co. and the Md. State Police. We wish to thank all who sent flowers and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Mrs. Harry H. Bosley and Family.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during the illness and following the death of our beloved brother, Emery B. McLuckie. We especially wish to thank Rev. Donald F. Brake, those who donated cars and who sent floral tributes.

Law Offices of Morris Baron, Law Building, Cumberland, Maryland.
ORDER OF PUBLICATION
George D. Kennedy vs. Edna M. Kennedy. No. 20854 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.
The object of this suit is to secure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII for the plaintiff. The bill states that the parties were married in Cumberland, Maryland, on January 6, 1932; that no children were born of said marriage; that the defendant without just cause abandoned the plaintiff and that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for over eighteen months and is final and deliberate and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, whereas the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and her present whereabouts are unknown.
It is thereupon this 24th day of August, 1948, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once a week for four successive weeks before the 24th day of September, 1948, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning her to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 11th day of October, 1948, and show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

William Ahern vs. Opal C. Ahern, No. 20817 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.
The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Plaintiff A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant.
The Bill states that they were married on the 24th day of December, 1923, and that the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff more than eighteen months before the filing of this cause and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that there was one child born unto this marriage; namely, Richard Allan Ahern, and the Plaintiff asks the permanent custody of this child be awarded to him; that the Plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year prior to the bringing of this action and the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and is not engaged in Military Service, and the Plaintiff asks for an Order of Publication against the Defendant and for general relief.

Final Market Prices Show Gains As Buying Power Of Stocks Jump

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — Buying power expanded in the stock market late today and final prices showed gains of fractions to more than 2 points.

Activity increased during the final hours when railroad issues rolled their way to the head of the list but sales for the day totaled only 620,000 shares. This compared with 630,000 Monday.

Railroad stocks finally got rolling late in the day and helped prop the entire price structure. Only scant attention was paid at first to the July earnings of the rail systems as disclosed in early reports but traders evidently shook off some of their caution as they watched the favorable figures come in.

Up one point or so were Southern Pacific 61⅝, Santa Fe 114¾, Union Pacific 92, U. S. Steel 77⅝, Youngstown Sheet 80½, Oliver Corp. 32, Textron 15, Savage Arms 15½, American Smelting 60⅜, Du Pont 173, and Mission Corp. 55½.

Others ahead included N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Republic Steel, General Motors, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft, American Telephone, International Telephone, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse Electric, Radio Corp., International Paper, and Twentieth-Century Fox.

Schenley was off ½ point at 27¾ and losses were posted for Goodrich, Consolidated Natural Gas, J. C. Penny, Stantard Oil (NJ), and Eastern Airlines.

In the curb increases were shown for Babcock & Wilcox, Derby Oil, Electric Bond & Share, Humble Oil, Standard Cap and Atlas Plywood. Losers included Fansteel Metallurgical and Cities Service. Sales of 80,000 shares compared with 210,000 Monday.

Grains rallied and cotton steadied in major futures markets.

Wheat advanced 1¾ to 4½ cents a bushel, corn ⅞ to 3⅝ and oats ⅜ to 1 cent. New York cotton futures ended 30 cents a bale higher to 5 cents lower.

Bonds generally showed irregular and narrow price changes in a market dominated by trading in New Haven railroad issues.

The New Haven obligations accounted for more than 15 per cent of the day's total sales of $2,630,000 which represented a slight expansion from Monday's $2,530,000.

Liveliest dealings were in the income 4½s which finished ⅜ higher at 50⅛. The collateral 6s, which the company announced it planned to pay off September 1, advanced ¼ to 84¼. These bonds, due 1940, total $12,785,322. Holders already have received $164.50 on each bond, plus interest payments. The planned retirement of these liens will result in return to the company of collateral backing them — preferred shares, first and refunding mortgage bonds and income bonds.

Heaviest activity centered on issues making fractional gains, among them American Telephone 2¾s of '57, Missouri Pacific convertible 5 ½s, and St. Paul income 4½s. Other climbers included Shell Union 2½s, up a point at 94¾, Peoria & Eastern income 4s, ahead 1⅜ at 19½, and Pennsylvania Central Airline 3½s, up 1¼ at 44¼.

Consolidated Edison convertible 3s were active at fractionally lower prices. Some sharp drops elsewhere occurred on transfers of only one or a few bonds. These included Michigan consolidated gas 3½s, down 3⅞; Public Service Electric & as 3s, off 3½; Great Northern 2¾s, down 3, and American & Foreign power 5s, off 2⅝.

U. S. Government bonds were fairly steady in over-the-counter dealings. The 2½s of September 1967-72 dipped 1/32 at 101 7/32 bid. World banks 3s dropped 10:32 on the exchange, trading at 79 12/32.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

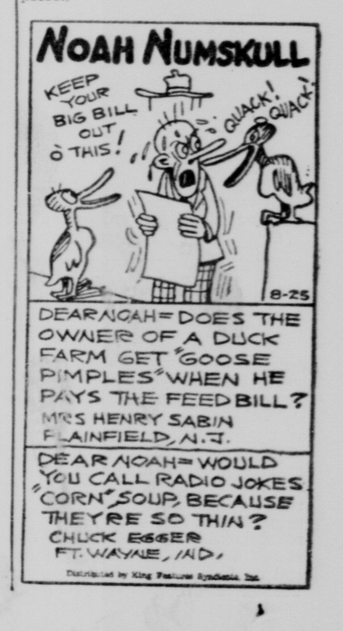

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Final Market Prices Show Gains As Buying Power Of Stocks Jump

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — Buying power expanded in the stock market late today and final prices showed gains of fractions to more than 2 points.

Activity increased during the final hours when railroad issues rolled their way to the head of the list but sales for the day totaled only 620,000 shares. This compared with 630,000 Monday.

Railroad stocks finally got rolling late in the day and helped prop the entire price structure. Only scant attention was paid at first to the July earnings of the rail systems as disclosed in early reports but traders evidently shook off some of their caution as they watched the favorable figures come in.

Up one point or so were Southern Pacific 61⅝, Santa Fe 114¾, Union Pacific 92, U. S. Steel 77⅝, Youngstown Sheet 80½, Oliver Corp. 32, Texiron 15, Savage Arms 15½, American Smelting 60⅜, Du Pont 173, and Mission Corp. 55½.

Others ahead included N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Republic Steel, General Motors, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft, American Telephone, International Telephone, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse Electric, Radio Corp., International Paper, and Twentieth-Century Fox.

Schenley was off ½ point at 27¾ and losses were posted for Goodrich, Consolidated Natural Gas, J. C. Penny, Stantard Oil (NJ), and Eastern Airlines.

In the curb increases were shown for Babcock & Wilcox, Derby Oil, Electric Bond & Share, Humble Oil, Standard Cap and Atlas Plywood. Losers included Fansteel Metallurgical and Cities Service. Sales of 80,000 shares compared with 210,000 Monday.

Grains rallied and cotton steadied in major futures markets.

Wheat advanced 1¼ to 4½ cents a bushel, corn ⅞ to 3⅝ and oats ⅝ to 1 cent. New York cotton futures ended 30 cents a bale higher to 5 cents lower.

Bonds generally showed irregular and narrow price changes in a market dominated by trading in New Haven railroad issues.

The New Haven obligations accounted for more than 15 per cent of the day's total sales of $2,630,000 which represented a slight expansion from Monday's $2,530,000.

Liveliest dealings were in the income 4½s which finished ⅜ higher at 50⅛. The collateral 6s, which the company announced it planned to pay off September 1, advanced ¼ to 84¼. These bonds, due 1940, total $12,785,322. Holders already have received $164.50 on each bond, plus interest payments. The planned retirement of these liens will result in return to the company of collateral backing them — preferred shares, first and refunding mortgage bonds and income bonds.

Heaviest activity centered on issues making fractional gains, among them American Telephone 2⅜s of '57, Missouri Pacific convertible 5½s, and St. Paul income 4½s. Other climbers included Shell Union 2½s, up a point at 94¾, Peoria & Eastern income 4s, ahead 1⅜ at 19½, and Pennsylvania Central Airline 3½s, up 1¼ at 44½.

Consolidated Edison convertible 3s were active at fractionally lower prices. Some sharp drops elsewhere occurred on transfers of only one or a few bonds. These included Michigan consolidated gas 3½s, down 3⅞; Public Service Electric & as 3s, off 3¼; Great Northern 2⅝s, down 3, and American & Foreign power 5s, off 2⅛.

U. S. Government bonds were fairly steady in over-the-counter dealings. The 2½s of September 1967-72 dipped 1/32 at 101 7/32 bid. World banks 3s dropped 10:32 on the exchange, trading at 79 12/32.

Frostburg Stadium Plan Aired

Special Funds Not Earmarked For Beall Field

Project Getting Bulk Of Maintenance Money

The Allegany County Board of Education has never appropriated funds for a football stadium or playing field at Beall High School, Frostburg, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and members of the board informed a citizens committee of Frostburg yesterday.

A dozen representatives of a citizens committee, formed in the interest of speeding up work on the Beall field and completing the stadium as soon as possible, made a surprise visit to the Board of Education. Dr. Albert C. Cook, their spokesman and chairman, went to Kopp's office and asked for an audience. Kopp agreed to ask the board members, due for a regular board meeting, to discuss the situation.

War Surplus Job

In substance, the Frostburg delegation learned that World War II was probably the greatest contributing factor to the playing field and potential stadium at Frostburg.

Kopp explained he learned shortly after the war that School Boards would be given a top priority on certain pieces of heavy equipment in the War Surplus machinery pool, if the School Boards could show the equipment was needed on major projects. He immediately set plans in order for the stadium at Frostburg and applied for the machinery.

As a result, he and members of the board said, about $60,000 worth of heavy equipment was obtained from the Federal government at a cost of $255 for freight.

Wilbur V. Wilson, local attorney, and president of the Commercial Bank, a school board member, said, "Mr. Kopp is to be praised for his ingenuity in getting this valuable equipment."

Kopp said that after certain school work is finished the equipment will be turned over to the County Commissioners for their use on roads or other county work.

When the equipment arrived, Kopp told the group it was put to work on the Frostburg playing field. Work was actually started in August, 1946, "not three years ago as claimed, but two years ago," Kopp said.

List 12 Queries

In answering a list of 12 questions prepared by the Frostburg citizens group, Kopp disclosed that there has never been an appropriation for a stadium in Frostburg or anywhere else in Allegany County.

Funds used on work at the Frostburg field have been taken from a $75,000 appropriation originally set-up for school maintenance. Because of the high cost of labor and material, and the shortage of many types of material and labor, the school board agreed to take a larger portion of this $75,000 and use it, as far as possible, in excavating a bowl at Beall High School, with the thought in mind that over a period of time a modern stadium and playing field would result.

$44,330 Spent To Date

As of July 31, a total of $44,330.64 or more than 60 per cent of the county-wide school maintainence fund has been spent at the Frostburg field, Kopp said.

Kopp broke the expenditures down as follows: Truck hire and machinery rental, $12,161.66; pipe for drains, $5,420.55; material and maintenance of equipment, $7,617.45; labor, $14,558.24; engineering service, $1,551.10; and fuel for machinery, $3,021.64.

When it is considered that more than 100,000 cubic yards of earth have been moved on the job, and a private contractor charges from $1 to $1.25 per cubic yard, the school board has made a remarkable saving by using its own equipment and own labor.

There is only $11,214.98 remaining in the $75,000 maintenance fund, since some monies were expended on repairs to other school buildings in the county. Part of this money should be kept for possible emergency repairs, board members declared, and all of it cannot be spent on the Frostburg project.

It was made quite clear by Kopp and members of the board that the County Commissioners have never been asked for special appropriations of county tax money for football fields or stadiums. Kopp said, "We have never attempted to place the County Commissioners in an embarrassing position, where they would find it necessary to refuse any appropriation to the school board which might be considered by some people as not entirely essential."

Stadiums Not Required

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., Westernport attorney and member of the board, told the visitors that the school board is not required to provide any facilities for football or other sports. These things are usually encouraged as extra-curricular activity, as a means of developing sportsmanship, and physical education. "The Board's first responsibility," he declared, "is the education of our children."

Kopp reminded the group that only two other counties in Maryland permit football in their schools. The State Board of Education does not encourage its promotion, he

STADIUM DELEGATION--A Citizens Committee representing Frostburg and vicinity paid an unscheduled visit to the Board of Education office yesterday and presented a list of 12 questions in an effort to throw some light on the unfinished Beall High School playing field. The project was aired in a round table discussion with the board members and Superintendent of Schools Charles L. Kopp. Members of the delegation shown in the above picture include (left to right, seated), Fred Crowe, Chester A. Stewart, Dr. Albert C. Cook, chairman, and County Commissioner William H. Tillie Pancake Is Named Winner In Keyser Show

16-Year Old High School Girl Crowned

KEYSER, W. Va. — Miss Tillie Pancake, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Pancake, New Creek, was crowned "Miss Keyser of 1948" last night after being chosen the winner among 35 contestants.

Miss Pancake, sponsored by Goldsworthy's Store, is employed as a waitress at Perry's Restaurant and will enter the senior class of Keyser High School this fall.

She was presented with first prize of $75, a large bouquet of red roses and crowned by Miss Gaydon Greenwalt, "Miss Keyser of 1947."

Two next door neighbors won second and third places. Miss Colleen Rumer, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rumer, 102 Chestnut Street, was voted into second place honors, while Miss Bonnie Ludwick, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ludwick, 104 Chestnut Street, finished third.

Miss Rumer was the Band Box Beauty Shop entry and is a junior in Keyser High School. Miss Ludwick was the entry representing Georgia's Store, and is employed as cashier at the A & P Tea Company Store. Miss Rumer received $50 cash and Miss Ludwick $25.

Fourth and fifth prizes of $10 each went to Miss Patsy Rice, Ann's Beauty Shop entry, and Miss Mary Mac Bess, Hershey's Ice Cream entry.

The girls appeared in two groups, one of 17 and one of 18. From the first group five finalists were selected and from the second, six were chosen. These 11 finalists then competed for the title.

The affair, sponsored by the Keyser Junior Chamber of Commerce, was held before a capacity audience in the high school auditorium with an overflow crowd peering in the windows. Judges were Charles A. Catherman, Jr., and James Wilkinson, Cumberland, and Horace Whitworth, Jr., Westernport.

An entertainment program with Roy Davidson and James Burnside was part of the program.

Vocal selections were offered by Miss Irene Keller, Westernport. Robert Heisey, Cumberland played several piano selections. A song and dance routine was presented by Miss Toni Dayton, Westernport, and a similar routine was offered by Miss Peggy Ann Oates, Keyser.

"Miss Keyser of 1948" will be queen of events featuring the West Virginia State Firemen's Association meetings here beginning Thursday.

All the 35 contestants are to receive cash and merchandise prizes for their participation in the contest.

Enlisted personnel of the Naval Reserve who have 14 days of active or training duty prior to April 20, 1949, will be qualified to compete for appointment to the Naval Academy next year, it was announced by the Secretary of the Navy.

The modification will permit Reservists who live beyond the general vicinity of an Organized Reserve unit, or for other reasons have been unable to attend regular drills, to compete in the entrance examinations, which determine the appointment of a maximum of 160 Reservists annually to the Academy.

Trades Council Issues Warning On Ad Seekers

The Allegany Trades Council, central body of the American Federation of Labor here, announced last night that it has nothing whatsoever to do with a labor publication which is seeking advertisements here for a Labor Day issue.

C. E. Stutzman, president, said it was a policy of the Trades Council that any labor paper seeking advertisements here must clear through the Council, adding that this has not been done by the publication.

Stutzman said the solicitor seeking ads here is representing himself as a State AFL representative which "is not true to the best of our knowledge."

The publication solicitor represents, Stutzman said, is a Baltimore paper and has very little if any circulation in Western Maryland, and local unions in this area derive no benefit whatsoever from any ads placed in this paper.

AFL officials pointed out that any persons soliciting advertisements in the name of labor have standing instructions to first seek the sanction of Trades Councils in the area.

Several AFL officials here yesterday pointed out that they doubted very seriously the value of any such advertisement and said they personally were against the selling of ads in programs or any occasional publication.

A number of local business firms, it is reported, have been on the receiving end of high pressure salesmen for such publications, both in person and over long distance telephone lines.

On each occasion, when the business men checked with labor officials here, they were told to ignore the appeal.

Trades Council officials said they are checking with top state and national AFL heads on the paper in question.

Recruiting Team To Visit Here

A special Army recruiting team from Headquarters, European Command, will soon make appearances here and at other points in the Second Army Area to stimulate enlistments in the First Infantry Division and the United States Constabulary, it was announced yesterday by Lt. Col. John G. Shettle, Maryland Recruiting District commander.

Col. Shettle said the team would consist of four enlisted men especially picked for the job. The period of enlistment in these divisions will be limited to the months of September, October and November, he added.

Additional information can be obtained at the local Army and Air Force Main Recruiting Station, Room 204, Postoffice Building.

Park Board To Judge Display Of Handicrafts

Playground Exhibit Scheduled Tomorrow

A display of arts and crafts projects completed by children at the 13 city playgrounds this summer will be exhibited in City Hall auditorium tomorrow from 5 until 10 p. m., according to Mrs. Harry S. Anderson, city playground supervisor.

The event will climax the current 10-week playground season. City playgrounds will close Friday evening at 9 o'clock.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, Street Commissioner Edgar H. Reynolds and Mrs. Marguerite E. Findlay, who comprise the Park Board, will act as judges of the exhibit. Prizes will be awarded.

Judging, which will be closed to the public, will take place at 3 p. m. The exhibits will bear no identifying name tags until after prizes are awarded and the display is opened to the public at 5 p. m.

Mrs. Anderson said the exhibit, arranged through the co-operation of the playleaders, is the first of its kind to be presented here.

She explained that the exhibits are designed to bring to public attention what is being accomplished in playground activities.

Mrs. Anderson will be assisted by Mrs. Vivian Turley, president of the City Playground Associations, in setting up the various displays.

The supervisor also announced that the custom of holding free "treats" for the children at the various playgrounds on the closing day will be abandoned this year.

She explained that it was believed the necessary money could be put to better use in the purchase of new equipment, which has been done.

Over half of larger playground equipment ordered last spring was either not delivered or reached Cumberland too late for use during the current season, Mrs. Anderson said.

However, that equipment will probably be on hand for next season, she added.

Although festivals and parties are being held at a number of the playgrounds this week, no formal closing events are planned, Mrs. Anderson said.

Will Attend Meeting

F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024, AFL, will attend a meeting of the Maryland State Council of Carpenters to be held in Baltimore Friday at 8 p. m. Allender is first vice president of the state group.

Initial Shipment Of Street Signs En Route Here

Main Arteries Will Be Marked First

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he has ben informed that a consignment of 208 street signs is being shipped to Cumberland by Lyle Signs, Inc., Minneapolis.

The firm, which submitted a bid last fall of $1,754.74, including freight costs, was unable to fill the city's order earlier because of shortages of materials.

The mayor said arrangements will be made to install the street markers as soon as they arrive here. The shipment left Minneapolis August 17 and is expected to reach here sometime next week.

Mayor Post added that he plans to recommend ordering of at least 200 more street markers for shipment here by the time new appropriations are made next June for the start of the ensuing fiscal year.

About 700 or 800 street signs are expected to be needed for coverage of the entire city, and Mayor Post said the entire remaining amount may be ordered at that time.

The embossed markers will have black lettering on a white background, with black borders. The Minneapolis firm is providing the signs, brackets and fixtures.

The city has already obtained 130 iron poles for use in starting the street-marking project, which is expected to take several years for completion. Sixty-six of the signs will be mounted on light or telephone poles while the remaining 12 will be mounted on existing street marker poles.

All but two of the first consignment of 208 signs will be of the four-way variety, while the remaining two will be two-way markers, to be placed on Baltimore Avenue at Central YMCA and on Williams Street at the one-way street known as "old Williams Street."

Most of the street markers on Bedford Street will be reconditioned rather than replaced, while new signs will be placed at unmarked intersections along that street.

Main artery streets on which the present shipment of signs will be placed at intersections include Baltimore Street, Mechanic, Liberty, Centre, George, Washington, Cumberland, Fayette, Henderson Avenue, Thomas, Maryland, Louisiana, Virginia and Baltimore Avenues, Oldtown Road, Park, Green, Bedford and Williams.

Baker Gets 60 Days In Theft

A man booked as James R. Baker, this city, was sentenced to 60 days in County Jail yesterday after he pleaded guilty in Trial Magistrates Court to a charge of stealing a motor from the Wilson Hardware Company last Wednesday.

Sentence was passed by Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr. The motor was valued at $20.

Samuel Blank, 314 Broadway, charged with the theft of a $70 watch from the Cumberland Loan Company Friday afternoon, was released yesterday from County Jail, where he had been held under $500 bond for action of the October Grand Jury.

Blank waived a preliminary hearing earlier in the day in Trial Magistrates Court and was committed to jail until posting bond.

Detective Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said Blank walked into the loan company store and picked up a watch from a counter while the clerk was busy. The watch is owned by R. N. Ambrose, Central YMCA.

Blank was arrested by Officer Theodore M. Rose on Baltimore Street, and Lilya said the watch was found in his possession at Police Headquarters.

Bedford Countian Admits Willison Bludgeoning

Self Defense Is Given As Motive

James Kelly Perdew, 47, who gave his address as two miles east of Bedford, at 1 o'clock this morning admitted to the bludgeon slaying of Frank Willison, 78-year-old employe and inmate of the Bedford County home, Sunday night, according to H. A. Clark, Bedford assistant chief of police.

Perdew said he killed Willison by striking him over the head with a wine bottle that he bought for the county home inmate several hours before.

Police quoted Perdew, who was arrested by Bedford city and Pennsylvania State Police at 1:30 p. m. (EST) yesterday, as saying he met Willison Sunday morning and purchased the wine for the elderly man after Willison requested it.

Perdew said that after he bought the wine he returned to a previously arranged meeting place where he found Willison and they began to drink the wine. A quarrel and fight resulted, police quoted Perdew as saying, adding that the victim allegedly drew a knife on Perdew, who claims he then struck Willison with the quart bottle in self defense.

Grilled Over 12 Hours

Police said they obtained Perdew's confession at 1 o'clock this morning after continuous grilling from 1:30 p. m. on Tuesday.

The body of the elderly man was found Sunday afternoon near the old Bedford Feed Mill. Police said the victim suffered a fractured skull, a three-inch gash on the head and a fractured jaw.

Assistant Chief Clark said he arrested Perdew Tuesday after interviews with several persons between Sunday and yesterday placed Perdew in the vicinity of the feed mill Sunday.

Perdew, according to Pennsylvania State Police who also assisted in the investigation, was arrested on South Richards Street, Bedford, where he was loitering yesterday, officers said.

Following questioning early this morning, Perdew was committed to the Bedford County jail where he is held without bond pending further investigation of the crime.

Police said they have not learned yet where Perdew went after striking Willison the fatal blow and added they do not know what caused the fight that led to the fatal blow being struck.

The first break in the bludgeoning death of Willison, came late last night when Bedford police confirmed a report that a man had been arrested and was being questioned in connection with the case.

The body of Willison was found late Sunday near the railroad station in Bedford, Pa., bearing four marks on the back of his head. Police said the body was discovered by Ned Russell of Bedford, lying in a distorted position under a tree at the west end of the Bedford Feed Mill.

Had 25 Cents

Bedford Chief of Police O. J. Stiffler said Willison was seen in Bedford Saturday and declared the man was a frequent and well known visitor to Bedford.

When the body was discovered, Willison had 25 cents in a pocket of his clothing. His hat and a cane he always carried were lying carefully on the grass, as if he placed them there and sat down. The place where the body was discovered was described as a "popular loafing place."

No motive could be found for the apparent murder, but marks on the aged man's head showed he had been struck a brutal blow from behind with a heavy weapon, or possibly four lighter blows with a smaller weapon, authorities said.

Willison was born in Hewitt, Bedford County, a son of the late Jeris and Emily Robinette Willison. For the past 15 years he had been employed as a baker at the County Home and in recent years resided there.

A funeral service for the victim was held yesterday afternoon in the Geisel Funeral Home, Bedford, with interment in Prosperity Cemetery, near Chaneysville.

Bakery Workers Plan Meeting On Contract Offer

To Act On Companies' "Final" Proposals

A special meeting of members of Local 246, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union, AFL, has been called for 2 p. m. Saturday at Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Charles W. Robinette, union business agent, said last night the meeting had been called secure union action on what he termed the final contract offers of four area bakeries.

No details of the proposed contract have been announced, but the 150 union members recently rejected an offer of a two and a half cents an hour increase.

The negotiations between the bakeries and the union have been at a stalemate since late in June. The union's contract with Schmidt, Community and Ort's bakeries here and McIntyre's at Westernport expired May 1, but it was a continuing contract and will remain in effect during contract negotiations.

Robinette said the union first asked a 25-cent an hour increase, but later dropped the figure to 15 cents an hour after the companies made their two-and-a-half cents offer.

Harold Dixon, union president, reported that the main difficulties revolved around the wage hike proposals. The union won a union security election held in June by the National Labor Relations Board, and has the right to incorporate a union shop clause in the contract.

After the talks became deadlocked, James T. Holden, federal conciliator, attended meetings between union and company representatives.

Three Injured In Car-Truck Crash

Three girls were injured, none seriously, in a truck-car collision on the Hoffman Road near Eckhart at 10:45 p. m. yesterday.

The girls, all of whom were treated at Miners Hospital, are Mary Jennings, 17, Frostburg; Ruth Smeltz, 18, Frostburg, and Zoe Leatherman, 17, National. The nature of their injuries was still undetermined early this morning, but it was indicated they were not seriously hurt.

Trooper Harry S. Bosley of the State Police, who investigated, said a car operated by Donald T. Connor, 20, Eckhart, was descending a hill near a detour on the road when he passed a truck operated by Orville R. Butler, 32, Star Route, Frostburg, which was going uphill.

The left front of the car struck the left rear of the mine-prop-loaded truck as the vehicles passed, Bosley said. The impact turned the car around and left the rear wheels hanging over a culvert. The girls were occupants of the car.

The accident occurred about 100 feet east of the C. and P. Railroad crossing, where the road is narrow, Bosley said, adding that no charges would be preferred as the accident was apparently unavoidable.

Unions Seek Contract At American Stores

Contract negotiations between the American Stores Company and Local 886, Retail Clerks, and Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, both AFL, will open Friday in Bedford, Pa.

About 125 employes in stores in this area will be affected. The present contract expires October 3 and the union is asking a 25 cent increase in the new agreement.

C. E. Stutzman, acting business agent for the Clerks Union, and Mike Roth, international representative of the Meat Cutters, will head the union negotiators.

Local 1874 To Vote On Dues Increase

Special meetings will be held tonight at 8 o'clock and tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in the Maryland State Armory, South Centre Street, for action on a proposal to increase the dues of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, from $1.50 to $2 a month.

The local last week called a special meeting at the union hall for the reading of the proposal.

The measure was unanimously approved August 11 after members heard the terms of a contract settlement with the Celanese firm granting a 15 cent hourly boost for some 8,000 workers of the Amcelle plant. The next day, Playford Aldridge, union president, announced that the action must be advertised and special meetings held for reading and action to conform with the by-laws of the local.

City Manager Plan:

Cities Provide Services, Save With Manager Plan

By RICHARD S. CHILDS
Chairman of the Council, National Municipal League

Outmoded state constitutions and various legal obstacles make it difficult to adopt the Council-Manager plan in some states, notably Illinois and Indiana. Yet of the 107 American cities with populations between 50,000 and 100,000, 33—or almost one-third—are operating under the plan. These include Berkeley, Glendale, Pasadena, Sacramento and San Jose, California; Covington, Kentucky; Jackson, Kalamazoo, Pontiac and Saginaw, Michigan; New Rochelle, Niagara Falls and Schenectady, New York; Asheville, Charlotte, Durham and Greensboro, North Carolina; Cleveland Heights, Hamilton and Springfield, Ohio; Austin, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Waco, Texas; Roanoke, Virginia; Wheeling, West Virginia; and Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Schenectady began operation under the city manager plan in January, 1936. The net cash deficit of $121,810 which the city had on its hands was transformed by the end of 1937 to a net cash surplus of $64,949. At the same time the tax rate was reduced $1.19 and the bonded debt by $610,263.

Consolidations Says Expense

Welfare activities were consolidated for greater efficiency and an annual administrative saving of $27,000. A policy of buying for cash saved more than $3,000 in discounts alone from June 1 to the end of the year, besides other savings in lower prices. A department of parks and recreation and a bureau of traffic and city planning were established and the two old departments of public service and engineering were consolidated to form the department of engineering and public works at an administrative saving of $10,000 annually.

While these and other economies were being made, services and improvements increased. Fire department reorganization boosted effectiveness 10% and made the fire loss the lowest in 16 years. Two-way radio was installed for the police. Streets were widened and improved, a new park was completed, and the clinic work of the health department was expanded.

Pasadena Met Emergency

When a flood damaged the municipal golf course and the flood control channel to the extent of $300,000, Pasadena's city manager was not alarmed. He knew the city had $650,000 as a reserve for capital outlays and emergencies.

During 1937 Pasadena increased its general fund balance by more than $130,000, paid in advance its 10-year obligation for $400,000 worth of Boulder Dam machinery and paid in advance $300,000 or 20% of its obligations to the Los An-

The Weather

The city sweltered yesterday, especially in the downtown section where unofficial temperatures were reported as high as 95. However, the official reading taken in Constitution Park showed a maximum of 88, with 78 at 8 p. m. and 71 at 11 p. m. The minimum for the day was 62 at 4 a. m. with 65 recorded at 8 a. m. There was no rainfall, and indications late last night pointed to warmer and continued dry weather today. The official prediction calls for "sunny and warmer weather."

John Morgan, LaVale, Ends 34 Years Of Operation As Grocer In Cumberland

John Morgan, LaVale, who has been in the grocery business in Cumberland since 1914, announced yesterday that he is turning over his store at 107 South Lee Street in the Greene-Lee Apartment Building to C. P. Phares, this city, a former wholesale dealer.

The store's trade name of "Morgan Brothers Market" will continue in use for the time being. Financial details of the transaction were not disclosed.

Morgan emphasized that operation of the market will remain the same, and that all of the five regular employes will continue working there. No alteration of the store premises is planned, he added.

He explained that he would not have made arrangements for selling the business if those conditions had not been agreed upon, because of his obligation to his customers.

The store, located on the first floor of the three-story building owned by Robert W. Young, has been in operation at that site since June, 1936, three months after the disastrous St. Patrick's Day flood wiped out the store which Morgan previously operated at 25 North Mechanic Street.

After having been "flooded out" three times at the North Mechanic Street location, twice in 1924 and again in 1936 Morgan decided "that was enough for me," and moved to the present location.

Although he is retiring from the grocery business, Morgan stated definitely that his active business life is not over, although he was not

Frostburg Stadium Plan Aired

Project Getting Bulk Of Maintenance Money

The Allegany County Board of Education has never appropriated funds for a football stadium or playing field at Beall High School, Frostburg, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and members of the board informed a citizens committee of Frostburg yesterday.

A dozen representatives of a citizens committee, formed in the interest of speeding up work on the Beall field and completing the stadium as soon as possible, made a surprise visit to the Board of Education. Dr. Albert C. Cook, their spokesman and chairman, went to Kopp's office and asked for an audience. Kopp agreed to ask the board members, due for a regular board meeting, to discuss the situation.

War Surplus Job

In substance, the Frostburg delegation learned that World War II was probably the greatest contributing factor to the playing field and potential stadium at Frostburg.

Kopp explained he learned shortly after the war that School Boards would be given a top priority on certain pieces of heavy equipment in the War Surplus machinery pool, if the School Boards could show the equipment was needed on major projects. He immediately set plans in order for the stadium at Frostburg and applied for the machinery.

As a result, he and members of the board said, about $60,000 worth of heavy equipment was obtained from the Federal government at a cost of $255 for freight.

Wilbur V. Wilson, local attorney, and president of the Commercial Bank, a school board member, said, "Mr. Kopp is to be praised for his ingenuity in getting this valuable equipment."

Kopp said that after certain school work is finished the equipment will be turned over to the County Commissioners for their use on roads or other county work.

When the equipment arrived, Kopp told the group it was put to work on the Frostburg playing field. Work was actually started in August, 1946, "not three years ago as claimed, but two years ago," Kopp said.

List 12 Queries

In answering a list of 12 questions prepared by the Frostburg citizens group, Kopp disclosed that there has never been an appropriation for a stadium in Frostburg or anywhere else in Allegany County.

Funds used on work at the Frostburg field have been taken from a $75,000 appropriation originally set-up for school maintenance. Because of the high cost of labor and material, and the shortage of many types of material and labor, the school board agreed to take a larger portion of this $75,000 and use it, as far as possible, in excavating a bowl at Beall High School, with the thought in mind that over a period of time a modern stadium and playing field would result.

$44,330 Spent To Date

As of July 31, a total of $44,330.64 or more than 60 per cent of the county-wide school maintainence fund has been spent at the Frostburg field, Kopp said.

Kopp broke the expenditures down as follows: Truck hire and machinery rental, $12,161.66; pipe for drains, $5,420.55; material and maintenance of equipment, $7,617.45; labor, $14,558.24; engineering service, $1,551.10; and fuel for machinery, $3,021.64.

When it is considered that more than 100,000 cubic yards of earth have been moved on the job, and a private contractor charges from $1 to $1.25 per cubic yard, the school board has made a remarkable saving by using its own equipment and own labor.

There is only $11,214.98 remaining in the $75,000 maintenance fund, since some monies were expended on repairs to other school buildings in the county. Part of this money should be kept for possible emergency repairs, board members declared, and all of it cannot be spent on the Frostburg project.

It was made quite clear by Kopp and members of the board that the County Commissioners have never been asked for special appropriations of county tax money for football fields or stadiums. Kopp said, "We have never attempted to place the County Commissioners in an embarrassing position, where they would find it necessary to refuse any appropriation to the school board which might be considered by some people as not entirely essential."

Stadiums Not Required

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., Westernport attorney and member of the board, told the visitors that the school board is not required to provide any facilities for football or other sports. These things are usually encouraged as extra-curricular activity, as a means of developing sportsmanship, and physical education. "The Board's first responsibility," he declared, "is the education of our children."

Kopp reminded the group that only two other counties in Maryland permit football in their schools. The State Board of Education does not encourage its promotion, he Kopp. Members of the delegation shown in the above picture include (left to right, seated), Fred Crowe, Chester A. Stewart, Dr. Albert C. Cook, chairman, and County Commissioner William H. Enlisted personnel of the Naval Reserve who have 14 days of active or training duty prior to April 20, 1949, will be qualified to compete for appointment to the Naval Academy next year, it was announced by the Secretary of the Navy.

The modification will permit Reservists who live beyond the general vicinity of an Organized Reserve unit, or for other reasons have been unable to attend regular drills, to compete in the entrance examinations, which determine the appointment of a maximum of 160 Reservists annually to the Academy.

Trades Council Issues Warning On Ad Seekers

The Allegany Trades Council, central body of the American Federation of Labor here, announced last night that it has nothing whatsoever to do with a labor publication which is seeking advertisements here for a Labor Day issue.

C. E. Stutzman, president, said it was a policy of the Trades Council that any labor paper seeking advertisements here must clear through the Council, adding that this has not been done by the publication.

Stutzman said the solicitor seeking ads here is representing himself as a State AFL representative which "is not true to the best of our knowledge."

The publication solicitor represents, Stutzman said, is a Baltimore paper and has very little if any circulation in Western Maryland, and local unions in this area derive no benefit whatsoever from any ads placed in this paper.

AFL officials pointed out that any persons soliciting advertisements in the name of labor have standing instructions to first seek the sanction of Trades Councils in the area.

Several AFL officials here yesterday pointed out that they doubted very seriously the value of any such advertisement and said they personally were against the selling of ads in programs or any occasional publication.

A number of local business firms, it is reported, have been on the receiving end of high pressure salesmen for such publications, both in person and over long distance telephone lines.

On each occasion, when the business men checked with labor officials here, they were told to ignore the appeal.

Recruiting Team To Visit Here

Col. Shettle said the team would consist of four enlisted men especially picked for the job. The period of enlistment in these divisions will be limited to the months of September, October and November, he added.

Additional information can be obtained at the local Army and Air Force Main Recruiting Station, Room 204, Postoffice Building.

Park Board To Judge Display Of Handicrafts

Playground Exhibit Scheduled Tomorrow

A display of arts and crafts projects completed by children at the 13 city playgrounds this summer will be exhibited in City Hall auditorium tomorrow from 5 until 10 p. m., according to Mrs. Harry S. Anderson, city playground supervisor.

The event will climax the current 10-week playground season. City playgrounds will close Friday evening at 9 o'clock.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, Street Commissioner Edgar H. Reynolds and Mrs. Marguerite E. Findlay, who comprise the Park Board, will act as judges of the exhibit. Prizes will be awarded.

Judging, which will be closed to the public, will take place at 3 p. m. The exhibits will bear no identifying name tags until after prizes are awarded and the display is opened to the public at 5 p. m.

Mrs. Anderson said the exhibit, arranged through the co-operation of the playleaders, is the first of its kind to be presented here.

She explained that the exhibits are designed to bring to public attention what is being accomplished in playground activities.

Mrs. Anderson will be assisted by Mrs. Vivian Turley, president of the City Playground Associations, in setting up the various displays.

The supervisor also announced that the custom of holding free "treats" for the children at the various playgrounds on the closing day will be abandoned this year.

She explained that it was believed the necessary money could be put to better use in the purchase of new equipment, which has been done.

Over half of larger playground equipment ordered last spring was either not delivered or reached Cumberland too late for use during the current season, Mrs. Anderson said.

However, that equipment will probably be on hand for next season, she added.

Although festivals and parties are being held at a number of the playgrounds this week, no formal closing events are planned, Mrs. Anderson said.

Will Attend Meeting

F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024, AFL, will attend a meeting of the Maryland State Council of Carpenters to be held in Baltimore Friday at 8 p. m. Allender is first vice president of the state group.

Initial Shipment Of Street Signs En Route Here

Main Arteries Will Be Marked First

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he has ben informed that a consignment of 208 street signs is being shipped to Cumberland by Lyle Signs, Inc., Minneapolis.

The firm, which submitted a bid last fall of $1,754.74, including freight costs, was unable to fill the city's order earlier because of shortages of materials.

The mayor said arrangements will be made to install the street markers as soon as they arrive here. The shipment left Minneapolis August 17 and is expected to reach here sometime next week.

Mayor Post added that he plans to recommend ordering of at least 200 more street markers for shipment here by the time new appropriations are made next June for the start of the ensuing fiscal year.

About 700 or 800 street signs are expected to be needed for coverage of the entire city, and Mayor Post said the entire remaining amount may be ordered at that time.

The embossed markers will have black lettering on a white background, with black borders. The Minneapolis firm is providing the signs, brackets and fixtures.

The city has already obtained 130 iron poles for use in starting the street-marking project, which is expected to take several years for completion. Sixty-six of the signs will be mounted on light or telephone poles while the remaining 12 will be mounted on existing street marker poles.

All but two of the first consignment of 208 signs will be of the four-way variety, while the remaining two will be two-way markers, to be placed on Baltimore Avenue at Central YMCA and on Williams Street at the one-way street known as "old Williams Street."

Most of the street markers on Bedford Street will be reconditioned rather than replaced, while new signs will be placed at unmarked intersections along that street.

Main artery streets on which the present shipment of signs will be placed at intersections include Baltimore Street, Mechanic, Liberty, Centre, George, Washington, Cumberland, Fayette, Henderson Avenue, Thomas, Maryland, Louisiana, Virginia and Baltimore Avenues, Oldtown Road, Park, Green, Bedford and Williams.

Baker Gets 60 Days In Theft

A man booked as James R. Baker, this city, was sentenced to 60 days in County Jail yesterday after he pleaded guilty in Trial Magistrates Court to a charge of stealing a motor from the Wilson Hardware Company last Wednesday.

Sentence was passed by Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr. The motor was valued at $20.

Samuel Blank, 314 Broadway, charged with the theft of a $70 watch from the Cumberland Loan Company Friday afternoon, was released yesterday from County Jail, where he had been held under $500 bond for action of the October Grand Jury.

Blank waived a preliminary hearing earlier in the day in Trial Magistrates Court and was committed to jail until posting bond.

Detective Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said Blank walked into the loan company store and picked up a watch from a counter while the clerk was busy. The watch is owned by R. N. Ambrose, Central YMCA.

Blank was arrested by Officer Theodore M. Rose on Baltimore Street, and Lilya said the watch was found in his possession at Police Headquarters.

Self Defense Is Given As Motive

James Kelly Perdew, 47, who gave his address as two miles east of Bedford, at 1 o'clock this morning admitted to the bludgeon slaying of Frank Willison, 78-year-old employe and inmate of the Bedford County home, Sunday night, according to H. A. Clark, Bedford assistant chief of police.

Perdew said he killed Willison by striking him over the head with a wine bottle that he bought for the county home inmate several hours before.

Police quoted Perdew, who was arrested by Bedford city and Pennsylvania State Police at 1:30 p. m. (EST) yesterday, as saying he met Willison Sunday morning and purchased the wine for the elderly man after Willison requested it.

Perdew said that after he bought the wine he returned to a previously arranged meeting place where he found Willison and they began to drink the wine. A quarrel and fight resulted, police quoted Perdew as saying, adding that the victim allegedly drew a knife on Perdew, who claims he then struck Willison with the quart bottle in self defense.

Grilled Over 12 Hours

Police said they obtained Perdew's confession at 1 o'clock this morning after continuous grilling from 1:30 p. m. on Tuesday.

The body of the elderly man was found Sunday afternoon near the old Bedford Feed Mill. Police said the victim suffered a fractured skull, a three-inch gash on the head and a fractured jaw.

Assistant Chief Clark said he arrested Perdew Tuesday after interviews with several persons between Sunday and yesterday placed Perdew in the vicinity of the feed mill Sunday.

Perdew, according to Pennsylvania State Police who also assisted in the investigation, was arrested on South Richards Street, Bedford, where he was loitering yesterday, officers said.

Following questioning early this morning, Perdew was committed to the Bedford County jail where he is held without bond pending further investigation of the crime.

Police said they have not learned yet where Perdew went after striking Willison the fatal blow and added they do not know what caused the fight that led to the fatal blow being struck.

The first break in the bludgeoning death of Willison, came late last night when Bedford police confirmed a report that a man had been arrested and was being questioned in connection with the case.

The body of Willison was found late Sunday near the railroad station in Bedford, Pa., bearing four marks on the back of his head. Police said the body was discovered by Ned Russell of Bedford, lying in a distorted position under a tree at the west end of the Bedford Feed Mill.

Had 25 Cents

Bedford Chief of Police O. J. Stiffler said Willison was seen in Bedford Saturday and declared the man was a frequent and well known visitor to Bedford.

When the body was discovered, Willison had 25 cents in a pocket of his clothing. His hat and a cane he always carried were lying carefully on the grass, as if he placed them there and sat down. The place where the body was discovered was described as a "popular loafing place."

No motive could be found for the apparent murder, but marks on the aged man's head showed he had been struck a brutal blow from behind with a heavy weapon, or possibly four lighter blows with a smaller weapon, authorities said.

Willison was born in Hewitt, Bedford County, a son of the late Jeris and Emily Robinette Willison. For the past 15 years he had been employed as a baker at the County Home and in recent years resided there.

A funeral service for the victim was held yesterday afternoon in the Geisel Funeral Home, Bedford, with interment in Prosperity Cemetery, near Chaneysville.

Bakery Workers Plan Meeting On Contract Offer

To Act On Companies' "Final" Proposals

A special meeting of members of Local 246, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union, AFL, has been called for 2 p. m. Saturday at Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Charles W. Robinette, union business agent, said last night the meeting had been called secure union action on what he termed the final contract offers of four area bakeries.

No details of the proposed contract have been announced, but the 150 union members recently rejected an offer of a two and a half cents an hour increase.

The negotiations between the bakeries and the union have been at a stalemate since late in June. The union's contract with Schmidt, Community and Ort's bakeries here and McIntyre's at Westernport expired May 1, but it was a continuing contract and will remain in effect during contract negotiations.

Robinette said the union first asked a 25-cent an hour increase, but later dropped the figure to 15 cents an hour after the companies made their two-and-a-half cents offer.

Harold Dixon, union president, reported that the main difficulties revolved around the wage hike proposals. The union won a union security election held in June by the National Labor Relations Board, and has the right to incorporate a union shop clause in the contract.

After the talks became deadlocked, James T. Holden, federal conciliator, attended meetings between union and company representatives.

Three Injured In Car-Truck Crash

Three girls were injured, none seriously, in a truck-car collision on the Hoffman Road near Eckhart at 10:45 p. m. yesterday.

The girls, all of whom were treated at Miners Hospital, are Mary Jennings, 17, Frostburg; Ruth Smeltz, 18, Frostburg, and Zoe Leatherman, 17, National. The nature of their injuries was still undetermined early this morning, but it was indicated they were not seriously hurt.

Trooper Harry S. Bosley of the State Police, who investigated, said a car operated by Donald T. Connor, 20, Eckhart, was descending a hill near a detour on the road when he passed a truck operated by Orville R. Butler, 32, Star Route, Frostburg, which was going uphill.

The left front of the car struck the left rear of the mine-prop-loaded truck as the vehicles passed, Bosley said. The impact turned the car around and left the rear wheels hanging over a culvert. The girls were occupants of the car.

The accident occurred about 100 feet east of the C. and P. Railroad crossing, where the road is narrow, Bosley said, adding that no charges would be preferred as the accident was apparently unavoidable.

Unions Seek Contract At American Stores

Contract negotiations between the American Stores Company and Local 886, Retail Clerks, and Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, both AFL, will open Friday in Bedford, Pa.

About 125 employes in stores in this area will be affected. The present contract expires October 3 and the union is asking a 25 cent increase in the new agreement.

C. E. Stutzman, acting business agent for the Clerks Union, and Mike Roth, international representative of the Meat Cutters, will head the union negotiators.

Local 1874 To Vote On Dues Increase

Special meetings will be held tonight at 8 o'clock and tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in the Maryland State Armory, South Centre Street, for action on a proposal to increase the dues of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, from $1.50 to $2 a month.

The local last week called a special meeting at the union hall for the reading of the proposal.

The measure was unanimously approved August 11 after members heard the terms of a contract settlement with the Celanese firm granting a 15 cent hourly boost for some 8,000 workers of the Amcelle plant. The next day, Playford Aldridge, union president, announced that the action must be advertised and special meetings held for reading and action to conform with the by-laws of the local.

City Manager Plan:

Cities Provide Services, Save With Manager Plan

Chairman of the Council, National Municipal League

Outmoded state constitutions and various legal obstacles make it difficult to adopt the Council-Manager plan in some states, notably Illinois and Indiana. Yet of the 107 American cities with populations between 50,000 and 100,000, 33—or almost one-third—are operating under the plan. These include Berkeley, Glendale, Pasadena, Sacramento and San Jose, California; Covington, Kentucky; Jackson, Kalamazoo, Pontiac and Saginaw, Michigan; New Rochelle, Niagara Falls and Schenectady, New York; Asheville, Charlotte, Durham and Greensboro, North Carolina; Cleveland Heights, Hamilton and Springfield, Ohio; Austin, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Waco, Texas; Roanoke, Virginia; Wheeling, West Virginia; and Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Schenectady began operation under the city manager plan in January, 1936. The net cash deficit of $121,810 which the city had on its hands was transformed by the end of 1937 to a net cash surplus of $64,949. At the same time the tax rate was reduced $1.19 and the bonded debt by $610,263.

Consolidations Says Expense

Welfare activities were consolidated for greater efficiency and an annual administrative saving of $27,000. A policy of buying for cash saved more than $3,000 in discounts alone from June 1 to the end of the year, besides other savings in lower prices. A department of parks and recreation and a bureau of traffic and city planning were established and the two old departments of public service and engineering were consolidated to form the department of engineering and public works at an administrative saving of $10,000 annually.

While these and other economies were being made, services and improvements increased. Fire department reorganization boosted effectiveness 10% and made the fire loss the lowest in 16 years. Two-way radio was installed for the police. Streets were widened and improved, a new park was completed, and the clinic work of the health department was expanded.

Pasadena Met Emergency

When a flood damaged the municipal golf course and the flood control channel to the extent of $300,000, Pasadena's city manager was not alarmed. He knew the city had $650,000 as a reserve for capital outlays and emergencies.

During 1937 Pasadena increased its general fund balance by more than $130,000, paid in advance its 10-year obligation for $400,000 worth of Boulder Dam machinery and paid in advance $300,000 or 20% of its obligations to the Los An-

The Weather

The city sweltered yesterday, especially in the downtown section where unofficial temperatures were reported as high as 95. However, the official reading taken in Constitution Park showed a maximum of 88, with 78 at 8 p. m. and 71 at 11 p. m. The minimum for the day was 62 at 4 a. m. with 65 recorded at 8 a. m. There was no rainfall, and indications late last night pointed to warmer and continued dry weather today. The official prediction calls for "sunny and warmer weather."

John Morgan, LaVale, Ends 34 Years Of Operation As Grocer In Cumberland

John Morgan, LaVale, who has been in the grocery business in Cumberland since 1914, announced yesterday that he is turning over his store at 107 South Lee Street in the Greene-Lee Apartment Building to C. P. Phares, this city, a former wholesale dealer.

The store's trade name of "Morgan Brothers Market" will continue in use for the time being. Financial details of the transaction were not disclosed.

Morgan emphasized that operation of the market will remain the same, and that all of the five regular employes will continue working there. No alteration of the store premises is planned, he added.

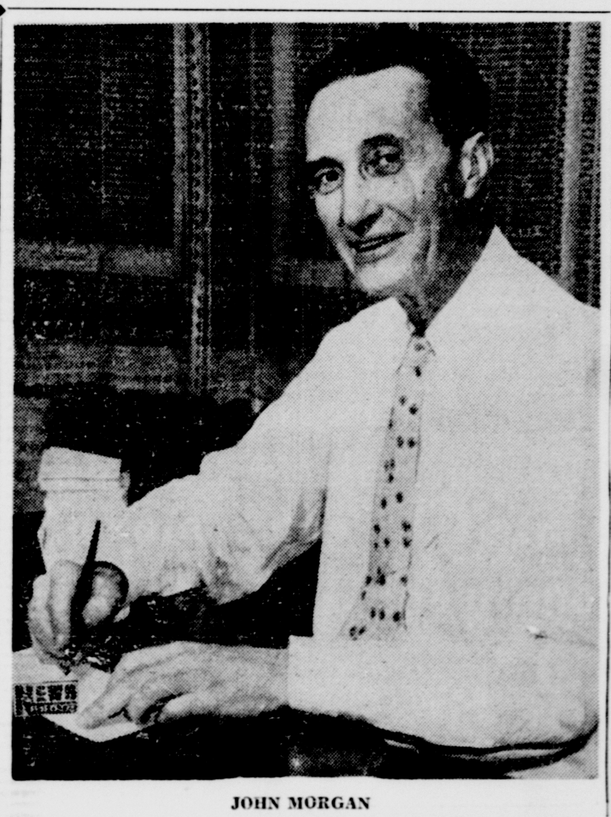

He explained that he would not have made arrangements for selling the business if those conditions had not been agreed upon, because of his obligation to his customers.

The store, located on the first floor of the three-story building owned by Robert W. Young, has been in operation at that site since June, 1936, three months after the disastrous St. Patrick's Day flood wiped out the store which Morgan previously operated at 25 North Mechanic Street.

After having been "flooded out" three times at the North Mechanic Street location, twice in 1924 and again in 1936 Morgan decided "that was enough for me," and moved to the present location.

Although he is retiring from the grocery business, Morgan stated definitely that his active business life is not over, although he was not
